COLONEL JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

By Capt. Richard Henry Greene.

Bishop Sterne has said: "Death opens the gate of fame, and shuts the gate of envy after it." A recent public calamity brought the name of Col. John Jacob Astor into a foremost place—for when the Titanic sank in mid-ocean on the 15th of April, last, in that sudden and awful ending of the giant-ship with its myriad souls of every class, which shocked the entire world—he proved himself a hero. Longfellow's beautiful lines came to me as I read of his unselfishness:

"Better and purer and fairer,
The spirit of self-abnegation," and Bret Hart echoed all the world's verdict on Jim Bludsoe of the Prairie Bell: "For Christ 'aint going to be too hard on a fellow who died for man." While the Scripture tells us: "All that a man has will he give for his life," and we have all seen it proved, again and again, yet when in the midst of excited thousands, madly shrieking, praying, cursing, fighting selfishly to save themselves, anyone quietly awaits death, surrendering his place to women and to strangers, and steps back on the sinking vessel without a hope or a friend, I say: It was heroic, it was sublime!

The Astor family begins with Jacob[1] Astor of Waldorf, in the Duchy of Baden, Germany. His son John Jacob,[2] born in the same place, July 17, 1763, came to America in Nov., 1783, he landed and settled in New York City; two years later he married Sarah, daughter of Adam and Sarah Todd, of 8 Queen Street, where he lived and carried on his business. He died March 29, 1848. Their third child and eldest son was William B.[3] Astor, born Sept. 10, 1792; married Margaret Rebecca Armstrong, daughter of Gen. John and Alida Livingston Armstrong. William B.[3] Astor was born at the corner of Broadway and Vesey Street, where his father afterwards built the Astor House; he died at his home, 350 Fifth Avenue, Nov. 24, 1875, where the Waldorf-Astoria now stands.

Their fifth child and second son was William[4] Astor, born July 12, 1830; married Sept. 23, 1853, Caroline, daughter of Abraham Schermerhorn; he graduated at Columbia College (A. B.), 1849, and died at Paris, France, April 25, 1892.

William[4] Astor, while a thorough business man, was fond of country life, which was shown by the extensive improvements at his beautiful estate at Rhinebeck on the Hudson, called Ferncliff, which he bought and improved until it reached a state of great beauty and productiveness.

He took great pleasure in yachts and horses, and owned many of each; his first yacht, the Ambassadress, perhaps the largest and finest yacht then launched, was followed in 1884, by the steam yacht Nourmahal, which was built for him, and was one of the finest yachts of its day.

Mr. Astor built a railroad from St. Augustine to Palatka, Florida, in 1875; he also built up and improved the city of Jacksonville; his services in these matters were appreciated to such an extent that the State made a grant to him of eighty thousand acres of land.

He had five children, all daughters but the youngest, John Jacob[5] Astor, born July 13, 1864, graduated at Harvard University (B. S.), 1888; married Feb. 17, 1891, Ava L. Willing, daughter of Edward S. Willing of Philadelphia, Pa. They had:

William Vincent[6] Astor, born Nov. 15, 1891.
Ava Alice Muriel[6] Astor, born July 7, 1902.

He was married (2) to Madeline, daughter of Wm. H. Force, of this city, at Newport, R. I., Sept. 9, 1911. One child:

John Jacob[6] Astor, born Aug. 14, 1912.

This little one was christened at the mother's home, No. 840 Fifth Avenue, Dec. 3, 1912, and is the sixth of the name, nevertheless only the original John Jacob,[2] above, and his father, John Jacob,[5] being in his direct ancestry. The second John Jacob,[3] Jr., met with an accident in early life and lived in retirement at 14th Street and 9th Avenue until he died, unmarried. The third of the name is Col. John Jacob,[4] eldest son of William B.,[3] born June 10, 1822, died Dec. 22, 1889, the father of William Waldorf[5] Astor. The subject of this sketch is the fourth; and the son of William Waldorf[5] Astor, is the fifth and quite recently the last of the name.

The late Col. Astor received his title as A. D. C. on the Staff of Gov. L. P. Morton; when the war with Spain broke out he was made Lieut.-Colonel, U. S. Volunteers, May 15, 1898. He presented to the United States the Astor Battery of Artillery and later served at the South and in Cuba, including siege of Santiago. He was detailed by Gen. Shafter to deliver the official terms of surrender to the Secretary of War. He was mustered out of the U. S. service, Nov. 1, 1898, with the brevet rank of Colonel.

He had a residence in New York, also at Rhinebeck, N. Y., called "Ferncliff," where he was the largest contributor to the Episcopal Church, and of which he was a vestryman; he had pews in St. Thomas Church and Trinity Chapel in this city.

His mother belonged to one of the old Dutch families here: Jacob Janse[1] Schermerhorn came from Holland to Fort Orange (Albany) in 1640; he died there in 1690; Simon,[2] his son was married in 1683, to Willemsie Winne; John,[3] of the next generation was born in 1684; his son John,[4] born 1715, married Sarah Cannon, 1741; Peter,[5] their son, was born 1749, married Elizabeth Bussing; Abraham,[6] born 1783, married Helen White, were the parents of the Colonel's mother, Caroline[7] Schermerhorn.

His grandmother belonged to the prominent and patriotic family of Armstrong; she was daughter of John, b. Nov. 25, 1758, who left Princeton College during the Revolution, was on the staff of Gen. Hugh Mercer, until his death, then on the staff of Gen. Horatio Gates. He was Secretary of State and Adjutant-General of Pennsylvania until 1787, when he was elected to Congress, in 1800 and again in 1803 he was chosen U. S. Senator, and 1804 Minister Plenipotentiary to France; in 1812 he was Brig.-General, U. S. A., and in 1813–14, Madison made him Secretary of War of the U. S. He died at Red Hook, N. Y., April 1, 1843.

Gen. John Armstrong (the father of the last named Gen. John Armstrong), was a native of Pennsylvania, Colonel in the French and Indian War, where he headed an expedition against the Kittaning tribe of Indians in 1756, destroyed their village and captured the French supplies. He was made Brig.-General in 1776, and did gallant service at Fort Moultre and at Charleston, and the following year at Brandywine and Germantown. At the close of 1777, he resigned and was elected to the Continental Congress. He died at Carlisle, Pa., March 9, 1795.

The mother-in-law of William B. Astor (as shown above) is descended from Robert[1] Livingston, first Lord of the Manor of Livingston, born Dec. 13, 1654, at Ancrim, Scotland; he married July 7, 1679, Alida, born Feb. 28, 1656, daughter of Philip Pieterse Schuyler and Margareta Van Schlectenhorst, his wife, widow of Rev. Nicholas Van Rensselaer, she was born Feb. 28, 1656, and died March 27, 1729. His son was Robert[2] Livingston, first proprietor of Clermont Manor, born July 24, 1688, and died June 27, 1775. He married Margaret Howarden of New York, Nov. 11, 1717. His son was Robert R.[3] Livingston, born Aug., 1718, married Dec. 8, 1742, Margaret, daughter of Col. Henry Beekman, who was baptized March 1, 1724; she died in June, 1800. He held many prominent positions and was Judge of the Supreme Court of this Colony from 1763 to 1775; he died Dec. 9 of that year. His daughter was Alida[4] Livingston, born Dec. 24, 1761, married Jan. 19, 1789, John Armstrong, named before; she died Dec. 24, 1822.*

* Still another ancestor, Adam Todd, also from Scotland, has been shown in the RECORD, vol. xxiii, p. 15; also the Beekman Family from Keulen, Holland, in vol. xix, p. 41; the Schuyler Family from Amsterdam, Holland, vol. ii, p. 190, with the joint wills of Philip Pieterse Schuyler and Margaretta Van Schlectenhorst, vol. i, p. 18.

Such was the ancestry of this man, and from them came the large possessions which occupied much of his time. He was largely the builder of hotels; the first being the Astoria adjoining the Waldorf, now consolidated in the management as the Waldorf-Astoria. He also built the St. Regis on Fifth Avenue, and the Knickerbocker at Broadway and 42nd Street, New York City.

Col. Astor's scientific education at Harvard has been followed up in practical lines; he has designed many inventions and improvements of great utility, which he has patented. In John William Leonard's History of the City of New York, 1609–1909, the following description appears: "One of the earliest of these inventions was his Pneumatic Road Improver, invented in 1892, which received a first prize at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago, 1893. The machine is designed to facilitate the thorough and rapid removal of worn-out material, or detritus, from the road bed by blowing. . . . Another useful invention is the brake for use on bicycles having solid tires. . . . In 1902 he patented a marine turbine engine which he gave to the public. . . . The turbine is shaped like a funnel and comprises an outer shell or drum and an inner shaft running axially through it, these parts being relatively rotable and each having oppositely set spiral blades. . . . A recent important invention is the Vibratory Disintegrator. The enormous peat deposits presented a baffling problem to the inventor." He has devised what he terms a vibratory disintegrator, a device which manufactures producer gas from peat. He has given these patents to the public.

His latest invention is a steamship chair. It is a simple device by means of which a chair may be firmly held to the floor, and yet may be easily released and moved. . . . The scheme involves the use of a vacuum cup beneath the chair, so mounted that it may be pressed into engagement with the deck or floor, to hold the chair by suction, or the vacuum may be broken, the cup lifted and the chair released.

Col. Astor has invaded other fields of science, astronomy and mechanics, and these are shown in his book published in 1894, entitled: A Journey in Other Worlds; A Romance of the Future; a work of fiction based on science, dealing with life on the planets Saturn and Jupiter.

He was a Director in the Astor Trust Co., Central R. R. Co., Mercantile Trust Co., Morton Trust Co., National Park Bank, Niagara Falls Power Co., Plaza Bank, Western Union Telegraph Co., Delaware and Hudson Co.; Trustee of N. Y. Life Insurance and Trust Co. and Title Guarantee and Trust Co., Member of the Hudson-Fulton Commission; Member of the N. Y. Chamber of Commerce, Academy of Science, American Geographical Society, the Zoological Society and Botanical Gardens, N. WEMPLE GENEALOGY.

COMPILED BY WILLIAM BARENT WEMPLE, JR.

At the time of the publication of the "Wemple Genealogy," in 1904-5, in the N. Y. GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD (vol. 35, Nos. 3, 4, and vol. 36, Nos. 1, 2. 3), no statement was made as to the country from which the original ancestor emigrated because sufficient material had not then been gathered to warrant an exact location and it was felt that this feature might better not be touched upon than to make a grievous error. Information has since been discovered that now seems to justify taking up this matter.

In vol. 36, p. 96, it was stated that no trace of Benjamin Franklin Wemple had been obtained. The publication of the Genealogy attracted the attention of one of his descendants and the compiler was thereby enabled to trace all of his descendants and the result is given in the following pages.

The N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Society has graciously consented to the printing of further data relating to the "Wemple Genealogy" in the RECORD in order that the same may be brought down a little nearer to date.

2. JAN BARENTSEN WEMPLE (continued from vol. 35, p. 191). While no efforts have been made to establish pre-American connection, nor have researches been attempted on the other side of the Atlantic to gain knowledge as to the exact place from which our common ancestor came, he apparently emigrated from Poest, in the Province of Drenthe, Holland, and the following is submitted in substantiation of making that as a statement of fact:

Of the large number of public records on file in the office of the County Clerk, Albany, N. Y., in the New York State Library, Albany, N. Y., and in possession of the Van Rensselaer family, Albany, N. Y., relating to Jan Barentsen Wemple, they all, with three or four exceptions, give his name as "Wemp." The very few and unimportant exceptions give his name as "Poest." While it has always been assumed and stated by such historians as Pearson, Munsell, and those following them, that Wemp and Poest were the same person, there has never been any actual proof of this fact until the compiler discovered among the Rensselaerwyck papers, owned by Mr. William Bayard Van Rensselaer, Albany, N. Y., the following original bill (written in Dutch and translated):

Jan Barentsz Wemp is indebted this day, April 19, 1659, at Amsterdam:

hired for him a boy, named Christiaen Christiaensz, to whom I have advanced [the following] which shall be deducted from his wages in New Netherlands, first a suit of clothes, at	f	4	10
also bought and paid for him a straw-bed, a blanket, a pillow, and a red cap, together	f	2	16
also, 3 pairs of shoes at 30 stivers a pair, and 3 shirts at 28 st. a piece, together	f	8	14
also, 2 pairs of stockings at 14 st. a pair, a chest at 32 st., also 14 st. worth of thread and lacing-strings	f	3	14
	f	19	14
[here] follow the expenses advanced by me and which must not be deducted from the boy's [wages] for the contract	f	1	4
for the passport and bringing on board of his chest and straw-bed	f	1	0
expenses in hunting up the boy and the laborers who returned the handmoney, or godspenny, and [for] my trouble	f	5	0

Please pay this sum of f 26 18 with one percent [advance] to my brother, Jeremias, in N[ew] Netherland. JAN BAPTIST VAN RENSSELAER.

No. 7.

Account of Jan barentsz
poest. X

I hereby certify that the above is a true and correct translation of the original and was made by me.

Archivist, N. Y. State Library.

Albany, N. Y., June 29, 1904.

The above original account is proof positive that Wemp and Poest were one and the same person, because the face of it was made out in Amsterdam, Holland, at the home-office and headquarters of the Rensselaerwyck Colony, and there they would be very careful to write the name as nearly correct as possible and it is borne out by the records in the Colony itself that it was so done. The account was sent over to the Colony at Albany, from Holland, for collection (or charging up against Wemp's account). When received at the Colony, it was folded for filing away, and on the back of the account was endorsed its number (7) and the name of the debtor. Instead of endorsing the debtor's correct name on the back, the clerk endorsed the nickname by which Wemp was sometimes known, being that of "Poest." From the evidence of the records, it is apparent he was not called that to exclusion of his correct name, as was the case in many instances. It was customary at that period in our history, when patronymics were comparatively rare excepting among the more prominent families, to give a man a name that derived its significance from his occupation, place of residence in the mother country or here, prominence or defect of some mental or physical characteristic, and, in fact, jokes and unusual situations have contributed to fasten names upon men that have descended to the present generation. In other cases men have borne a regular family name and have been given an additional one derived from some of the above mentioned sources. This was the situation with regard to Jan Barentsen Wemp. The reason he was called "Poest" was because he came here from Poest, which is a small settlement in Holland, in the Province of Drenthe. In the third edition of Aardrijkskundig Handwoordenboek van Nederland, by S. Gille Heringa, published by G. A. Van Hoften, Utrecht, 1874, it is stated that Poest is a thinly settled locality or hamlet, 15 minutes Southeast of Norg.

Another record which indicates that he was from Holland is one on file in Albany (N. Y.) County Clerk's office in a book labelled "Mortgages, No. 1, 1652–1660," on page 158 thereof, dated July 15, 1659, wherein is recorded a suit brought by Wemp against Adrian Symonson for the recovery of 15 beavers "which the deft. has taken with him to Holland to deliver to plaintiff's wife but which she has not received." This shows that Wemp's wife was on a visit to Holland in 1659 and presumptive evidence that they were Netherlanders.

In this connection the compiler wishes to state that when the material regarding our first American ancestor was printed in the RECORD, vol. 35, No. 3, pp. 191, 192, it was not understood that space would be permitted for referring to the various records to authenticate the statement made. In view of that omission it is therefore desirable to say at this time that every statement made therein was based on records filed in the Albany County Clerk's Office, the New York State Library, or the Rensselaerwyck Colony Records and a copy in each instance, certified by the officer in charge of the records, under seal of his office, is in the possession of the compiler. Most of the original records are written in Dutch and the translations are also certified to by a competent translator, in the majority of instances this being done by Mr. Dingman Versteeg, for years the official translator connected with the Holland Society of New York. This statement is also true as regards any reference in the genealogy to Colonial and Revolutionary military connections. In fact, the compiler has in no case taken any dates or other information from printed books but has in every instance gone to the only accurate source of knowledge in such matters, which is to the original church and other records themselves. Of course, it is to be expected that errors have crept in, as they seem inevitable in a work of this character and some that have been discovered will be corrected in the following pages. One of the first corrections to be made is as follows:

7. Myndert Wemple. Children:

Anna, bap. Dec. 22, 1722; m. Nicholas Van Petten, Oct. 24, 1747; on p. 194, vol. 35, it was stated that she d. about 1748. This is an error, as she was devised property (Feb. 24, 1776,) by her niece Jannetje, dau. of Hendrick(8), and Mr. and Mrs. Van Petten are named executor and executrix of the estate.

20. Barent Wemple (Barnabas Wemp). He was baptized in Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 3, 1738. His sister, Jannetje, mentions him in her will as her eldest brother, devising to him five shillings, and in describing a piece of land which she leaves to her aunt, she describes it as being bounded on the East by land belonging to her brothers Barent and Arent. It is supposed that he lived a short distance from Schenectady city on the road to Niskayuna but possibly his home lot is now included in the present city limits.

In the muster-roll of Capt. Daniel Campbell's Schenectady Company, returned May 1, 1767, and preserved in vol. 14, p. 209, of "Sir Wm. Johnson Manuscripts," in the State Library, Albany, N. Y., he is listed as a private in the company.

He was a private in the First Regiment of the Line, during part of the Revolutionary War, under Col. G. Van Schaick. (See copy of letter from Record and Pension Office, Washington, D. C., attached).

During the latter part of the Revolutionary War he became a "Loyalist," and fled from the Mohawk Valley to Canada, leaving behind land and other property. About 1840, his sons John and William visited the Mohawk Valley for the purpose of securing the property left by the father upon his removal to Canada, but of course they were unsuccessful.

His grandchildren remember well the stories related time and again by his wife, how on leaving New York State, they went to Niagara, crossed over to what was then known as Little York, now the city of Toronto. From there they went in batteaux, a sort of rowboat used then, to Kingston, at the port of the Bay of Quintie, and from there went to the Isle of Tantie, as at that time called, but now known as Amherst Island. Here they made their permanent home and are buried on their own farm.

In a book entitled The Centennial of the Settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire of Loyalists, 1784–1884, published by the Centennial Committee and printed, 1885, by Rose Publishing Co., Toronto, is a copy of the original "Old United Empire List" preserved in the Crown Land Department at Toronto, which states that "Barnabas Wemp (Wimpel), residence Kingston, soldier in Col. Guy Johnson's Forresters (Owen Robbin's affidavit, 1807). Land Board of Mecklenburg, 1791. G. H., 1785–100. Provision List of Kingston says he belonged to Royal Regiment of New York in 1786. (Stamped Book.)"

It will be noticed, by referring to the letter from Record and Pension Office, that he was called "Wemp" on all the rolls of Col. Van Schaick's regiment in the Revolution, showing that he was so called during his residence in New York State. This short form of the name he retained on removing to Canada and was known by that only, which name has been retained by all his descendants to the present day. The fact that his correct name was "Wemple" is shown by the insertion in parenthesis of the English form "Wimpel," after the name "Wemp" in the Old United Empire List. Further proof of this is also contained in the "Register of Baptisms for the Township of Fredericksburgh" in the baptismal record of one of his children, as follows: "Mary, daughter of Barnabas and Katreen Wemple, of Marysburgh, June 12, 1791." This record has the name written in the true form of "Wemple." The other baptismal records of their other children have it written "Wemp."

RECORD AND PENSION OFFICE, WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, City,
January 22, 1898.

Hon. James A. Roberts,
Comptroller, State of New York,
Albany.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of the 20th instant, received this morning, in which you request to be furnished with a statement of the record of Revolutionary service, and a tracing of the signature, of Barent Wemple, a private of Colonel Wyncoop's Regiment, also similar information relative to Barent Wemp, a private of Colonel Van Schaick's Regiment, I beg to advise you as follows:

The records on file in this office show that Barent Wemple was a member (rank not stated) of Captain Gerrit S. Veeder's Company "in the Regiment of Forces of the United Colonies raised in and for the defence of the Colony of New York," which was commanded by Colonel Cornelius D. Wyncoop, Revolutionary War. The name of the soldier appears only on a company muster roll covering the period from March 1, to May 23, 1776, which shows that he enlisted April 11, 1776, but affords no further information with regard to him. No document bearing his signature has been found on file.

The name of Barent Wemp(?) (also spelled Wemp*le*) appears as that of a private in Captain John Copp's Company of the 1st Battalion of New York Forces, Commanded by Colonel Goose Van Schaick, Revolutionary War. His name first appears on a company muster roll covering the period from November 21, 1776, to June 5, 1777, which shows that he enlisted December 28 (year not stated) for the period of the war. He is reported, without remark, on rolls of the company up to and including the roll for the month of May, 1778. The roll for June, 1778, reports him "Absent without leave and supposed to be sick," and the rolls covering the period from July to December, 1778, report him as "Sick at Prince Town." Later rolls up to and including that for the month of December, 1779, report him "Sick at Trentown, June 28, 1778." The roll for January and February, 1780, shows him "Transferred to Corps of Invalids." No further record of him has been found nor has any paper bearing his signature been found on the files of the office.

With very kind regards for yourself personally, I am Very respectfully,

(signed) F. C. Ainsworth,

Colonel, U. S. Army,

Chief, Record and Pension Office.

The name Barnabas is merely the English form of the Holland Dutch given-name Barent and was no doubt more familiar to those living in Canada.

He was married, Dec. 11, 1779, to Catherine Gates, who died Aug. 27, 1843. Her father's name was probably Michael Gates, but this has not yet been verified. They both died in the same year, as the following records, found by Rev. James Cumberland, Stella, Ont., in the old Register of the Anglican Church there will show: "Catherine Wemp, U. E. Loyalist, date of interment August 29th, 1843; Barnabas Wemp, U. E. Loyalist, date of interment December 27th, 1843; Both at McDonald's." Mr. Cumberland says this is the little plat where the son-in-law McDonald had buried one or two of his family where the Cairn with Cross now stands. He says he thinks her designation as "U. E. Loyalist" is presumptive evidence that she came with him to Canada from the States. Children:

Dutchess County, New York State; d. Nov. 6, 1863, at Portland, Ionia County, Mich.

Early in life he removed to Canada and for many years was not in communication with relatives and this gave rise to the report that he had died unmarried and without issue. This statement seemed so well authenticated that it was published as a fact in the RECORD, vol. 36, p. 96, and only recently discovered to be an error. He remained in Canada until about 1840, when he went to Michigan and lived there up to the time of his death. Children:

FOUR GENERATIONS IN AMERICA, OF THE HUGUENOT FAMILY OF STELLE.

By Maud Burr Morris, of Washington, D. C.

"He only deserves to be remembered by posterity who treasures up and preserves the history of his ancestors."—Edmund Burke.

To many persons it is incomprehensible that anyone can feel such absorbing interest as to devote months, and even years, to genealogical research, metaphorically digging their ancestors' bones from forgotten graves in the cemetery of the past. They have no sympathy with the enthusiasm displayed by the searcher, as the neglected story of by-gone days is unfolded, bit by bit, like a picture puzzle, before his mental gaze. It needs not the discovery of ancient grandeur, position, wealth or fame, to arouse this enthusiasm, the mere satisfaction of solving baffling problems and unravelling the right thread from a tangled web of interwoven facts and traditions are reward enough, and frequently considerable skill and ingenuity are required to decide authentically which is fact and which tradition. There is a certain sense of obligation or duty, as well as pleasure, in rescuing from oblivion and preserving to posterity the results of patient study and arduous investigation, made in the face of numerous obstacles.

It is not my purpose, however, to write a defense of genealogical research, but to give the results in the case of some of my own ancestors, beginning with my great-great-great-great-grandfather, Poncet Stelle, Sieur des Loriers, a French Huguenot, who left his native land sometime prior to the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, and in whom much interest appears to be manifesting itself among his descendants, after more than two and a half centuries of oblivion.

One of the main factors of success in the fight for independence made by our forefathers, was their strength of character inherited from the earliest settlers of this country, most of whom were earnest men and women of sound principles and firm religious convictions.

The influence of the Dutch and English on our national character and customs, is patent to all and need not be dwelt upon here; and however narrow-minded and tyrannical the Puritans may have been considered, the value of the impression left by their stern, unforgiving creed cannot now be overestimated, with due regard to the softening touch of "time's effacing fingers." The Quakers, while equally tenacious of their principles, conservatively forebore from forcing them on their neighbors, and their steady ways and well-defined code of justice, leading to success in all undertakings, did much to attract colonists to their settlements. The Welch and Swedish farmers were also well-to-do and desirable stock in settling certain sections of the country.

But in this great "melting pot" of the nations, it was left to the French Huguenot to bring into the composite national "make-up" the sparkle of wit, the love of art, music and languages, in short, the French vivacity so desirable in conjunction with the more stable qualities furnished by other nations. No country ever lost in so short a space of time, such a number of its better class of citizens, as did France in the seventeenth century. Ready to suffer for the truth and to sacrifice all pleasant associations and home-ties, these pious men and women resolutely turned their faces from home and friends, bound for the haven of unrestricted exercise of religious belief. The Huguenots were exceptionally versatile, and it is due to this fact that they were able to turn their hands to any occupation that offered, bringing the Frenchman's cheerfulness and traditional light-heartedness to the task.

Among those who thus expatriated themselves we find Poncet Stelle, the progenitor of the family of that name in the United States. As he was not a man who achieved prominence in national affairs, his early life and movements are necessarily conjectural, and depend entirely on bald legal or church records, and family traditions more or less unreliable. Naturally the questions that first arise in tracing his life, are when and where was he born, and in answering them the difficulties begin at once to be apparent, as there are but two clues to guide one in even approximating the former; the first clue is found in a passport issued to one Francois Guichard in November, 1680 (of which more is said later on), in which Poncet Stelle also is mentioned as a "French gentleman," thus proving him to have reached manhood at that date; the other clue is suggested by the portrait of Poncet Stelle and that of his wife, painted in France, which have survived all the vicissitudes of flight, ocean voyages and land travels, and which alone of all his possessions, have been preserved and handed down from generation to generation and are still in a fair state of preservation. Although much discolored by time, the portrait of Poncet Stelle depicts a handsome yet benevolent looking man of about forty years of age, with dark brown curled wig, and dressed in the typical Huguenot costume of brown, devoid of all decorations. As this portrait was undoubtedly painted before living became uncertain by reason of the stirring events in France, and as Poncet Stelle probably came to this country sometime between the years 1675 and 1680, this would indicate the date at which the portraits were painted to be a few years before he left France, thus approximating the date of his birth between 1635 and 1640, and that is as near as can be determined at this late day.

As for the exact birth place of Poncet[1] Stelle, we have not even negative clues upon which to base a deduction. It has been asserted that he came from Loriers in France, but the only foundation for this claim seems to be a similarity between his name or title, and that of a town in France at the present time. As a matter of fact, "des Loriers" (or "De Laurier" as it is just as frequently given) after his name, means "of the Laurels" and is conceded to refer to an estate. This view is borne out by the Stelle coat of arms (here reproduced) which, by the way, comes from Holland and is no doubt the foundation for the statement frequently made in print, that Poncet Stelle came to America by way of Holland. The coat of arms and crest are as follows (no motto being known to the writer):

Stelle de Compostella. P'd Utrecht.

Arms:—D'arg, a trois tiges de sa expal, 2 et 1, chacune portant au bout supérieur deux feuilles du même.

Crest:—Un voi a l'antique; aux armes de l'écu.

(Translated as follows: Province of Utrecht. Arms, of silver, with three twigs of sable in empalement, two above one, each bearing at upper extremity two leaves of same style. Crest, an antique wing, or pair of antique wing, over the armes in the shield). The twigs are of laurel.

It would be difficult to give the exact meaning of the expression "Sieur," as it is now obsolete, but it is practically equivalent to the English "squire," and meant "Sir" or "Lord of a Manor," and in the century in which Poncet Stelle lived, was sometimes used as an abbreviation of "Seigneur." The instances of French Huguenots in the American Colonies, designated as "Sieur," were few in number. There is only one instance found of its use after a name, in reading thirty or forty pages of the Huguenot Church records in New York City, that of Poncet Stelle, Sieur des Loriers, although it use before a name is common enough, being in that case an abbreviated form of "Monsieur."

The expression "dit" as used in the record of baptism of one of Poncet' Stelle's children ("dit desloriers") signifies "alias," in its original sense, or "called," in modern language and is also rare. Some of the most interesting instances of those who were so designated, being three Huguenots who located in Woodbridge, N. J., about 1672, namely: Robert Vauquelin, Sieur des Prairies ("dit La Prairie") or Lord of "The Meadows;" René Piat, "dit La Fleur" or Lord of "The Flowers;" and Claude Vallot of Champaigne, "alias Mr. Shampaine."

Just where, and how long, the Stelles remained in the Province of Utrecht, is not known, but it was long enough for Poncet, or perhaps his father, to acquire the coat of arms, and the conferring of that honor is an attestation of his good repute. But either the too close proximity of Holland to France made it desirable for Poncet Stelle to place a greater distance between himself and his persecutors (for the Huguenots were eagerly sought out in their places of refuge in surrounding neighborhoods), or else the advantages of the "new world" were too alluring to be resisted, however it was, the restless spirit which later characterized both Poncet Stelle and his descendants "unto the third and fourth generation" soon manifested itself, and once more he gathered his household gods together and emigrated, this time to the West Indies, perhaps because the Dutch trade led in that direction, or more likely, because of the large Huguenot colony already established on the Island of St. Christopher. Contrary to the tradition in most families, that three brothers "went sailing out into the West," Poncet[1] Stelle was the only one of his family to make the new world the goal of his ambitions, some of them having gone to South Africa, and perhaps being represented in the present generation by General Delarey of Boer War fame.

Poncet Stelle's life in his new abode is as much shrouded in silence and mystery as when in France and Holland. I have not been able to find any ship's register containing his name; it is possible that he may have sailed under an assumed one to elude capture, as all vessels sailing from France and neighboring ports were relentlessly searched for escaping Huguenots.

M. Adrien Desalles, in his "Históire Générale Des Antilles" fails to mention him in a "Role Générale Des Habitants de St. Christophe" although there is a "Guillaume de Lauriers" in the "Compagnie Du Sieur Derlincourt." The surname "De Laurier" however, is common enough and has no significance for us unless coupled with "Stelle," the family name. The said roll of inhabitants is undated and is so recited at the head of the list, but it is entered between lists of inhabitants of the Islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe, both of which lists are dated in 1671, which would indicate that Poncet Stelle came to St. Christopher later than 1671.

After a more or less extended residence in the West Indies, Poncet Stelle's next move was in the direction of America, but what particular port of entry he chose as his objective point, seems to have been a disputed question. Mr. O. B. Leonard states* that "It is a traditional statement that Poncet Stelle was one of the early French settlers on Staten Island, afterwards moving to New York." Others claim New York City, and even Woodbridge, N. J., as his first home in this country, but the passport above referred to, issued to Francois Guichard and naming Poncet Stelle, proves beyond doubt that they came to Massachusetts. As I do not recall any sketch or article concerning Poncet Stelle, giving more than an extract from this passport,† I will enter it in its entirety, as it is quaint and interesting, and of great importance in determining certain facts in the life of this particular Huguenot refugee, and in settling certain disputed points in regard to his movements.

The most important facts to be observed, from a careful reading of this paper, are that it clearly states that Poncet Stelle was a "French gentleman," that he had, in company with Guichard, presented certificates from the French Church at St. Christophers to the Governor and Council of the Colony of Massachusetts (probably at Boston), and that they had then been permitted "with their wives and families" (showing that they had both, or at least a wife, as "family" might refer to parents or other relatives) to reside there, and that Guichard had afterwards resided in New York "for sometime," but that all this had happened before November, 1680. perhaps several years and perhaps only months. Whether or not Poncet Stelle had gone to New York with Guichard, I cannot tell, as I know of nothing to prove his presence in that city before 1686, in which year he is on record as purchasing a piece of property.

The question of the marriage of Poncet[1] Stelle naturally now arises. His wife was Eugenie Legereau, and the statement has been made in several articles, that they were married in New York City in 1682, but as has been shown, they were already married at the time Poncet Stelle left the West Indies, as there would have been no occasion to mention "wives" in the passport if only Guichard was married; but Poncet's wife was not necessarily with him when he presented his certificate to the Governor of Massachusetts, although the probabilities are that she was, or he would have been returning with Guichard "to fetch her." There is no way of finding out the date of this marriage, but that it took place in France (or even Holland) before their emigration to the West Indies, is proved by the portraits of Poncet Stelle and his wife, said to have been painted in France, both still having the original frames of French workmanship of the period of Louis XIV. Mrs. Stelle appears to be rather amazonian in proportions, but with a pleasant attractive countenance, and is wearing a lace-trimmed cap and fischu. She seems well calculated to die for her principles, if necessary.

As nothing is too trivial, no anecdote or saying too insignificant, to be included in a biographical sketch of people long dead and forgotten, the following stories may be of interest. In one of the portraits a bullet hole is plainly visible in one corner, and is accounted for in this way. During the Revolutionary War, a descendant of Poncet Stelle's, happening one day to be standing in the drawing room of her home in Trenton, while wearing a scarlet cloak, was observed by a hot-headed but patriotic passer-by, who, mistaking the cloak for a British officer's uniform, fired through the window, the bullet luckily passing through the portrait hanging on the wall, instead of the intended victim.

It is a tradition that Poncet[1] Stelle courted a nun over the walls of a convent in France, and after aiding in her escape, married her and together they came to America, where she soon died of grief from having broken her vows. It is a well known fact that in those days of persecution, women Huguenots were placed in convents to force them to become Catholics, and it is possible that there is that foundation for the tradition, and that Eugenie Legereau was thus confined in a convent and with the help of Poncet Stelle, escaped, after which the natural thing to do would be to leave the country, but that she did not die for many years is well known.

Eugenie Legereau was born at St. Martin's, which is the principal town on the Îla de Ré in the Bay of Biscay, opposite La Rochelle, France, and this may possibly have been the birthplace of Poncet Stelle too.* It has even been suggested that "De Loriers" might be a corruption of De-le-Re, from the name of this island.

The Legereaus also emigrated to the Island of St. Christopher, as the name Henry Legereau is found in Desalles' book in the roll of "Habitants non armés" in the "Compagnie du Sieur Hodem."

After reaching this country some time prior to November, 1680, Poncet[1] Stelle and wife settled in Boston, and that they remained there some few years is proved by the birth of a son in that city in 1682. The record of this is found in the report of the Record Commissioners, volume entitled "Births, Baptisms, Marriages and Deaths, 1630–1699" at Boston, page 158, reading as follows:

---

* Madelaine Vincent was born at St. Martin's and came to America with two brothers, Jean and Francois, who were naturalized in New York in 1687. Madelaine Vincent married Jean Pelletreau, who came to this country from the West Indies in 1686. Sieur Boisbelleau was naturalized in New York in 1685. These Vincents, Peletreaus and Boisbelleaus were witnesses or god-parents at the three baptisms of Poncet[1] Stelle's children recorded in the French Church in New York City, and it may be significant that the first child baptized was named Madelaine, and the third one was named Jean, and hardly named after recent acquaintances, so they may have been neighbors in France.

"1682, Peter, of Ponett & Eugene Stelle, born July 22."

The next most definite fact discovered so far, in regard to locating Poncet Stelle's movements in this country, is found in the Hall of Records in New York City, in the nature of a Deed to a piece of property in that city, the premises of which are worded as follows:

"This following Deed of Sale was Recorded for Ponsett Stelle De Laurier, the Nine and Twentieth day of Aprile One Thousand, Six hundred Eighty-six. To All Christian People to Whom this Present Writing shall come, Gabriell Minville of the Citty of New Yorke, Merchant, and Charles De Nisseau of the same place, Weaver, Send Greeting in Our Lord God Everlasting, Know Yee that the said Gabrielle Minville and Charles De Nisean for and in Consideration of a Valuable Sume of Mony to them in hand Paid att and before the Ensealing and Delivery hereof, by Ponsett Stelle De Laurier of the Citty aforesaid, Victualler, ye Receipt wherof, they, the said" &c.*

As far as I have been able to ascertain, this is the earliest date on record proving Poncet Stelle's actual residence in New York City, and it also gives his occupation—that of an Inn Keeper. As is well known the majority of the Huguenots were in almost destitute circumstances upon their arrival in this country, having left their homes in haste, without being able to dispose of estates even to gather funds belonging to them, for fear of exiting suspicion, and upon their arrival in America were compelled to resort to all sorts of occupations as a means of livelihood.

The exact date at which he left New York and took up his residence in Monmouth County, N. J., his next and last abiding place, is not known, but he, by the name of "Pounsett" Stelle was licensed by Governor Andrew Hamilton in 1693, to keep a "public house of entertainment,"† and that he was so engaged is proved by the fact that he (by the name of Pounsett Dellarie) with several others of the Township of Shrewsbury "complained of themselves" to the Grand Jury for not complying with the requirements of the law in that province, in regard to a liquor license,‡ which goes to show that he was a law abiding citizen and had no desire to evade just taxation.

He had a son baptised in New York in May, 1693, but as has been shown, was living in Monmouth County, New Jersey by

* Gabriel Minvielle came from Bordeaux and went to Amsterdam as early as 1669 and to New York about 1673. He was an Alderman in 1675 and Mayor in 1684 and held many important offices; was one of the representative men of the Province and member of the Council under four Governors of New York. He lived "in the broad way next to Balthus Bayard." His first wife was Judith Van Beeck but the wife mentioned in his Will was named Susanna. He left no children, but his Will mentioned four children of a deceased brother Pierre —Isabeau, Jean Jacques, Jane and David, and the children of a daughter of his sister Marie, who had married a man named Brinquemand. See Baird's "Huguenot Emigration to America," Vol. II, pages 139 and 140.

At the baptism of Poncet Stelle's son Jean, the god mother was "Mad^lle^ francoise Brinkman de Lambert," who signs herself "F. Brinquemand."

September of that year, so this may help in approximately determining the date of his removal to the latter place.

In 1698 Poncet[1] Stelle was a witness to a Will of Peter White at Shrewsbury (N. J. Archives), and this seems to end all record of his movements, as far as I have learned, and what finally became of him and his wife will probably never be discovered, as no information is at hand regarding their death or burial, although many Church records and grave yards both in New York and New Jersey have been searched; but Poncet Stelle probably died shortly after the year 1700 and was buried in some cemetery in Monmouth County with his wife Eugenie.

The name Stelle is frequently given in print as Stolle, Still, Stille, Steel and Stile, but in most instances it has been proved that these are merely typographical errors. There was a family by the name of Stille in New York as early as 1639, but they were Dutch pure and simple, and in no way connected with the Huguenot family in question.*

There was one Christian De Lorie, or des Lowriers, a mariner, who came to New York about 1661 with his wife, mother and sister from St. Malo, France, but there is no reason to connect him with Poncet Stelle, Sieur des Loriers, as far as I can find.

Also there is (or was, before the burning of the State Library in the Capitol at Albany, a year ago), among other papers of interest,† a letter from "Laprairie" addressed to the "Honor^{ble} Cap^{n} Brockers, Govr at New York" (meaning Governor Brockholles), dated May 15, 1678, asking him to assist the bearer, "Mr. Shampaine" (meaning Claude Vallot of Champaigne, France) in locating "one Delloryee by name, a frenchman hauing absented himselfe from the place of his aboade at Woodbridge last night and gonn towards Long Island."

There is nothing to prove that this man either, was identical with Poncet Stelle, as the fact that the certificate from the French Church at St. Christopher's is addressed to the Governor and Council of Massachusetts, makes it hardly possible that Poncet Stelle could have landed at any other port than Boston, as it would have aroused suspicion for him to have travelled around the country from place to place for several years before presenting his credentials to the persons to whom they were addressed, as the Massachusetts colonists were ever on the lookout for Catholics and suspicious individuals.

"One generation passeth away and another generation cometh."—Ecclesiastes I., 4.

Mr. Leonard states‡ that "the six sons of the French patriarch, Poncet Stelle, were born in New York City prior to 1695" and that the list of baptisms in the French Church in that city contains their names (and that of one daughter),—Benjamin, 1683; Gabriel, 1685; Ambrose, 1687; Madelaine, 1689; Isaac, 1690; John, 1693; and Eugene, 1695. But from this list, it appears that Peter, the first child of Poncet and Eugenie Stelle of whom we have any knowledge, has been overlooked, although nothing is known about him except the authentic date and place of his birth. If he had died in infancy or early childhood, his death would surely have been noted in the above mentioned volume containing the record of his birth, which also included deaths, etc. up to 1699; but such was not the case, so he in all probability was living when his parents removed to New York City.

CEMETERY INSCRIPTIONS FROM POMPEY HILL, ONONDAGA COUNTY, N. Y.

MRS. MINNIE L. KELLOGG of the Syracuse Public Library.

NOTE:—The first burying-ground of the village was in the yard, now the public green. The first burials were two children of Geo. Catlin, who died of scarlet fever. About 1802-3 a site was selected opposite Dr. Stearn's residence, but shortly after the dead were removed to the present cemetery, which was enlarged in 1823, and again in 1870. A record is kept of all interments.

The following inscriptions are from an old ruined cemetery northeast of Indian Hill, Pompey, called variously the Close, Hibbard and Ketchum burying ground, from the names of the owners of the land from which it was taken. The boys from St. John's military school at Manlius have used the stones to train their guns on, and not one is left standing. The inscriptions are from a copy made twenty-five years ago.

Since the last meeting the following deaths had been recorded: Isaac Hull Platt, M. D., Annual Member, died Aug. 14, 1912, aged 59; Adrian Hoffman Joline, Annual Member, died Oct. 15, 1912, in his 63rd year.

The Executive Committee reported the election of the following new members: William Theodore Bingham, Annual Member, Washington, D. C., proposed by R. W. Vosburgh; Webster C. Estes, Annual Member, 67 Riverside Drive, City, proposed by James Benedict; Mrs. Walter K. Griffin, Annual Member, 154 West 88th St., City, assuming membership of husband, the late Walter K. Mr. Bowen then introduced Mr. Robert Hendre Kelby, Lihrarian of the New York Historical Society, who delivered a lecture entitled "New York in the Pre-Revolutionary Period, 1765–1774," which was illustrated by many stereopticon views.

At the close of the lecture Mr. James Benedict spoke of Mr. Kelby as one of the greatest authorities on the history of New York, and moved that a real hearty vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Kelby.

Hon. Asa Bird Gardiner seconded the motion and spoke of Mr. Kelby's great fund of historical information as well of his brother, William Kelby, the predecessor of Mr. Robert Hendre Kelby as Librarian of the New York Historical Society, and his meeting Mr. John Austin Stevens at the New York Historical Society in 1875 as to forming a patriotic society in this city, which resulted in the forming of the Sons of the Revolution.

Vote of thanks was unanimously carried.

The President invited Mr. Kelby to lecture on the Revolution at the December meeting of this Society.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned to the Library where the members and their guests were served with refreshments.

DECEMBER 14TH, 1912.

Instead of Friday evening, December 13th, the regular monthly meeting of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society was held on the afternoon of Saturday, December 14th, 1912, at 4 o'clock, to do honor to the Rt. Hon. James Bryce, who will shortly resign as British Ambassador to the United States and return to England. President Bowen in the Chair.

The President then introduced Rt. Hon. James Bryce, and the Hons. Joseph H. Choate and Charles Francis Adams of Boston.

Letter of regret had been received from Mr. Andrew Carnegie who could not get back from Washingtom in time to attend the meeting.

The rooms were crowded and the meeting was in every way successful.

At the close of the addresses a motion of thanks was made by Gen. Wilson, seconded by Mr. George Austin Morrison, Jr., and duly carried.

Owing to the crowded program the usual notices were omitted.

HENRY RUSSELL DROWNE, Secretary.

A meeting of the Nominating Committee of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society was held in the Society's office on the afternoon of Tuesday, December 10th, 1912, at four o'clock.

George Austin Morrison, Jr.,
John Reynolds Totten,
Hopper Striker Mott,
William B. Osgood Field, which motion was duly carried.

One ballot being cast for the above candidates they were unanimously nominated for election as Trustees at the next annual election, January 10, 1913, for the term 1913–1916. JOHN D. CHAMPLIN, Chairman.

BOOK NOTICES.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

LES FAMILLES DU RICHELIEU ET LEURS DESCENDANTS FRANCO-AMERICAINS, depuis l'origine de la famille jusqu à nos jours, par l'Abbe C. A. de Jordy, 55 Alsace St., Manchester, N. H. 16vo., cloth, pp. 300. $2.00 per copy.

This book is at once a warning and an aid to French Canadians to preserve their names and knowledge of their ancestry. We have observed that this people frequently change their names to the English equivalent, as Boulanger to Baker, Dauphin to Dofa. This last change is a flagrant instance of what M. DeJordy calls "criminels travestissements de noms;" one in which a fine sounding and beautiful French name is changed into a hideous combination of no nationality whatever. The names and dates recorded here are of the following families: Choquette, Senecal, Beaudry, Jeannotte, Prefontaine, Casavant, Blanchet, Hebert-Lambert, Morin, Brouillet-Bernard, Adam, and Ravenelle-Lalime, all families which settled in the valley of the Richelieu River. These families are represented largely in the United States because the river formed an easy and natural road to this country.

The genealogical material consists of parish data and it is well that it is preserved in this fashion. There are biographical sketches, mostly of ecclesiastical dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church. These biographies and the explanatory historical matter open up some very interesting vistas. These pioneers of Canada are the very men of whom we have delighted to read in Parkman's histories. Two things were looked to in them before they were allowed to go to Canada, a strong physique and an undisturbed Roman Catholic faith. It would be invidious in this review to point out the interesting and necessary consequences which have followed because of these requirements.

We commend this book to the attention of all New England libraries and others where French Canadians are numerous.

Early Virginia Immigrants, 1623-1666. Compiled by George Cabell Greer, Clerk Virginia State Land Office. Cloth, 8vo., pp. 376. W. C. Hill Printing Co., Richmond, Va., 1912. Price $5.00.

This valuable work of reference consists of nearly 25,000 names of Virginia immigrants from the year 1623 to 1666. Arranged in alphabetical order they must be consulted by every delver into an obscure Virginia genealogical line. The name of the immigrant is given and is followed by the name of the patentee or party bringing him over from the old country. As so many American names go back to a Virginian source and so many important names appear in the book it is easy to see the value of the work, which, moreover, has every internal evidence of being the result of great labor and care.

Heralds and Heraldry in Ben Jonson's Plays, Masques and Entertainments. By Arthur Huntington Nason. Half morocco, large 8vo., ill., pp. 164. University Heights, New York City, 1907.

This painstaking and curious book leads us into unusual fields of research. The effort to annotate the heraldic allusions in Jonson's plays is interesting and instructive, for a word of explanation from an heraldic source illuminates a passage which otherwise is meaningless. But the author has seen fit, in order to make his book a rounded effort, to give a little treatise on the subject as the books explained it in Jonson's day. This treatise leads us to the curious and delightful "Accedens of Armory" of Gerard Legh, written in the didactic style of question and answer, which the ordinary reader is more familiar with in Walton's "Compleat Angler." The book is doubtless of great value to the students of Jonson's plays, and, in addition, will give a pleasant hour to the student of heraldry, a subject far removed from problem plays and modern life.

One Line of Descendants from Dolar Davis and Richard Everett, including Numerous Marriage Connections. Compiled by Mrs. William Sumner Crosby, 173 Gardner Road, Brookline, Mass. Cloth, 8vo., ill., pp. 59, press of G. H. Ellis Co., Boston, 1911.

The title of this book furnishes an unusually thorough description of its contents. Among the salient points of interest are some letters of Edward Everett Hale, and a very interesting biography of Benjamin Wait, one of Rogers' Rangers in the French War, a Revolutionary soldier, and one of the Green Mountain Boys.

A History of Chatham, Massachusetts, formerly the Constablewick or Village of Monomoit, with Maps and Illustrations and Numerous Genealogical Notes. By William C. Smith. Part I. Paper 8vo., pp. 106, Hyannis, Mass. F. B. & F. P. Goss, 1909. Price $1.00 per part.

We have read with great interest this admirable town history. Its early descriptions so exactly tally with the recognized authorities as to give the reader great confidence in its authenticity and exactness. Reference is freely made to Justin Winsor's great work, to Charles Francis Adam's "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History," and Governor Bradford's Diary. Chatham itself is a town of more than ordinary interest, and its story has not suffered at the hand of the author. We find his style well suited to historical narrative. It is clear and polished, but not ornate or dramatic. No effort is made to embellish an important event with brilliant vocabulary, but the interest rises and falls with the subject matter itself.

The Battle of April 19, 1775, in Lexington, Cambridge, Somerville and Charlestown, Massachusetts. By Frank Warren Coburn. Cloth, ill., 8vo., pp. 171, indexed. $1.25 postpaid.

The historic subject of this book of course deserves the minute treatment it has received. School children are familiar with the main outlines of the fight. Here we have all the vast amount of details carefully sifted and preserved. The old maps reconstruct the localities for us, and we can imagine no greater pleasure on a summer afternoon than to retrace the footsteps of the British soldiers with Mr. Coburn's book in hand. Teeming thousands in many cases now live where there were then lonely country roads with scattered farm houses. The author reconstructs these old roads for our vision, and even locates the old farm houses and vanished bridges. Many authorities are quoted to establish the accuracy of the writer's statements.

We class this volume as one of the many historical monographs which appear now-a-days, very admirable and welcome to the libraries of the land. The amount of historical sources now open to a painstaking writer is so large that more accurate and more valuable historical work is possible than ever before.

Old Hallowell on the Kennebec. By Emma Huntington Nason. Cloth, ill., 8vo., pp. 359, Augusta, Me., 1909. Price $3.50, postage 24 cents.

The beautiful Kennebec is full of historic interest from Seguin to its remotest source. The story of the Popham settlement, the Pilgrim trading post and the Benedict Arnold Expedition to Canada make every mile of its course full of charm. To the series of books upon these subjects is now added this worthy volume, telling the history of a favored settlement. We are again reminded how close the bonds of union were between Massachusetts and her offspring Maine by the names of the early Hallowell settlers. The water way from Plymouth, Boston or Newburyport was broad and clear. The halcyon days of Hallowell here described were those when the vigorous Puritans and their immediate descendants controlled the town and set their high plane of intellectuality and righteousness. It was a place of prosperity and delightful social relations. 1852, the date of becoming a city, sets a period to this particular phase of the city's development. The annals of this delightful place are written with a loving hand and with sustained literary treatment. The casual reader will be surprised at the number of well known public men who have hailed from this town. We feel that the list of names and the events chronicled go far to warrant the idyllic treatment which Mrs. Nason has given to this charming work.

"Gli Albanesi in Italia" e i loro Canti Tradizionali, by Antonio Scura, edited by Francesco Tocci, 212 Layayette Street, New York. November, 1912.

This book edited in a good philological style, devoting 140 pages to introduction and 240 pages to hitherto unfamiliar literature; it is a valuable acquisition to the folklore and history of the culture of the Albanians. It shows once more how a small race can retain its individuality and language and develop an art and beauty of its own, while forming a part of a large nation. The author has well succeeded in making some of this beauty accessible even to experienced readers.

THE SNEADS OF FLUVANNA. By Mrs. William E. Hatcher (Virginia Snead Hatcher), author of Life and Writings of A. B. Brown. 8vo. cloth, pp. 118. Address: Mrs. William E. Hatcher, Fort Union, Va.

The work is profusely illustrated with family portraits and is to be highly recommended as an invaluable addition to the heretofore scanty information on the family and its collateral lines. It consists of five parts devoted respectively to treatment of the following subjects, viz: Part I. Main lines of Winchester, descent of Edmund Winchester from the first ancestor, John Winchester, who came to New England in 1635; Part II. Lines of descent from John Winchester, Jr., through Capt. John Winchester, Henry Winchester and Benjamin Winchester; Part III. Lines of descent from Josiah Winchester; Part IV. The Winchesters of Maryland; Part V. Notes on Alexander Winchester.

"OF SCEPTRED RACE." By Annah Robinson Watson, of No. 132 Montgomery Street, Memphis, Tennessee. Quarto cloth, half morocco, pp. 379. 1912. Price $10.00.

The most excellent work contains 43 chapters on the lineage of Americans of Kingly descent, and cannot fail to be of immense value to all those interested in tracing their lines back to such lofty origin. The work is painstakingly prepared and most beautifully gotten up; containing some 31 excellent illustrations of Arms and views of historic localities. It is a book that should be found on the shelves of all genealogical libraries.

ANCESTRAL RECORD AND PORTRAITS, a compilation from the Archives of Chapter I, Colonial Dames of America, Vols. I–II, pp. 835, cloth. Illustrated, with Index. Grafton Press, New York City, 1910. Price $10.00 net. Address: Mary Washington Keyser, Chairman of Publication Committee, Keyser Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

The Publication Committee of Chapter I, The Colonial Dames of America are entitled to the highest praise for their unselfish devotion and patriotism in collecting, editing and publishing this concise compilation of the many valuable family records and pedigrees preserved in their archives. Hitherto the so-called patriotic societies have exhibited a most selfish and secretive spirit in regard to their invaluable charts of descent, none but members being able to examine and consult their charts, and even in such cases only by consent of the members whose charts are to be consulted, or on consent of the Registrar. In many cases the Registrar is a professional genealogist interested in personally searching for desired ancestry for compensation and hence quite unwilling and opposed to the general public availing themselves of the Society records. For some time there has been an increasing belief that the pedigree collections of the various so-called patriotic societies should be published and thus rendered useful to all instead of to the few. The present volumes are printed with that end in view and it is safe to state that in all probability they will not only reflect the greatest credit on this organization but be the cause of a great increase in applications for membership in this order. The volumes are full of facts of importance, contain descent pedigrees of hundreds of eminent families and are profusely illustrated with half-tone portraits and many coats-of-arms. These volumes should at once become standard works of reference. They are beautifully printed and bound and add one more almost perfect publication to the long list of admirable books edited and printed by the Grafton Press. Good Genealogical printing is still rare, in spite of the great output of this class of books in the past ten years, and the work done by these publishers deserves unqualified praise.

Ancestors and Descendants of Isaac Horton of Liberty, N. Y. Compiled by Byron Barnes Horton, M. A. 8vo. cloth, pp. 52, including index. Published by Frederick H. Hitchcock, Genealogical Publisher, 105 West 40th St., N. Y. City. Address: Byron Barnes Horton, Sheffield, Pa. Price $1.50 postpaid.

The work is Volume V. of the Horton Family Year Book and contains the record of Barnabas Horton of Southold, L. I., N. Y. and his descendants through his son Joseph Horton. An excellent compilation containing much valuable information.

Westmoreland County, Virginia 1653–1912. Pamphlet, 8vo., pp. 153-xi. Price 50c. Compiled by T. R. B. Wright, Judge Circuit Court of Essex Co., Tappahannock, Va.

This compilation embodies much valuable historical information on Westmoreland County, Virginia, the so-called Athens of America. This county was the birthplace of so many great men that its history is rendered thereby most interesting. It is said to be the most classic spot in the United States. The "Westmoreland Resolutions" were passed 9 years before the (so-called) "Mecklenburg Resolutions" N. C. and 10 years before the Declaration of Independence. The work is replete with portraits and other illustrations.

The Tingley Family, being a Record of the Descendents of Samuel Tingley of Malden, Mass., in both the Male and Female Lines by Raymon Meyers Tingley, of Herrick Centre, Pa. 8vo. cloth, pp. 894, with index. Press of the Tuttle Co., Rutland, Vt., 1910. Price, cloth $6.00.

A record of ten thousand persons, all of Tingley blood, and all descendants of Samuel Tingley of Malden. The period covered runs from 1614 to 1910. This is a voluminous work done in an agreeable and easily understood manner. The compiler deserves and will receive from genealogists praise for his perseverance and care in its preparation. Attention is called to the review of this work which appeared in the October 1911 number of the Record for further particulars.

Selleck and Peck Genealogy. Compiled by William Edwin Selleck. 8vo. cloth, pp. 74, with illustrations and index. Privately printed, July, 1912. Price $3.00. Address William Edward Selleck, Union League Club, Chicago, Ill.

A line of descent from David Selleck, who arrived probably from Bristol, Eng. The record is well prepared and the illustrations are well selected and printed. The work consists of two parts, the latter dealing with the Peck Family which intermarried with the Sellecks in 1811. Other families who have a place in the book are Kibby, Law, Gold, Sands and Silliman. Gen. Gold Selleck Silliman, son of Ebenezer and Abigail (Selleck) Silliman was Brigadier General of Militia in the Revolution and served throughout the war, taking an efficient part in the battles of Long Island, Harlem, White Plains, Danbury and elsewhere. After his capture he was exchanged later for Judge Jones of Long Island. His personal report and account of his capture, with all details, can be found in Schenck's History of Fairfield County, also Fisher's Life of Benjamin Silliman, p. 7. The statements given concerning this family add to the interest of the work from a New York point of view.

RICHARD NEWTON OF SUDBURY, MASS., 1638-9. Also an account of the Indian Raid in Barnard, Vermont, Aug. 9, 1780, Compiled for private distribution by Rev. William Monroe Newton, 158 Summer St., Woonsocket, R. I., 1912. Pamphlet, pp. 52, with Index. Price $1.85, postage paid.

We are told very little has been heretofore published concerning Richard Newton and his descendants and that this work embodies the result of some nineteen years research. The allied families of Chamberlin, Davis, Steward, &c., are likewise treated. The last seventeen pages are devoted to an account of the Indian Raid and furnishes an interesting bit of authentic frontier history. A task well performed. Printed on thin glazed paper. The work commends itself to the touch and eye.

THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF BROOKLYN, with illustrations and maps. By Eugene L. Armbruster, of 263 Eldert Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Published May 7, 1912. Size 5 x 7, cloth, pp. 205. Price $2.00. Edition limited to 1,000 copies.

As recorders of data relating generally to matters of New York import the above work deserves the welcome of this Society, which is hereby extended. The sketches contained therein relate to the territory contiguous to Newtown Creek, commencing with the first settlement before the land was purchased from the Indians in 1638 by Gov. Kieft and ending with the present day. The book contains 46 pen and ink sketches and six rare maps. It is packed full of historical matter and evidences much careful and patient research. The compiler is commended for the lucid manner in which the studies are written and placed before the reader. It is impossible here to mention the titles of the various chapters and the appendices which are voluminous. All interested in this portion of the State, either as descendants of original settlers or present residents will revel in the information contained in this compilation.

A CALENDAR OF DELAWARE WILLS, NEW CASTLE COUNTY, 1682-1800, Abstracted and compiled by the Historical Research Committee of the Colonial Dames of Delaware. Printed by Frederick H. Hitchcock, N. Y. City. 8vo., cloth, pp. 218. Price $3.50. Address orders to Mary B. Wright, 704 West St., Wilminglon, Del.

In this publication will be found original wills compiled from the records of the Register's Office, and, where wills are unrecorded there, of the Record of Probate. These are brought down from the earliest times to 1800. Genealogists and all others interested in research work will find this a unique volume because therein are contained, besides the wills from the sources mentioned above, abstracts from many testaments which, for one reason or another, were not admitted to probate. A simple form of chronological arrangement has been followed with a full index of the names included. A valuable addition to the establishment of lines of descent is thereby assured.

Hudson, No. 29 M St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

It also contains some 29 illustrations of family interest, including a colored plate of the Van Deursen Arms. ANNALS OF CENTERDALE, in the Town of North Providence, Rhode Island; Its Past and Present. 1636–1909. By Frank C. Angell. Cloth, 8vo., ill., pp. 196.

This is a very readable history of a New England village, one of those staunch little communities which have pride in their origin and development. The book itself is admirably appointed and no fault can be found with print, illustrations and arrangement. The story begins in Roger Williams' days when the land was deeded by the celebrated chieftains Canonicus and Miantonomo. A valuable service to posterity has been rendered in marking down historic spots with accuracy for the coming generation. The book's serviceableness would have been increased by an index.

WILCOX FAMILY HISTORY, being Some Account of the First Five Generations in Direct Line from William Wilcockson of Stratford, Connecticut, to Josiah Wilcox of Brecksville, Ohio. Compiled by Owen N. Wilcox. Quarto, cloth, pp. 63.

This book shows the descent of Josiah Wilcox from his first American ancestor. A glance shows that a great deal of careful work has been done, and those of us who have done similar work will congratulate the compiler on his success. This is just the sort of material desired by this Society. As a citizen of Concord, Massachusetts, and afterwards of Stratford, the ancestor seems to have been a man of force and character, who left his imprint on both places, taking part in that notable migration from Massachusetts.

Genealogical and Biographical Record.

Vol. XLIV. NEW YORK, APRIL, 1913. No. 2.

DR. ELLSWORTH ELIOT.

By Gen. James Grant Wilson.

Few Americans of the seventeenth century made a more enduring reputation than John Eliot, first styled the "Indian Apostle" in 1660, and who died and was buried in Roxbury, Mass., thirty years later. When Arthur Stanley, the distinguished Dean of Westminster, visited this country three decades ago, he said to a New York friend, "I wish to see the thirteen trees planted by Alexander Hamilton and the oak under which Eliot preached to his converted Indians."

Ellsworth Eliot, the oldest member of the Genealogical and Biographical Society, who died in this city 9 December, 1912, was fifth in descent from the faithful friend of the New England red men. He was born in North Guilford, Conn., where several generations of his family lived, 15 September, 1827, and was graduated from Yale College with ex-President Timothy Dwight, being one of the last survivors of the class of 1849. Entering the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons he received his diploma in 1852, serving in the following year as house physician in Bellevue Hospital, from which institution Dr. Eliot received a diploma, an unusual distinction at that day. In 1853 he entered upon the personal practice of his profession, which he continued in New York City for more than half a century, with the exception of the period of his service as a Volunteer surgeon during the War of the Rebellion from which he resigned soon after the battle of Antietam. In 1867 Dr. Eliot became a Trustee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and during the same year was appointed its Registrar. He was President of the Medical Society of the County of New York in 1872 and 1873; Vice-President of the Medical Society of the State in 1875 and 1876, and 1892 and 1893 he was President of the New York Society for the Relief of the Widows and Orphans of Medical Men.

Dr. Eliot became a life member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society in 1869, and at the date of his death was its oldest member. For several decades he was active in the affairs of the organization, serving the Society as Chairman of the Executive Committee and later as a member of the Board of Trustees. He was also among the oldest members of the New York Historical Society and a shareholder in the New York Society Library, retaining a warm interest in the three institutions. Dr. Eliot's hobby was the collecting of John Eliot's publications, of which his collection was among the largest in the country, including the Indian Bible, being the first Bible printed in this country, copies of which have brought as much as $1,250, the rare Eliot Tracts, and autograph letters of the Apostle and his distinguished grandson Dr. Jared Eliot, a Yale graduate of 1706, and the intimate associate of Benjamin Franklin. To Appletons' Cyclopædia of American Biography Dr. Eliot contributed two admirable notices of his estimable ancestors John and Jared Eliot, which may be commended to any readers of the RECORD who are interested in the writings of the early prolific New England authors. It may also be mentioned that Dr. Eliot was instrumental in placing a memorial window in Widford Church, England, where his ancestor, John, was baptized in 1604, and also in establishing a scholarship in his honor at Jesus College, Cambridge, where he was graduated and received the degree of A. B. in 1622.

For several years before his death at his home, No. 48 West 36th Street, of acute bronchitis, Dr. Eliot had ceased to practice, owing to a severe fall in descending the stone steps leading from St. Luke's Hospital to Morningside Park, from the effects of which he never entirely recovered. His funeral was held at his residence, and the burial was in Alderbrook Cemetery, Guilford, near the grave of his kinsman, Fitz-Greene Halleck, whose mother was an Eliot. The Doctor was a member of Trinity Church.

Dr. Eliot was married 7 May, 1856, to Miss Anna Stone of New York. Five children were born of this marriage of whom two survive. A son, Dr. Ellsworth Eliot, Jr., was graduated from Yale in 1884 and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1887. He is engaged in practice in New York City and is a surgeon on the staff of the Presbyterian Hospital in Madison Avenue.

In concluding this brief tribute to our venerable member, the present writer may perhaps be permitted to remember the many delightful rambles to places of historic, literary or scenic interest on Manhattan Island, in Westchester County, and other localities adjacent to the Metropolis, made with Dr. Eliot during the last decade of the past century. On one of these excursions we discovered in the wilderness at the northeast end of Inwood Hill, the monarch of Manhattan, which Henry Hudson may have seen when he sailed past the Spuyten Duyvil in the stanch Half-Moon in 1609. As we sat under the shade of the oldest, largest, and tallest tree—a gigantic tulip—on the Island, now reenforced by a new stomach, protected by a substantial iron railing, and under the care of the Park Commissioner, so that it is believed it will endure for another three or four centuries, it is recalled by the writer that the Doctor in relating some of his early experiences stated that when, while a student at Yale, he informed his father that he had decided to adopt medicine as his profession the answer was, "Oh, no, my son you will not succeed in that. You are too homely for a Doctor!" Au contraire, the writer remarked that his worthy father must have indulged in some exaggeration (and this view will we believe be confirmed by reference to the accompanying portrait) also adding that many of the Eliots the writer had known, were as fine looking men as could be seen anywhere, and concluding with the following incident: When the late King Edward visited New York in October, 1860, as Prince of Wales, his large suite included the Earl of St. Germains, head of the English family of Eliots, an extremely homely man. The poet Halleck, when he met the Earl, introduced his cousin, Henry Eliot, among the handsomest men the writer ever encountered, remarking to the Earl: "You will observe my lord, that the race has not deteriorated by being transplanted to the New World!"

Notwithstanding his advanced age at that time, he made a special trip back to his old home on Amherst Island for the purpose of gathering all the available dates and other material and talking over the old traditions with those still left who were farther advanced in life than he. FOUR GENERATIONS IN AMERICA, OF THE HUGUENOT FAMILY OF STELLE.

By Maud Burr Morris, of Washington, D. C.

I have never been able to discover in print, any record of the birth or baptism of Benjamin, Gabriel and Ambrose Stelle, the dates of whose birth as given above, are, as a matter of fact, prior to the earliest records of the French Church in New York City (located at that time in Petty-Coat Lane), which do not begin until 1688, the baptism of Madelaine Stelle in 1689 being the seventh entry in the earliest record. It might be claimed that these three sons were born in Boston instead of in New York, were it not for the negative proof to the contrary, that the report of the Record Commissioners of Boston (above mentioned) contains no reference to any "Stelle" except Peter, and none at all to "Larier," "Laurier" or "De Loriers," between the years 1630 and 1699.

Of the second son, Benjamin[2] Stelle (1683), a prominent fighter as well as a great churchman and the founder of the Baptist denomination in Middlesex County, New Jersey, much has already been written and published by his numerous descendants,* his children marrying into many of the most distinguished families in New Jersey.

The date of the birth of Ambrose,[2] the fourth son of Poncet Stelle, is conjectural; it has been given in print as 1687, but upon what information this is based I cannot say, as this is previous to the earliest Huguenot Church records in New York City. Although his father was living in New Jersey from 1693 on, Ambrose appears in New York after that date, as indicated by the following Indenture of Apprenticeship;† "Recorded for Joshua Solise, Taylor, the 10th day of April Anno Dom., 1706, Indenture of Ambrose Stolle, son of Pontus Stolle, to Joshua Sollise, Taylor, for ten years from April 10th, 1705." This is in the usual form, and then adds "and the first year of his Apprenticeship his Said Master Shall put the Said Apprentice to School. Signed April 10, 1705 by Ambrose Stelle, In presence of Gabriel Stelle, Will Bradford. Acknowledged April 9, 1706 before William Peartree, Mayor." If Ambrose Stelle was born in 1687, he would have been eighteen years of age when apprenticed in 1705 for a period of ten years, with one year's schooling. This may seem odd to us, but was not uncommon in those days.

The name "Ambrose Stelle, of Middletown, N. J.," is mentioned in a list of the Registry of Ear Marks of Cattle, June 13, 1716, in "Historical and Genealogical Miscellany," by John E. Stillwell (Vol. II, page 206). His name (given as Ambrose Still) also appears among a list of mortgagors in an inventory of the estate of John Brown of Mattawan, Monmouth Co., N. J., in 1716.*

Ambrose Stelle died in 1728 or early in 1729, as an inventory of his estate was made by Henry Leonard and Daniel Tillton, April 12, 1729, describing the decedent as of "Monmouth County, trader." His personal estate amounted to £6 18s. 5d., and included, among other things, "a French Psalm Book."†

The baptisms of the next three children of Poncet Stelle are undisputed, and furnish about all that is of importance concerning them, for the purpose of this sketch; they are here given in full,‡ as they have been misquoted on several occasions:

Jean[2] Stelle was also known as John James Stelle, and seems to have been involved in numerous lawsuits in connection with his brother Gabriel between the years 1719 and 1725 against the Leonard and Morris families, and he is designated in a list of Freemen of New York on August 5th, 1712, as "John Stell, Joyner." (N. Y. Historical Collection, 1885, Vol. entitled "Burghers and Freemen of New York," page 91.) He also made an affidavit as to a riot in Perth Amboy, N. J., July 17, 1747 (N. J. Archives, vol. vi, page 465).

Eugene[2] Stelle, the last son of Poncet Stelle, as named by Mr. Leonard in his pamphlet, may possibly have been a daughter, as the mother's name is without exception written Eugene or Egine, although she signed the baptismal record of her son John in 1693, as Eugenne Legero.

* N. J. Archives, Vol. XXIII, p. 50.

‡ Huguenot Society Collection, Vol. I.

I have made no effort to find out any details of the lives of the above children, but have simply gathered the few particulars herein mentioned in the course of investigating the life of Gabriel[2] Stelle, the third son of Poncet[1] and Eugenie Stelle, whom I have left until the last, as it is his line of descendants of whom I wish to write more fully (being the one from which I myself am descended).

An old Bible in the possession of a member of the family gives the date of Gabriel's[2] death as November 25, 1738, aged 53 years and 9 months, thus fixing positively the date of his birth as in February, 1683, but not settling the question of his birthplace, although the fact that no Stelle other than Peter is mentioned in the Boston Record Commissioner's report, may be taken as pretty conclusive evidence that he was born in New York.

Gabriel[2] seems to have been of a legal turn of mind, or at least was involved in many lawsuits and property disputes, and was a witness to numerous Wills or other documents of record, all in New Jersey, where he permanently located. He bought land in Shrewsbury in 1714, and other places in Monmouth County, N. J., and became a very wealthy man; as Mr. Leonard states in his pamphlet*, "he attained a greater distinction in social and political affairs than any of his brothers," and also, "he laid claim to a large tract of land in Woodbridge Township near the undecided boundary line between Woodbridge and Piscataway. Litigation commenced about 1710 and continued for nearly a generation, when, about the time of his death in 1738, the freeholders plotted the disputed territory and divided it as the seventh allotment of public lands."

In Documents relating to the Colonial History of New Jersey† is a letter from Hon. Lewis Morris, the President of His Majesty's Council for the Province of New Jersey, to the Duke of New Castle, dated June 2, 1732, in relation to the establishment of separate governments for New Jersey and New York, in which the former recommends Gabriel Stelle as a Councillor for the Eastern Division of New Jersey, describing him as a "church man, a merchant of A good landed Estate, and well-affected to the Government."

In 1728 Gabriel[2] Stelle received a patent for a ferry running from South Amboy to Staten Island, touching at Perth Amboy.

Gabriel Stelle was not only a man of prominence in social and business circles, but was also influential in church affairs and a Vestryman in St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Perth Amboy in 1737 and 1738. It may be interesting to note that he occupied No. 23 in that church, for which he paid a rental of six pounds and seven shillings per annum.‡

He was married three times, his first wife being Elizabeth Woolley, born May 28, 1685, daughter of Edward and Lydia Woolley of Shrewsbury, N. J.; the date of this marriage being probably in 1704 (Gabriel being then only 19 years of age), and the place probably Shrewsbury, as that was his wife's home.

The children of this marriage were: Margaret, 1705, Pontius,* 1707, Lida, 1709, Edward, 1711, Eugenia, 1712, Isaac, 1714, Benjamin, 1717, Elizabeth, 1719, and Catharine, 1721.

The daughter Eugenia was the first wife of Thomas Billopp Farmer (who dropped the name Farmer and was afterwards known as Thomas Billopp), a prominent citizen and Judge in Monmouth County, and a Major of the local battalion, who died in 1750, and was buried beside his first wife, Eugenia Stelle, who had died in 1735-6, leaving two children.*

The oldest tombstone in the graveyard of Christ Church, at Shrewsbury (which was founded in 1702 by Col. Lewis Morris, son of Richard Morris of Morrisania, N. Y.), to-day resting against the side of the church edifice, bears the following inscription:

"Here lies ye body of Benjamin, son of Gabriel and Elizabeth Stelle, Died November 14, 1719, in ye 3d year of his age."

There are two other old tombstones in the same cemetery, one for Edward, son of Gabriel and Elizabeth Stelle, who died November 15, 1730, aged 19 years, 6 months and 9 days; and the other reading as follows:

"Here lies ye Body of Elizabeth Stelle, wife of Gabriel Stelle, who departed this Life ye 29th day of July 1723, aged 38 years 2 months and 1 day."

Gabriel's second wife was Anna ——, born March 30th, 1685, and died March 29th, 1729, according to the family Bible, or on March 24th, 1730, according to her tombstone inscription later given in full; and this is the extent of our knowledge concerning her.

The third wife was Mrs. Margaret Gordon Carré, widow of Louis Carré, and daughter of "Hon. Thomas Gordon of Pitloche, a distinguished proprietary pioneer of East Jersey," to again quote Mr. Leonard; and his descent from William the Conqueror, through a long line of kings and queens, will be found stated in full in "Americans of Royal Descent" by Charles H. Browning. This marriage probably took place in the year 1733 or early in 1734, as Louis Carré died in 1732, and the first child of the Stelle marriage with the widow Carré, namely, Thomas Gordon Stelle, was born October 9th, 1734. The parish register of Christ Church at Shrewsbury shows the baptism of "Thomas Gordon Stile, son of Gabriel and Marg. Stile" at Allentown, Monmouth County, N. J., on October 24, 1734.† On January 26th of that year, Elizabeth Steel, adult heir of Gabrill Stell of Allentown,† was also baptised.

A daughter Margaret was born to Gabriel and Margaret Gordon Stelle, on April 24th, 1736, and another, Euphemia, on December 2nd, 1737, the latter probably dying before her mother, as she was not mentioned in her mother's Will, dated in 1772, but was living as late as 1751, as shown by the following entry in Whitehead's "Early History of Perth Amboy" (page 225); "Such was the want of room in the Church at Amboy in 1751, that Mrs. Stelle, widow of Gabriel Stelle, who with two daughters occupied a pew, was specially directed by the Vestry 'to take in two such creditable persons as the Vestry should nominate' &c."

Gabriel Stelle died in 1738 in Perth Amboy, and was buried there, originally in the old Presbyterian graveyard, but his body as well as that of his second wife, was removed in 1872. Their tombstone inscriptions are as follows:

"Here lies ye Body of Anna
ye wife of GABRIEL STELLE,
She died March 24, 1730
44 yea. wanting one day.

In hope of a joyful resurrection

Gabriel Stelle left a Will dated March 24, 1734-5, recorded in Liber C folio 228, probated December 22, 1738, at Trenton, N. J., and naming his wife Margaret, his sons Thomas Gordon, Pontius, and Isaac, and daughters Elizabeth and Catharine, and as Executors, his wife and son Pontius Stelle and his son-in-law Thomas Billop. Pontius Stelle only, qualified.

Margaret Gordon Stelle left Perth Amboy after her husband's death (and later than 1751) and went to New York City to live. She died in 1782, leaving a valuable estate acquired from her father as well as from her two husbands, and by her Will (dated May 16, 1772, recorded at Trenton in Liber K folio 547) she bequeathed all her property to her two children, Thomas Gordon Stelle, and Margaret, then the wife of Andrew Hammersley of a prominent New York family.

In continuation of the line of Stelles descended from Gabriel, we next come to Pontius Stelle, his eldest son (my great-great-grandfather). The date of Pontius' death being given in the family Bible as October 19th, 1770, aged 63 years 5 months and 7 days, it is easy to figure that his birth occured on May 12, 1707. The place may have been New York City or Shrewsbury, N. J., the evidence being equally in favor of either place, as his father was probably in the former place when a witness to the Indenture of Apprenticeship of his own younger brother in 1705-6, and appears to have located in the latter place as early as 1709-10, according to various Court records; and Pontius' birth occured half way between the two dates.

In writing a biographical sketch of a man who lived a century or more ago, there is seldom anything of interest preserved in regard to his childhood days, unless indeed he were an infant prodigy. But Pontius[3] Stelle does not seem to have had an eventful life at any period. The earliest reference I have to him, is found in his father's will, made in 1734, in which he is named as one of the Executors.

In 1738, on June 3rd, "Pontius Still" was named as one of the Vestrymen of old Christ Church at Shrewsbury, in the Charter granted by King George II. It is an interesting fact that the silver communion service presented to said Church by Queen Anne, is still in use.

Mr. Leonard states that in 1746 "he was a member of the Assembly, and a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas"* but of what jurisdiction he does not specify, and "Pontius Stelle, Merchant" is carried on the Roll of Freeman of New York City on May 31st, 1749.†

In 1761 or 1762 he married in Trenton, a Mrs. Rachel Hooton, a widow with several children, who was born February 2, 1717, and died June 16, 1783.

In the years 1764 and 1765, Pontius[3] Stelle was elected Vestryman of St. Michael's Church (P. E.) in Trenton, to which place he had removed some years before. This church is opposite the house later occupied and owned by his son Pontius Delare Stelle.[4]

Of the children of the marriage of Pontius[3] Stelle and Mrs. Rachel Hooton, all born in Trenton, the only names mentioned in the family Bible, are—Pontius Delare Stelle,[4] (1763), (one of twenty-one children, according to tradition); Isaac, born September 24, 1764, died August 31, 1772, in Rhode Island; and Edward(?).

Pontius[3] Stelle was also a witness at numerous marriages between the years 1730 and 1732, as mentioned in Stillwell's "Historical and Genealogical Miscellany," and he appears to have signed himself variously Pontias Stelle, Pontius Stell, Pontius Still, etc.

In the next generation of Stelles (the fourth in this country) is Pontius Delare Stelle,[4] my great-grandfather, born in Trenton February 15, 1763. It is not difficult to see how the name Delare was acquired, being simply an anglicized form of De Lorier, but a very ingenious tradition has been handed down for the past two hundred and fifty years, accounting for this name in the following manner. A certain Pontius Stelle of the French Army, was aide de camp to one of the ancient kings of France, and during some battle, the king's horse was killed under him; Stelle immediately presented his own horse to the king, who thereupon bestowed upon him the title or additional name of "De-la-re" or "for the king;" since which time the eldest son in the family has always been named Pontius Delare Stelle. But tradition is much like a house built of cards, and only a breath is required to destroy it. As a matter of fact the name of Pontius (or any derivative of it) does not occur at all in the second generation in America, and the name Delare (except as a descriptive term—probably a place of residence) does not appear on record, as far as I know, before this fourth generation.

All reminiscences of Pontius D. Stelle's childhood seem to be lost, although it was during the exciting and critical time of the Revolutionary War.

The name of Pontius D. Stelle[4] appears in the original constitution of the Union Fire Insurance Company of Trenton, when it was re-organized May 5, 1783, and in July of the year 1785, his name is mentioned in a list of gentlemen who subscribed £1. 10s. each, for the purchase of a new engine.*

The next known date in his life, is in 1788, when he became a member of Trenton Lodge No. 5 of the Masonic order.

About this period and onward, he is said* to have been one of the most prominent residents, and was the first Treasurer of the city of Trenton, being one of the officers named under the charter granted by the Legislature of the State of New Jersey to the city of Trenton, November 21, 1792. He occupied, owned, and conducted a general merchandise business in the building (still standing) at the corner of Perry Street (then Stelle's alley) and Warren Street, formerly the Stacy Potts residence, which in December 1776, had been used as headquarter guard house of the Anglo-Hessian troops under Col. Johann Gottlieb Rall. It was in front of this house that the six guns of the Hessian artillery were parked on the day of the famous battle of Trenton, Christmas Day, 1776.

In 1792 or 1793, while city treasurer and a warm friend of Richard Howell, the first governor of the State of New Jersey, Pontius Delare Stelle[4] met and afterwards (on March 18, 1793; by the Rev. Mr. Frazer) was married to Mrs. Beulah Burr Wharton, (the young widow of Reynald Wharton), who for several years had assumed the social responsibilities of the governor's mansion, as Mrs. Howell, her sister, was an invalid.

Pontius D. Stelle[4] followed in the footsteps of his father, grandfather and great-grandfather, and became an active member of the Episcopal Church, the records of St. Michael's Church in Trenton showing his election as vestryman for the years 1794 to 1799 both inclusive, at which latter date he "folded his tent," and became one of the pioneers who came to Washington with the Government, early in the year 1800, attracted no doubt by the speculative features advertised so extensively in all of the larger cities in this country and in Europe.

On his arrival in Washington, he opened a hotel for the entertainment of Congressmen principally, and his various establishments were of the highest order in point of accommodations and the class of guests, and were run on the most extravagant scale, no expense being spared to make them models of comfort and luxury according to the standard and limitations of that period. As the city grew and the population increased with the arrival of statesmen, travellers and officials of all kinds, Pontius D. Stelle moved to larger and more commodious houses as fast as they could be built, but there was a great scarcity of buildings in the straggling village that represented the national capital in those pioneer days.

* Raum's History of Trenton.

The location of his first hotel was upon the square or block forming the present extreme Northeast corner of the Capitol grounds; in 1804 he purchased three lots at the corner of First and A Streets, N. E., improved by a red brick and free stone building formerly known as "Tunnicliff's Hotel," which was torn down in 1814 (after the burning of the Capitol by the British) to make way for the brick building hurriedly erected by a company of Capitol Hill residents to accommodate the houses of Congress, so that the then-contemplated project of moving the seat of government to Trenton might be defeated. As is well known, the old brick Capitol was used as a prison during the Civil War, and was the scene of the execution of Wurz, the "Fiend of Andersonville." It is also a tradition that General Washington's horse had been buried on the site of this building.

Stelle next moved to the block South of the old Capitol site, to "the Spacious Hotel lately erected by Mr. Carroll near the Capitol; the hotel being above 100 feet front and containing 50 rooms, enables the subscriber to offer every accommodation to members of Congress and travellers,"—as it was advertised in the National Intelligencer, the newspaper of that day in Washington. This was the collection of buildings known at that date, and in fact up to the time they were demolished a few years ago to make room for the present building of the Library of Congress, as "Carroll's Row." During the Civil War this row of buildings was used for the detention of female spies.

Stelle's different hotels appear to have been headquarters, for several years, for meetings of all kinds, particularly of a social nature, such as the "Washington Assembly" held at "half after 5 o'clock," a Fourth of July dinner, when it was announced in the Intelligencer, that dinner would be "on the table precisely at 4 o'clock" on which latter occasion the list of guests included such names as Alexander Hamilton, and General Wilkinson and "suite;" "numerous toasts were drunk, each followed by a discharge of artillery and a patriotic air by the band." Other entertainments included "A Grand Fencing Exhibition with the broad and small swords" at which the Marine Band played; also "Practising Balls at Mr. Stelle's Ball Room," and many others, as well as important political meetings.

About 1812 Pontius D. Stelle[4] retired from the hotel business, and accepted a position in the office of the Comptroller of the Currency in the Treasury Department, which position he held up to the time of his death. He was also Secretary of the Board of Common Council in the District of Columbia, from 1812 to 1818, and was member of Federal Lodge of Masons in the City of Washington. His death occurred March 10, 1826 and he was buried in Congressional Cemetery in that city.

In appearance he was rather tall and commanding, and a miniature of him at the age of 27 years, shows an amiable and benevolent gentlemen in plum colored velvet coat with fine lace ruffles and stock, and powdered hair. This miniature, which is often mistaken for a likeness of General Washington, was painted in 1790 by James Peale, an intimate friend, who frequently rode from Philadelphia to Trenton to visit him.

His wife was formerly Miss Beulah Burr, a great granddaughter of Henry Burr, a Friend or Quaker, who came from England in 1680 with William Penn, and settled Burlington County, New Jersey; she was one of the young ladies selected to strew flowers before General Washington, and to sing the ode of welcome written by Governor Howell (her brother-in-law) on the occasion of Washington's triumphal entry into Trenton in 1789 while on his way to New York for his inauguration as the first President of the United States. Mrs. Stelle also knew the Marquis de Lafayette.

At the time of the attack on Washington during the War of 1812, Mrs. Stelle personally interviewed General Ross, Commander of the British soldiers, to ask protection for the property of a widow with several small children, who were dependent upon the rent of the building containing the plant of the National Intelligencer, which was designed for destruction by the invaders. General Ross was much impressed by her appeal, but Admiral Cockburn, Commander of the British naval forces, and a very pompous individual, gruffly replied that "the innocent must suffer with the guilty." After a heated discussion, Mrs. Stelle was assured that the widow's property would be protected, as well as her own home, if she would see that lighted candles were placed in every window of the buildings in question.

Of the eight children of Pontius D.[4] and Beulah Burr Stelle, three were born in Trenton (Henry,[5] Richard Howell,[5] and William De Cow Stelle[5]), and the remaining five (Elizabeth Hooton,[5] Mary Burr,[5] Pontius Delare,[5] Edward Barnes,[5] and Thomas Johnson Stelle[5]) were born in Washington City.

It is said that Henry Stelle was a prodigy of learning, and at the age of seven years could read and speak Latin, but it was of no advantage to him, as he only lived to reach the age of eight years. His sister Mary Burr Stelle was a poetess of no small ability, but she too died young, and few if any of her literary efforts have survived the flight of time.

The daughter Elizabeth Hooton Stelle,[5] my grandmother (born September 26, 1800, died September 9, 1885) is said to have been the first white child, or at least the first white girl, born in Washington City after it became the seat of government. She married (September 17, 1816) Henry Hendley McPherson of Charles County, Maryland, who died July 24th, 1863, leaving eight children.

Of the other children of Pontius D. and Beulah Stelle, I shall only mention Edward Barnes Stelle, who was Assistant Librarian of Congress for over thirty years.

And so we come to the end of the story of one branch of Poncet[1] Stelle's descendants, all of whom were popular with, and won the respect of, their fellow citizens, and many of whom achieved local prominence in their different spheres of life, and we can say with Plutarch, "It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended, even though the glory belongs to the past."

CLUES FROM ENGLISH ARCHIVES

Contributory to American Genealogy.

By J. Henry Lea and J. R. Hutchinson.

The fourteenth day of August, 1656, I William Boys of Cranbrooke in the county of Kent, clothier, being in some good measure of health, doe make and ordain this my last will. My bodie I will to be decently buried at the discretion of Joan my wife, whom I make sole executrix of this my will. I give and bequeath unto Sibylla Boys my eldest daughter £200 when she shall attain the age of eighteen years; to Mary Boys my daughter the like summe at her said age; and to my four sonnes John, Thomas, William and Joseph Boys £200 apiece of good English money at their severall ages of one and twenty years. As for my house and land in Cranbrooke, which now I inabite and which I lately purchased, viz., seven parts of eight parts thereof, I give the same unto Joan my wife during her naturall life and after her decease unto my four sonnes before named equally and to their heirs for ever. And if it shall happen that the other part should be desired to be sold, which now belongs unto John Slow sonne of Thomas Slow in New England, then my mind and will is that my wife shall purchase the same in behalf of my four sonnes, paying for it out of the portions before given them. If my said wife happen to marry again she shall give sufficient suritie to my brother Edmund Colvill of Maidstone for payment of my children's portions. Witnesses: none. Proved 24 Feb., 1656-7, by Joan Boys the relict and executrix. (P. C. C. Ruthen, 72.)

The above will was printed by us in the Record of January, 1911, but is repeated here as it contains an evident error in the reference to John Slow son of Thomas Slow of New England, for attention to which we have to thank our esteemed correspondent Mr. Henry Wykoff Belknap of Salem, Mass., whose notes on the subject we have pleasure in printing herewith and whose contention that the name should be Stow is undoubtedly correct, as his reference to a note on this will in the New England Register made by the careful hand of Mr. William S. Appleton*, goes to confirm his argument as well as the suspicion of Savage† that an error might exist in the American Records in these names.

A very careful rereading of the will at Somerset House has developed the fact that the names are exactly as heretofore printed, so that the error was evidently that of the registering clerk of the period, as is too often the case. Mr. Belknap's letter follows:

"The will refers to a house and land in Cranbrooke of which one eighth part belonged to John Slow sonne of Thomas Slow in

† Savage iv, 108, but says "if not Stowe?"

New England. In a note the contributors state that Thomas Slow was of Providence, R. I., and was admitted Freeman there in 1655, with a reference to Savage as authority.

Savage does make this statement but qualifies it by adding "if not Stowe." That his doubt was justified there can be little question and, so far as this will is concerned, a reference to it will be found in the New England Register, Vol. 53, page 301, in which the name is given as STOW.*

John Stow, according to the Rev. John Elliott's Record of Church Members, arrived in New England the 17th of the 3rd month anno 1634. He brought with him his wife and six children: Thomas, Elizabeth, John, Nathaniel, Samuel and Thankful. Elizabeth Stow, the wife of John Stow, she was a very godly matron, a blessing not only to her family but to all the church & when she had lead a christian conversation a few years among us she dyed & left a good savor behind her.

Through the publication in the New England Register, page 58, January, 1912, we have the records of the Parish of All Saints Church, Biddenden, Co. Kent, between 1558 and 1638, so far as they relate to the family of BIGGE and among them is that of the marriage 1608 of John Stowe and Elizabeth Bigge 13 September.

In the ship Elizabeth which sailed 9 April and arrived in New England 17 May, 1634, bringing John Stow and his family, we also find his mother-in-law Rachel Biggs and, despite the fact that Mr. Waters in his GLEANINGS has given as much relating to the Bigge or Biggs family†, no light has ever been thrown upon the maiden name of Rachel, so that it was with much satisfaction that, among the Bigge entries of marriages in St. Mildred's Church, Tenterden, Co. Kent, published in the same number of the Register, was found 1583—John Bigge of Cranbrooke and Rachel Martin of Lidde, 14 September. In the McDonough-Hackstaff Genealogy it is stated that Rachel Bigg was born in or before 1579 and in view of the date of her marriage, it would appear that it was certainly before but, because of a mistake in the list of passengers on the Elizabeth, we cannot tell her age when she landed. In this list it is given as 6 , which may have been meant for 69 perhaps if she was about 17 when married.

Rachel Bigg made her will 17 November, 1646 and it was attested by Richard Peacocke, one of the witnesses, 30 June, 1647, her "sonne in law" John Stowe being Executor, so that Savage is in error in stating that John died in 1643. It would appear that he sold his land in Roxbury in 1648 and removed to Concord probably late in the year, as he made an Inventory of the estate of John Levins of Roxbury 30 August, 1648. He probably later removed to Middleton, Conn., and died there. His son Thomas went to Middleton in 1659 and Samuel removed there in 1652.

HENRY W. BELKNAP."

* It would be curious to know whence Mr. Appleton derived his authority for this statement as the names are most clearly written Slow in the will.

Our apologies are due alike to our correspondent and to our readers for the delay of over a year from the receipt of his letter and the laying of it, and the above corrections, before the public, a delay which has been in no manner the fault of the writers but due to matters entirely beyond their control.

Will of RICHARD ODELL of Newport Pagnell, (Bucks.) miller, dated 21 November, 1636. To William Oddell my eldest son, my freehold land in Cranfield, co. Beds. Mary Oddell my daughter £20 at marriage or 21. Elizabeth Oddell, daughter of John Oddell my brother, 10 shillings. Residue to Martha my wife, whom Extrx. and John Oddell and Robert Markes of Newport Pagnell, blacksmith, Overseers. Witnesses: — Richard Hull, Thomas King, Robert Bitchnoe. Proved 10 January, 1636-7, by the Extrx. named. (Arch: Bucks:, Bk. 36, fo. 80.)

Archdeacon's Visitation holden in the Church of Newport (Pagnell) Co. Bucks., 17 April, 1637.

NEWPORT: EDWARD HARTLEY (cited) for quarrelling by words with WILLIAM ODELL in the churchyard and stabbinge the seyd William through the arme. (Here follows a list of petty fines imposed for non-appearance in answer to various citations before the Archdeacons' Court.) He was questioned for this at the Assizes and punished. In the margin appear the words: 17 October, 1639. Absunt Nova Anglia. Beneath are the words WILLIAM ODELL ut supra. (Visitation Books, 1635-8, no folio.)

We note in the above that the Latin verb is in the plural, thus clearly indicating that they are absent or abroad in New England, which is fully confirmed by the line below relating to William Odell and showing that both of the parties to the combat were then in New England.

William Odell (also written Wodell, Odle, Woddle, Woodhull, etc.,) was of Concord, Mass., as early as 1639 where his children James and Rebecca were born. He died at Fairfield, Conn., in 1676, his will proved 6 June of that year, names his sons William and John Odell and daughter Rebecca Moorehouse. His son James had predeceased him in 1641. An Ursula Wodell or Odle, who married Christopher Woolly or Wollie at Concord in 1646, may have been his sister.

He had been suspected to have come from Cranfield, co. Beds., where the Parish Registers show a flourishing family of the name* but the above documents refute this and clearly prove the place of his origin and his paternity. Bedfordshire is an adjoining county to Bucks. Cranfield lies about five miles East by South from Newport-Pagnell while Odell, no doubt the cradle of the race, is about ten miles to the North of both in Bedfordshire. The Parish Register of Newport Pagnell exists from 1558.

able that he was connected with the Richard Hartley of New London, 1656-1662, who was from Yorkshire.*

17 February, 1639-40, I RICHARD WARD of Faxton in the county of Northampton, yeoman, being sick in body, do now make my last will: I give to Mr Francis Nickolls 20s. To Mr Edward Nickolls 20s. To Mr Edward Bagshew 20s. and to his wife 20s. To Mr Francis Bagshew and to Mr John Bagshew 20s. each. I dow give and bequeath to Mr Thomas Dudley, governor of New ingland, three pound. To Mr Clark, minister, 20s. of the 40s. he oweth me. To my brother Philip Ward £5 and to his four children 20s. apiece. To my brother Ambrose Ward £5. To my brother Andrew Ward £5. To Richard, son of Andrew Ward, £3. To Grace Ward and Alice Ward 40s. apiece, and 40s. to be divided between Henry Ward, Richard Ward, Grace Ward and Alice Ward. To my maid Catering King £4. To Grace Fouthery 10s. To Elizabeth Coper 5s. To Joan Fathery 5s. To John Godfrey 5s. To Thomas Rems of Broughton 5s. William Holt of Cransley 5s. Poor of Foxton 40s., whereof ten shillings is to be raised of Richard Browne of Draughton. Executors: Ambrose Ward, Andrew Ward, James Ward and Henry Ward, and Robert Goosy Overseer. Witnesses: Robert Goosy, James Ward, Henry Ward. Proved 20 March, 1639-40. (Northants Wills, S. 2., 1636-40, f. 296.)

Andrew Ward of Watertown, Mass., freeman there, 14 May, 1634,† removed the following year to Wethersfield, Conn., to aid in the foundation of the new town (then called "Connecticut Watertown") he being one of the five dismissed from the parent town for that purpose. He was a prominent and influential citizen, member of the first Court in the Connecticut Colony in April, 1636; member of the upper house in 1637 when war was declared with the Pequots; twice member of the lower house, 1637 and 1638; deputy from Wethersfield for four sessions after the confederation of the three river towns in 1639, and frequently a member of the General Court and a Magistrate. In 1640, he, with others, bought the land comprising the present town of Stamford for the New Haven Company, he afterward removed, with Rev. Mr. Denton, to Hempstead, L. I., but, about 1650, returned to Connecticut and settled at Fairfield. He was a representative to the upper house of New Haven Colony 1646 and 1653 and died at Fairfield in 1659, his will dated 8 June of that year.‡

He has been said to have been the son or grandson of Richard Ward of Homersfield, co. Suffolk, and descended of an ancient family long seated there,§ but this statement rests upon the unsupported conjecture of an early Anglo-American genealogist most of whose work, subjected to the light of the clearer criticism of to-day which demands facts instead of fancy, is found to be untrustworthy and misleading.

In the above will, however, we have certainly the clue to the true ancestry of this distinguished colonist. The connection shown with Gov. Thomas Dudley, already known to be of Northamptonshire stock, first attracted the writers' attention and careful study of the will makes it certain that the testator was a member of the Visitation family of WARD who were of Braffield and Little Houghton, in Northants, and whose pedigree was recorded in 1618-19.* Nor does the will leave us in much, if any, doubt that the testator and his brother Andrew (the probable Emigrant,) were the sons of Stephen and Joice (Traford) Ward of Northampton town and younger brothers of the Ambrose Ward named in the pedigree.

The JOYCE WARD, widow, of Wethersfield, Conn., was most probably NOT identical with JOYCE the wife of Stephen Ward of Northampton town in England, the mother of the testator according to the Visitation pedigree already cited, as the children named by her in her will do not at all agree with those of Joyce (Trafford) Ward of Northampton who was almost certainly the mother of the Emigrant and his brother Ambrose, mentioned in the above will of Richard of Faxton. Yet it is noteworthy that it is stated by Judge Adams in his manuscript that "The late ex. Governor Marcus L. Ward of New Jersey said that he was a descendant of the widow Joyce Ward of Wethersfield and that her husband's name was Stephen and that he died in England. It seems incredible that there could have been two Stephens each with a wife Joyce at the same period and this part of the pedigree will demand the strictest scrutiny.

If further confirmatory evidence were needed of the derivation of the Wethersfield people from the Braffield stock, we find it in the constant recurrence, among the American descendants, of the Christian names of the last mentioned English family, as shown in the will, every one of which is repeated and notably the very unusual ones of Ambrose, Andrew, Richard, Alice, Grace and Margery, while those of Stephen, Robert, Daniel and Isabell of the recorded pedigree also appear. All of them but Richard and Andrew being conspicuous by their absence from the Homersfield pedigree.

It is also noteworthy, in further contravertion of that erronious derivation, that we find in the Parish Registers of St. Mildred's Cornhill, London, the burial of a Mr. Andrew Warde, gent., 23 January, 1615,† who was probably the son of that Richard Ward of Homersfield and Gorleston, Suffolk, who was so lightly accepted as the American Emigrant without a scintilla of evidence beyond the Christian name.

Research along the lines indicated will undoubtedly confirm the derivation as here promulgated.

Reference may also be made, in this connection, to a series of notes on the Ward Family which appeared in the amateur genealogical page of the Boston Transcript some years ago and which, while proving nothing, treated the matter with unusual perspicacity and clearness. They are 8 March, 1902, and No. 438, 15 July, 1903, (disproving the Grenville connection,) No. 6951, 15 March, 1905, and No. 708, 29 May, 5 June, and 21 June, 1905, the first of these relating to the Capel connection and the last three to the Joice Ward problem which, while well treated, is left unsolved.

Archelaus Woodman, mercer, was of Newbury, Mass., in 1637, freeman 17 May of that year, town officer and lieutenant 1670, representative to the General Court 1674 and 75. He came over in the James of London from Southampton, embarking 6 April and arrived 3 June, 1635. In passenger list of same is called Hercules and as of Malford (i. e. Christian Malford, Wilts ,) mercer. He brought wife Elizabeth who died 17 December, 1677 and he married second Dorothy Chapman, 13 November, 1678. He died 7 October, 1702. Edward Woodman, brother of above, also of Newbury, came with wife and sons Edward and John and had four or more children born here. Freeman 25 May, 1636, representative September, 1636 and several times later. He died before 9 November, 1653, when his widow is mentioned.*

In spite of the clear reference in the passenger lists it has found impossible to trace the pedigree of these two brothers in England, largely owing to the fact that the early parish registers of Christian Malford, previous to 1650, were destroyed by fire. In view of this fact the wills and extracts of neighboring registers which follow are of special interest, as throwing a side light on persons who were certainly members of the same family although their exact relationship may never be known.

Here we conclude this series of contributions to the tracing of Anglo-American family history in which it has been our privilege and pleasure to aid amateur seekers for the truth, but these were designed for such seekers alone, and have been so far perverted by certain readers of the RECORD from their original object that it has seemed wiser to discontinue them. VAN SCHAICK'S ISLAND.

Some Revolutionary data contributed by MISS ELIZABETH SIMPSON.

The original of this intimate letter is in the possession of Miss Simpson, of the Emma Willard School, at Troy. As a contribution to local history it is of value. The writer was a soldier in the Massachusetts Troops then stationed at Van Schaick's Island on the Hudson in 1777, who later was mustered out as a Sergeant. He speaks of conditions there and the feeling prevailing in the army, cost of rations, treatment of the sick, the retreat from Fort Edward, the battle of Bennington and closes with reference to the prisoners that moment brought in from the Saratoga battlefield. The letter is printed verbatim:

Van scoick's Island,

September ye 5, 1777.

Loving Brother and Sister After my Regards to you I gladly Embrace an oppertunity of writing to you hopeing these lines will find you all well as they leave me at present. The Armey is something sickly and not to be wondred at Heither for we drough nothing but fresh beef and flower and Nont half Salt Enough to Season our meat. as for drink, we can have Water and that's all. Indeed there is little Rum to be sold to those that have money to buy it at the Extravagant price of twenty Shillings and none less than twelve Shillings a Quart. Shugger is very scarce at four Shillings a pound & Molasses at three Shillings a quart.

New Cyder is sold for a quarter of a dollar a mugg. Sauce is not to be had for love nor money. all other nessciarries are as dear in proportion as those i've mentioned. And so I leave you to judge how a soldier can live, Especially those that are sick who are obliged to spend their money or dye for the Docters take no more care of them than Common people do of their dogs. two dollars a month when the war first began was better than ten is now. I never knew what it was to be a soldier before, or i may Recall my words and say i have Known what it was to live like a soldier but never knew what it was to live lik a dog till since I joynd this army at fort Edward.

I want to know where the Bay Stores is which we had the promis of having at the prime Cost. I am sure Sombody is to blame that we don't have them. who it is I cant say i hope it is not our Court nor yet the Comanders of this Northern army but we have too grate Reason to think that it is some peticular persons i Could mention that i have seen since i have been here.

Things has appeared very dark ever since we Retreated from fort Edward but i hope it is all for the best we begin to be a little encouraged now. genrl St Claire and Scylor is gone and genrl gates has took Command here and we fare a little better than we did. our people have been finely prospred on both sides of us we are informed by a letter from fort Stannocks dated August 22 that the Enemy left that place that morning and left their tents pitcht and all ther baggage, also grate store togather with a fine artillary our men persued them and made priznors of a great Number of them. We also have very good news from Benington that our people have Kiled and took better than a thousand and quite destroyed that part of the armey. We have had no battle with them yet here but Expect it Every day and for my part i think i should be entirely willing to meet them if i was well asured that all our Commanders was true to their Country. But I am afraid of treachray. How that is i can't say but we must hope for the best. I could write more but paper is very scarce and a Shilling a sheet. Hon. George[6] Thacher graduated at Harvard College in 1776; while there he was associated with King, Gore, Sewall, Dawes and other distinguished men, who throughout their lives retained for him sentiments of affection and attachment. Having prepared himself for the profession of law, he began the practice of it at Biddeford, Maine, and was for many years a practitioner. Before the adoption of the Federal Constitution, he was chosen by the Members of the Legislature as a delegate to Congress in 1788; and thereafter from 1789 till 1801 he was a member of the House of Representatives; and at the latter date he resigned his seat and accepted the appointment as Associate Judge of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, where he remained on the Bench for more than twenty (20) years, resigning in February, 1824. While in Congress he was by no means an undistinguished member. The debates of that period will show that he took active part in all the important measures of the time, and his speeches will be found to contain, in the midst of frequent irony and some sharp satire, much useful information and sound argument. His opponents often cowered under the lashes of wit and ridicule which he bestowed upon what he thought was hollow pretence of patriotism; but such was the universal opinion of the goodness of his heart and honesty of his views, that no one felt any anger or resentment, except in one memorable instance, in which his independent and manly conduct did more towards bringing the custom of duelling into contempt, than anything which had occurred in Congress before that time or has occurred since. It is said that while he was in Congress a bill was introduced to have the eagle imprinted on the American coins; he opposed the bill, saying, "The eagle is a royal bird, not suitable for our democracy, but the figure of a goose would be very proper to be stamped upon the dollar, in which case the goslings would be appropriate for the dimes." For this speech he was challenged by the introducer of the bill. He replied to the second who brought the challenge, that he would write a note consulting Mrs. Thacher on the subject, and that in the meantime the challenger might mark his size upon the wall and fire at it with a pistol; and if he hit it he would acknowledge that he was shot. Thus ended the matter. He refused to fight, and instead of sinking in the opinion even of fighting men, overwhelmed his antagonist with confusion.

On the Bench of the Supreme Court Judge Thacher was a faithful and upright public servant. His mind was well stored with legal principles, and his strong memory enabled him to apply them with great accuracy to the questions which arose. His associates of the bench were often heard to say that, in their consultations upon cases argued, his discriminating power, technical knowledge, and recollection of old cases not reported had been invaluable to them. His integrity, independence, impartiality and fairness have been unsurpassed by none who have adorned the seat of justice. But it is in his private life, among his friends, and in the midst of his family that we look for those blemishes or virtues which exhibit the real features of moral deformity or beauty that make up the character of the man. His heart was most disinterestedly benevolent and kind: all human beings were his friends and brothers. He either could not see faults or he would not acknowledge them. Even the poor criminals at the bar had sometimes more of his compassion than suited the stern demands of justice. He had a vein of wit and humor which irresistibly impelled him to put into ludicrous shapes the arguments and opinions of those with whom he entered into a war of words; but his heart never took sides in these struggles; and the first appearance of wounded feeling would blunt his weapons and make him give the field to his adversary. In his domestic relations, he had no faults, unless an excess of kindness and indulgence be one. He lived a life of patriarchal simplicity. Surrounded by his sons and daughters and their children, and sharing the government of his family upon equal terms with a most exemplary wife, his humble dwelling was the abode of peace, love and benevolence. It was also the scene of the most unlimited frugal hospitality, where every human face was received with welcome.

Judge Thacher was a man of great and varied reading; and was particularly versed in theological and polemic controversies. These subjects were frequently the subject of his conversation and writings; and his particular friends knew that he was a sincere believer, in the great doctrines of Christianity, and in immortality brought to light by Jesus Christ, and in a future state of retribution. He laughed at the disputes that prevailed in the Christian Church, and perhaps had some peculiar notions,—but he was a Christian. It is enough to say that he was a member of a Christian Church, for no particle of hypocrisy entered into his composition. He was a practical Christian; and his whole life would bear the test of the gospel, as much as the life of any of those who doubted his faith. His life was a happy one; he wanted nothing but friends, comfort and family love; and he was rich in all of these. He never arrived at accumulating property. He lived for others more than for himself. He died in the humble cottage endeared to him by forty years of familiarity, where everything was the work of his own hands, with wife of his youth to soothe his last moments, and his numerous children to receive his parting blessing. He departed in peace with the world, leaving no enemy behind him and many friends who dwell upon his memory with affection and delight. Eccentricities he had, it is true, but they were innocent, sportive and amusing. No one who had occasion to consult his heart ever found it erring or trifling; and it may be added that no man lives who, with such narrow means, has bestowed more upon the unfortunate.

If upon any subject Judge Thacher devoted his energy with enthusiastic ardor, it was upon tracing the genealogy of his ancestry from the earliest period of their emigration to this country. No man could delight more in the contemplation of the characters and peculiar circumstances of his progenitors. He had with utmost industry collected materials and formed a correct genealogical tree with all its collateral expanding branches from the original stock, the first Antony Thacher; having acquired a perfect knowledge of every family and every individual bearing the name down to the year 1816; and we (D. W. Allen, author of Thacher Genealogy), have availed ourselves of his collection in composing the following sketches.

The compiler of these articles, almost 100 years after the death of Judge Thacher, wishes here to record the appreciation that he has experienced of Judge Thacher's genealogical researches. What has ever become of the original manuscript of the Judge the compiler of these articles has never been able to ascertain; but, through the courtesy of George Winslow Thacher, Esq., of Yarmouthport, Mass., the compiler became possessed of a copy of the original manuscript, enriched by many additions thereto of more recent date made as the result of recent study of the family by Mr. George W. Thacher, which copy is now among the collections of the New York

Genealogical and Biographical Society. To this work and to the personal assistance of Mr. George W. Thacher, the compiler has been greatly indebted in his task of elaborating the records of the descendants of Antony[2] Thacher. The Thacher family at large owe a debt of gratitude to the memory of Judge Thacher for the family record he left to posterity and we take pleasure in here acknowledging that debt, and recognizing also the aid which the researches of Mr. George W. Thacher have been to us.

As an evidence of the strong love that Judge Thacher had for all those of his blood and also of his broad-minded Christian spirit, I will here quote an extract from remarks made by him in his genealogical manuscript concerning the descendants of Judah[3] Thacher (son of Antony[2]), of which branch of the family he was unable in his time to secure but a partial record, he says:—"Should I meet any of them, I shall give them the feelings of a brother; I feel the greatest respect for the blood of Antony; the smallest subdivision of it by inter-marriages with other families, or the many intervening descents it may have passed through, when ascertained, will render the person dear to me:—full-blooded or half-blooded, legitimate or illegitimate, will make no difference in the warmth of my affection towards the object. No descendant from Abraham, and I believe in the restoration of Israel, will be more gratified in meeting one of the long dispersed ten tribes of Israel, than I shall be at finding some of the descendants of Antony through his children Judah and Bethiah."

From the diary of George Washington, published in the N. Y. Genealogical and Biographical Record, we see that Hon. George[6] Thacher dined with Washington in New York City on January 7th, 1790, and on March 18th, 1790.

236. COL. THOMAS[6] THACHER (Lieut. Peter,[5] Hon. Peter,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born at Yarmouth, Mass., January 20th, 1757; he lived at Yarmouth, where he was a soldier, a Selectman from 1789, for 15 years, postmaster of Yarmouth, and school teacher, and Justice of the Peace; he died at Yarmouth, February 24th, 1806-7, aged 50, and was buried there in Old Cemetery; gravestone. He married at Barnstable, Mass., January 11th, 1787, to Mary Churchill, born at Barnstable, Mass., ——, 1757; baptized there January 8th, 1758; died at Yarmouth, Mass., November 24th, 1841, and was buried there in Old Cemetery; gravestone. She was a daughter of Lieut. James Churchill (born December 30th, 1726, at Middleboro, Mass.), and Mary (Cobb) Gorham-Churchill (born June 14th, 1721; died aged 92, daughter of Gershorn and Hannah (Davis) Cobb, and widow of Captain Isaac Gorham), of Barnstable, Mass.

Children: 6 (Thacher), 3 sons and 3 daughters, all born at Yarmouth.

781 i. Anner Lewis,[7] born December 2nd, 1787 (or December 3rd, 1788); died February 26th, 1851, at Yarmouth, and was buried there in Old Cemetery; gravestone. Not married.

782 ii. Polly Churchill,[7] born April 28th (or 29th), 1791; died April 25th, 1826, at Yarmouth, and was buried in Old Cemetery; gravestone. Not married.

783 iii. Thomas, 1st,[7] born December 27th (or 29th), 1793; died May 11th, 1795, at Yarmouth, and was buried there in Old Cemetery; gravestone, "aged 16mo., 15 days."

+784 iv. Thomas, 2nd,[7] born July 25th, 1795; died March 3rd (or 11th), 1863; married Caroline Billings.

+785 v. George Churchill,[7] born December 30th, 1796; died October 21st, 1856; married Maria Willis Howard.

786 vi. Sally,[7] born May 13th, 1801; died July 15th (or 16th), 1802, at Yarmouth, and was buried there in Old Cemetery; gravestone says "died July 16th, 1802, aged 14mo."

Col. Thomas[6] Thacher served as a private and Sergeant in Captain Joseph Griffith's Co. of Col. John Jacob's Regiment in the Revolutionary War. He was Adjutant and subsequently Colonel of the 1st Regiment of the Barnstable County Brigade of Militia. He was the first Postmaster of Yarmouth in 1794 and a Selectman for 15 years from 1789. In no capacity, however, were his services more acceptable than in that of schoolmaster, which position he held in Yarmouth for many years. In an autograph letter of his, still extant, written November 23rd, 1791, to "Bro. Howes," he thus expresses himself:—"The fatted calf is to be killed to-morrow. If you will take Aunt Tempe and come up and dine with me, I believe you will receive pleasure enough to balance the time and expense in coming."

238. ANNA[6] PADDOCK (Rebecca[5] Thacher, Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born at Yarmouth, Mass., November 2nd, 1718; died ——, at ——; married at Boston, Mass., by Rev. Wm. Cooper, August 25th, 1736, to Benjamin Hawes, born Chatham, Mass., October 13th, 1710; died ——, at ——; he lived at Boston, Mass. He was a son of Ebenezer and Sarah (——) Hawes of Yarmouth, Monomoy and Chatham, Mass.

Child: 1 (Hawes), son.

787 i. Benjamin,[7] born ——; baptized March 18th, 1739.

A Benjamin Hawes and Sarah Salter were married in Boston by Rev. Joseph Sewall, D. D., on September 10th, 1741. It is possible that Anna[6] (Hannah) Paddock Hawes, 1st wife of Benjamin Hawes, died at the birth of her child, Benjamin[7] Hawes (or soon thereafter), and that her husband married a second time as above to Sarah Salter. This is merely a suggestion that I have not succeeded in verifying.

243. MAJOR ADINO[6] PADDOCK (Rebecca[5] Thacher, Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born at Yarmouth, March 14th, 1727-8; baptized 1st church Harwich, March 31st, 1728; he lived successively at Yarmouth and Boston, Mass., Halifax, N. S., and the Isle of Jersey. He was a coach and carriage builder; he died on the Isle of Jersey, English Channel, March 25th, 1804, and was probably buried there. He married at Boston, Mass., June 22nd, 1749, to Lydia Snelling, born Boston, October 20th, 1729; died on the Isle of Jersey, ——, 1781, aged 51; and was probably buried there. She was a daughter of Robert and Lydia (Dexter) Snelling, of Boston, Mass.

Children: 13 (Paddock), 9 of whom died in infancy and are not mentioned here, and 2 sons and 2 daughters.

788 i. John,[7] born ——; died July 1st, 1773; he was a student at Harvard College and was drowned while bathing in the Charles River. Not married.

789 ii. Adino,[7] born ——, 1759, at Boston; died ——, 1817, aged 58; married Margaret Ross.

790 iii. Elizabeth,[7] born ——; died ——.

791 iv. Rebecca,[7] born ——; died ——.

Major Adino[6] Paddock's father died when he was 4 years of age, and his mother soon thereafter removed to Boston, where she is recorded as a communicant in the Brattle Street Church on December 5th, 1736, as from "East Yarmouth Church."

He was a coach and carriage builder on Common, now Tremont Street, between School and Winter Streets, where is now Bumstead Place, then called Long Acre.

The "Paddock Elms" in front of the old "Granary" burying-ground, were set out and cared for by him (they were brought from England and kept for a time in a nursery in Milton), and it was known as "Paddock's Walk" or "Row."

In 1763, he set up a public coach, called the "Burling Coach." He was a member of Engine Co. No. 7, from 1758 to 1763, and a Fire Warden, 1764 to 1767, and served often on committees. In 1774 he was listed as keeping a cow.

He commanded the companies of Artillery in Boston, with the rank of Major, and two of the four brass cannons purchased by order of the Legislature were kept in a gun-house corner of West Street, near Major Paddock's dwelling. As he was heard to say that he designed to surrender the two pieces to General Gage, a party who desired a different use for them, dismounted them and leaving the carriages, took the cannons away.

In March, 1776, Major Paddock embarked for Halifax, N. S., and to the Royal Army, accompanied by his wife, and by Adino, Elizabeth and Rebecca, his surviving children; and on June of that year, the whole family, his son Adino excepted, sailed for England. In 1778 he was proscribed and banished. From 1781 until his decease he resided on the Isle of Jersey; and for several years held the office of Inspector of Artillery Stores, with the rank of Captain. He received partial recompense for his losses as a Loyalist. The following is a copy of an advertisement inserted by him in a Boston paper:—

"Adino Paddock, Chaise-maker, near the Granary, has second-hand Chaises to sell: and as they take up much storage he will sell them under value. A Post Chariot hanging on steel springs, having been lately built and finished by the subscriber, and approved by the best Judges in Town.

All Gentlemens are hereby notify'd that I will undertake to finish a Coach, Chariot or other Carriage, equal in fashion to the latest Models from England, at the Prime cost there, including one half the freight.

ADINO PADDOCK, April 13, 1761."

258. JOHN[6] THACHER (Elisha,[5] Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, Mass., September 1st, 1730; died ——, at ——; he is not mentioned in his father's will under date of June 11th, 1770, and is supposed to have been dead on that date without issue. I have been unable to determine definitely that he was dead on the date of his father's will nor am I aware of where he died or when or whether he married and had children. From Rev. Bela Hubbard's diary we obtain the following extract. (Bela Hubbard was rector of Trinity P. E. Church, New Haven, Conn.): "Baptized 1789—Anna Thacher, aged 19 years, wife of John Thacher, Jr., of Stratford, Conn., at Allingtown." At this date, 1789, there was a John[6] Thacher (Captain Josiah[5]), No. 270, living in Stratford, Conn. (he was my great-grandfather), but I never heard that he had a son John and at present writing I do not believe that he had such a son John. Who, then, was the John, Jr., of Stratford, who married Anna ——. It is possible that he was the above John[6] Thacher (Elisha[5]), No. 258, and that he was living in Stratford, Conn., at that time. If so, he was a cousin of John[6] Thacher, No. 270, and may have been known as John, Jr., to distinguish him from John[6] Thacher, No. 270. From this John Thacher, Jr., who married Anna ——, has sprung a group of New Haven Thachers who labor under the impression that they are descendants of John[6] Thacher, No. 270, of Stratford, Conn., probably led to believe so from the above quoted extract from Rev. Bela Hubbard's diary. In the Hughes Family, by W. P. Hughes, this John Thacher, Jr., who married Anna ——, is said to have come from Maine; but I am unaware of any John Thacher unaccounted for from Maine. The statement that he came from Maine, may be an error, and he may have been from Massachusetts and possibly the above John[6] Thacher, No. 258. And it is barely possible that he may have been a son of John[6] Thacher, No. 270, of whom I have never before obtained any record. I make these remarks here as a guide to future Thacher genealogists who may be able to clear this point up satisfactorily. I do not include a record of the New Haven Thachers here, who sprung from this John Thacher, Jr., of Stratford, by his wife Anna ——, because I am in doubt as to what line they belong; but I have a quite complete record of his descendants.

259. MARY[6] THACHER (Elisha,[5] Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, Mass., March 7th, 1731-2; died ——, previous to 1764, at ——; married at Barnstable, Mass., December 21st, 1752, to Ebenezer Gorham, Jr., of Barnstable, Mass., born Barnstable, August 7th, 1729, baptized there August 24th, 1729; died ——, 1772, about; lost at sea. He was a son of Ebenezer Gorham (born February 14th, 1695; died November 16th, 1776; married September 22nd, 1727), and Temperance (Hawes) Gorham (born ——, 1705, died February 21st, 1767), of Barnstable, Mass.

Children: None.

Ebenezer Gorham married, second, ——, 1764, to Hope Carver of Plymouth, Mass., and on July 16th, 1767, to Hannah Hall, widow of Lot Hall of Yarmouth. Ebenezer Gorham seems to have had but one child, Hannah; and that child was by his third wife. Hannah, his widow, administered his estate, which was insolvent. Ebenezer Gorham was appointed guardian of the Lot Hall's children, viz:— Daniel, Lot, Urian and William.

260. CAPTAIN ELISHA[6] THACHER (Elisha,[5] Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born at Barnstable, Mass., May 8th, 1734; he was a sea captain and lived successively at Yarmouth and Barnstable; he died at Barnstable, January 14th, 1795, and was buried in Goodspeed's Hill West Burying-ground, and his widow (second wife) administered his estate, February 13th, 1795. He married, first, —— at —— (int. Pub. Braintree, Mass., September 26th, 1756, Barnstable, Mass., October 23rd, 1756, and Yarmouth, Mass., October 23rd, 1756), to Abigail Webb, born at Braintree, Mass., December 23rd, 1730; died —— 1764, at ——. She was a daughter of Jonathan Webb (born Braintree, December 27th, 1697; died September 16th, 1784, aged 92), and Bathsheba (——) Webb (born ——, 1697; died November 22nd, 1776, aged 80) of Braintree, Mass. He married, second, ——, at ——, to Mary Given, of ——, Maryland, born ——, at ——; died —— (she was living in 1812, in the household of Mr. Endicott of Boston), at Boston, Mass.; her parentage is not known to me.

Children: first marriage, 1 (Thacher), daughter, born at Yarmouth or Barnstable.

824 i. Abigail Webb,[7] born ——; died a few years after marriage, int. marriage pub. at Boston, Mass., October 7th, 1793, to Thomas Hall; she is mentioned in publication as being of Berwick. Thomas Hall was a printer in Boston. Children: None.

Children, second marriage: None that are known of.

Hon. George[6] Thacher, No. 235, in his Manuscript genealogy, says:—"Captain Elisha Thacher and his wife I became acquainted with in the summer of 1775 (this, of course, refers to his second wife). They lived in a house owned by my brother Josiah in Yarmouth. There and at Barnstable they continued until the year 1780, at which time I left that part of the country. They lived in elegance and were generous to everybody. The poor had cause to bless them; the rich and affluent enjoyed their good things with them; and as often as I visited Yarmouth and Barnstable, those who remembered the days of "Seventy-five," ceased not to do justice to the benevolence and kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Thacher. Let me add that Mrs. Thacher, without ostentation, has always borne the character of a religious and pious woman. I have been acquainted with her about 40 years, during which time she has passed through prosperity and adversity. She has no relatives in this part of the country, and is now (1812) alive, a worthy and amiable woman; she is superintendent of the house of Mr. Endicott in Boston, who is a respectable merchant tailor and a descendant of Governor Endicott of the Old Province of Massachusetts, in a direct line."

Jonathan Webb was a tanner; he was a man of much respectability and good social standing. He lived in Braintree, Mass., north Precinct, now Quincy. He and the father of President Adams were of like standing; they were his neighbors, and were deacons in the 1st church. He had 10 children, of whom all but two (2) died in early childhood, of these two (2) only one (1), a daughter, entered into the married state, so that the name (Webb) in this line became extinct.

ADDRESSES OF THE HONORABLE JAMES BRYCE, THE HONORABLE CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS AND THE HONORABLE JOSEPH H. CHOATE.

Delivered at a Meeting of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, Saturday Afternoon, December 14th, 1912.

The Honorable James Bryce.

Mr. Bowen, Ladies and Gentlemen:—I value this opportunity which your kindness offers me of returning to you my hearty thanks for the great honor which was done me when I was elected two years ago to be an honorary member of this Society. I have nothing to say to you with regard to its own work, because my friends who are here, Mr. Choate and Mr. Charles Francis Adams, know so very much more what the Society does for American history and American genealogy than I do that it would be presumptuous for me to offer any special comments on the work your Society does. But as I have for a good while taken a deep interest in historical studies, I feel it to be a great pleasure to be associated with this Society; and when I recall, Mr. Bowen, the number of societies and the universities with whose membership I have been associated in one way or another during the last six years, I feel that the hundred ties which are fastened to me already would make it difficult for me to try to cross the ocean again. I can only express my sincere thanks for the special mark of favor you bestowed upon me when you made me a member of your Society.

I have always felt, ladies and gentlemen, that genealogy is an important help to history; not only is it a help to history, but it was almost the earliest form of history, out of which history began.

History began in two ways—heroic lays, commemorating the deeds of certain great periods and personages, and records of the birth and ancestors of these great persons. It was so in Egypt where the hieroglyphic records tell who the great ones were and they carry us back to even thousands of years before the Christian era. Then, again, there were our Celtic societies where each chief, each great chief, had a bard attached to the court, whose business it was to not only exploit the work of his chief, but to compare his deeds with those of his ancestors. And it is a curious illustration of this that the oldest pieces of history which we possess, written in the Teutonic language and written about any Teutonic matters are in the genealogy of the Sagas of Iceland. The Sagas of Iceland, composed in the 9th and 10th centuries and written down in the 11th and 12th centuries, carry us back to a very remote period. They carry us back to a time when the earliest ancestors of the great Icelandic and Norse and

Swedish families went back to Odin, the divine ancestor of the kings, or some wild animal such as the wolf, who was the progenitor, according to their genealogy, of the Wolfganger who was the ancestor of the Dukes of Normandy, and through the Anglo-Normans to the Plantagenets, and the whole line of the kings and queens of Scotland from Mary downward, and from the times of James I and Elizabeth, the line of the Scottish and English kings runs through these, the Anglo-Norman and Wolfganger, back to a Bear who appears to be the progenitor of those people. (Laughter.)

And next are the genealogies of the Jewish families which appear to be the oldest of any that exist. There was a Jewish family in the Caucasus which claimed to carry its genealogy back to King David, and which certainly did carry it back a long way, if it didn't get it to King David; and so if we can get an ancestry back to King David, it is not very much farther to get it back to Noah. (Laughter.)

These Icelandic genealogies go back to the ninth and tenth centuries and they appear to be authentic; and some of the great Icelandic families appear to collect them farther back than any trustworthy genealogies which we have. It is a curious fact that these things should be preserved in a remote and distant part of the world, such as Iceland is; but the reason is that in such a solitary place there are fewer changes and destructions of families than took place in the medieval Europe and medieval England and medieval France.

However, I must not let myself wander into the subjective field of Icelandic genealogy. It was my privilege to visit Iceland over forty years ago.

Your Society applies caution and criticism to the study of pedigree. It sets a standard of accuracy to which it is to be desired that all those conducting such inquiries in England should attain; and we give you thanks for your researches and for establishing such standards and connections between the families of this country and those of England, Scotland and Ireland.

It is to us a great pleasure that that friendship which exists between us, that affection which exists between us and you should rest upon not only every ground of sentiment and tradition, but also upon the recognition of how much English blood can be shown to flow in the veins of many old families here and how the terms of cousinhood, extended as it should be for many degrees, shows the connection between those of the old countries, from ancient families, down along the line to those who came over here.

It was a great pleasure to present to the town of Hingham, in Massachusetts, one of the oldest towns in that State, what was said to be a cornerstone of the tower erected in Hingham, in Norfolk, England, and to find that the town of Hingham had preserved a record of all those who came over in the middle of the 17th century. Also to find how many of these families had remained in Norfolk, and now they will keep up connection with the people in your Hingham and the men in your Hingham with them.

There were five or six or seven families that made great names in this country and among them was one in which there had been an ancestor of Abraham Lincoln. That was one of the interesting results which had been obtained by the genealogical studies of the past fifty years or so, and I venture in behalf of my friends in England, who appreciate and are interested in the work you do in that direction, to tell you that work is done for us as well as for yourselves and so wish you a long career of usefulness in it. (Applause.)

HONORABLE CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

Mr. Bowen, Ladies and Gentlemen:—It gives me a great amount of satisfactien to feel that this is not the first time that I have met you. Some years ago I was here on an occasion in honor or recognition of the late John Bigelow. He has since passed on, breaking what may be considered the last connecting link between the present and the past of New York. And I was particularly impressed just now—I have come here without prepared remarks—and I propose to simply talk and utter what comes into my head, which in the case of Mr. Choate is dangerous to those who come near him. (Laughter.) And there was one remark made by the Ambassador (Bryce) which appealed to me, and I thought it might be directed at me. He said that of late in looking over these genealogies a certain amount of invention and ingenuity had been displayed in their preparation. That recalls an incident in my own case. So far as my own family is concerned the name (Adams) speaks for itself. (Laughter.) We are the oldest. Therefore, wherever I am, or "where MacGregor is there is the head of the table." But I found I was taking upon myself a modesty which was unnecessary. A short time ago I received—some two or five or six years ago—I received a circular headed, "The Society of the Runnymede," from a gentleman named Browning, and I think his residence is in Pittsburgh. He inquired if I remembered that I was connected with the sureties of the Magna Charta at Runnymede. As far as I was concerned we were autochthonous; there was no trace of ours across the Atlantic. I wrote back that I was not informed of this fact, but it was interesting and I would be glad to be further enlightened. Soon I received another letter, wherein he said that through my mother I was descended through one of the leading persons in the settlement of the history of Boston, Sir Richard Saltonstall; and that Sir Richard Saltonstall had a genealogy which went back to the sureties of Magna Charta, and therefore I was entitled to belong to the Society of Runnymedes, and they would make out a chart for me, which would be proof positive of the fact. I wrote a little further to him, and he replied that incidentally the price of the chart would be $50; and if I would give him $50 the chart would show conclusively that I was a descendant of Sir Richard Saltonstall who traced his ancestry back to not less than seventeen of the descendants of the sureties of the Magna Charta. I told him that at three dollars a head it was cheap and I would take the lot, and I do not hesitate to say there is not a person here that would not take a descent from the surety of Magna Charta at three dollars. It is cheap, dirt cheap. (Laughter.) Passing on to another subject I am reminded of the fact that I have now been two evenings successively at an entertainment where there was a good deal of after-dinner eloquence; and I have had the great satisfaction on both of those occasions of sitting there—I don't know how many of you here have known of the discomfort of sitting after dinner for a very long time with what might be called an undigested speech on your diaphgram which must presently be got rid of, and on both of those occasions I am prepared to say, although the lightning struck near me on one occasion, I sat there with delightful consciousness of ease that I had not to get up and make a speech. * * *

The meeting last evening was to celebrate one hundred years of peace. As the speeches went on I bethought myself, that if it had been my fate or my good fortune to be among the list of speakers for the occasion, that while the speeches were very good, some of them exceptionally good, none of them less than good, while they were all good, had it been my good fortune to contribute to the occasion, I could have contributed something which would have been unique. When I explain what it is I refer to you will see at once. It so chanced that an ancestor of mine, Mr. John Quincy Adams, was the head of the commission which one hundred years ago, in 1814, negotiated the Treaty of Ghent. Some years ago in looking through the family papers I found that while negotiating that treaty, about the time it was settled on and the terms of the treaty had been agreed upon, that my grandfather, who had a fondness for letter writing—he had inherited a considerable capacity from his mother as a familiar letter writer—he had been in constant correspondence with his wife, who was my grandmother, and who had been left in St. Petersburg when he was commissioned to go to Ghent. He had corresponded with her describing what was taking place. There was one long letter, possibly four, of his solid letter pages, in which he gave an account which would have been peculiarly appropriate last evening at that dinner. In it he gave an account of what I may suppose was a banquet—at any rate a municipal function that was given by the municipality to these commissioners when the treaty was agreed upon and about to be signed. He described in great detail how he went and the persons who were there and what took place. That was exactly one hundred years ago, or it will be two years hence on the 25th of December, 1914. I have that letter, yellowing with age, among my family letters, this familiar letter to his wife describing the occasion. But there was one incident of that occasion which I am sure we in these days of race suicide, at least the ladies, will peculiarly appreciate. He mentioned that he had taken into dinner the wife of one of the leading municipal authorities of the city, and also the interesting fact that she was the happy mother of seventeen children, three born at one birth and two at another, which I think the ladies will agree did not indicate race suicide in that direction.

But the letter is one of extreme interest, and two years hence when the full century has rolled around, and here in New York our friend Mr. Choate will doubtless preside over a function like the one last night, given to commemorate the centenary of the passage of the Treaty of Ghent, I give him notice that I will bring that letter on, and for the first time in one hundred years have it published to the world. (Applause.)

HONORABLE JOSEPH H. CHOATE.

Mr. Bowen, Ladies and Gentlemen:—I was greatly obliged to Mr. Adams for talking so long. (Laughter.) Very seldom does an audience, or any part of an audience have the satisfaction of congratulating the gentleman who preceded him. I shall not venture to talk so freely and fluently about myself as Mr. Adams did, because there is not so much to talk about. I propose to speak more about our special guests of the afternoon, for the limited period of eleven minutes and a quarter, because I received special notice from Mr. Bowen, when he invited me to come here this afternoon, that the exercises must positively close at five o'clock, because the audience consisted mostly of ladies, and they would be very hungry at that time, and very anxious for their tea. (Laughter.)

Now, Mr. Bryce is perfectly fair game on this occasion. He has been wandering up and down the land for the last five or six years, gathering laurels and degrees and gowns and hoods and diplomas, and from what I know of the domestic economy of his life in England, when he returns there he will have to build an addition to his very modest house in Sussex to hold all these insignia he has gathered, and the visible ocular proofs of the honors which have been bestowed upon him here.

It is a great thing for this Society to have captured a British ambassador, and to have caught him alive, and to be able to put him in the mausoleum of its library. It does not happen more than once in many years. England has the good sense of keeping its ambassadors on the job until they grow grey, and there is not the annual or quarterly or biannual or quadrennial change as a matter of necessity. Mr. Bryce has been here for five or six years, and every man, woman and child in America wishes he could stay here five or six years more. (Applause.) The ambassadors are peculiarly fit people for membership in genealogical and biographical societies. I felt my qualifications for membership here after serving six years in England, because of the genealogical demands made upon me by enterprising Americans who regarded the American ambassador, and very properly, as their property, and I cannot tell you how many letters I received from people in Arkansas or Dakota or Indiana asking me to send them immediately the evidence that I could collect of the relationship they bore to a certain man whom the writer had been informed had died in the Isle of Skye in 1653, or thereabouts, and whose descendants were supposed to have come to America. I did a great deal of service in that field, and I deemed it not unfitting but very appropriate, that I should be made, two or three years ago, an honorary member of this Society. I could not find out much about my own ancestors in England, although I made diligent inquiries. The late Lord Acton told me he had found my name, spelled exactly as I spelled it, in some book of English history in the fourteenth century and I was foolish enough not to ask for a reference to it, and he up and died ; and that died with him.

So I connected myself with a sturdy yeoman of the heart of England, who had a connection with St. John's College at the time of Milton, and who entered the college with the poet and continued as long as he was there. A lady, however, very closely connected with me, has experienced less difficulty, because her relatives in America, have made very far-reaching investigations of their English pedigree, and have discovered that she was of royal descent, really tracing their ancestry back to Saxon times, and continuing back and making a direct connection with Ethelred, The Unready. (Laughter.) And, in some moments, I have thought I could trace a direct resemblance there.

I should like to continue these ribald remarks, and I prefer to follow the example of Mr. Adams and divide my speech into two distinct portions; the first part meaning nothing whatever, (Laughter), as you have heard with me and with him ; and the second part, a little more serious in direct application to Mr. Bryce.

Now, I have said that everybody in America was very sorry indeed to have Mr. Bryce go away. We want him here because there never was a British ambassador before him who proved himself to be so thoroughly, as he has done, to be an ambassador not merely to our government at Washington, but an ambassador from the whole British people to the whole American people. (Applause.)

I doubt if England can furnish such another man. They have had great statesmen here with us, but if I recollect on only one or two occasions did either of them make an address in public. I do not think there is any record of it, except in the case of Lord Lyons, in the period of our Civil War; and once, Lord Pauncefote made a speech in which he was so misrepresented by the reporter, and he was a stenographer, too, that he almost felt compelled to resign.

Now, what has Mr. Bryce done for us? Well, in the six years that he has been here, five years and three-quarters, he has negotiated thirteen treaties, signed thirteen treaties with our Secretary of State, each one of them tending to promote the cause of peace and good fellowship between our nation and his. And he has settled for once and forever a great many controversies that might, between other nations, have given great occasion for trouble. And besides that, they say the Yankees have a faculty of making themselves at home wherever they go. If that is so, he must be the most veritable Yankee to be found, as he has made himself at home in every State and Territory of the nation, not excepting Hawaii, Guam, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and he has had time besides that to make journeys throughout this land and other lands, and as you all know, he has already written the best book about America that ever has been written and that will only be excelled by the one he will write about us when he gets home. (Applause.)

I shall not say anything about the Panama Canal, as I feel about it exactly as Mr. Adams does; and he has had the courage to speak out—"blurt out," he said—but it was my view, and is the view of every man and woman present. (Applause.)

I feel perfectly sure that they will not go back on that good faith, on that keeping of our promises, on that standing by what we have agreed to, which is now an established American doctrine at least one hundred years old, and which will continue to be so for not only one hundred years more, but many hundred years yet to come. And if any of those who are put in position and enabled by their position to betray us, do so, they will be recalled and given back seats. (Applause.)

I see that the mouths of many of my auditors are wide open, and some look hungry; but I have done my share, according to programme, and I am through at five o'clock. I have no secret letters written a hundred years ago to produce. But I thank you very much for the kind hearing you have given me, and I rejoice with you in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce. (Prolonged applause.)

At the conclusion of the addresses Gen. James Grant Wilson, in a few happily chosen remarks, presented to Mr. Bryce a paper-knife fashioned from the wood of the English oak which Edward VII, when Prince of Wales, planted in Central Park.

A PROBLEM OF NEW ENGLAND GENEALOGY.

By John Denison Champlin.

In the issue of the Record for July, 1912, in "Registration of Pedigrees, No. 76," is the statement that Edmund Greenleaf "m. (2) ——, at ——, to Sarah Jurdaine Hill, dau. of Ignatius Jurdaine of Exeter, Eng.; and widow first of —— Wilson, and second of William Hill, of Fairfield, Conn." As this tends to perpetuate an old error, and as Sarah Hill was a person of considerable prominence, I think it worth while to give briefly the facts in her history.

Sarah Hill was the daughter of "the wp[1] Ignatius Jourdain," Mayor of Exeter, and of his second wife Elizabeth Baskerville, sister of Sir Simon Baskerville, physician to James I and Charles I, descended, says the English Dictionary of National Biography, "from the ancient family of Baskervilles in Herefordshire." Ignatius Jourdain, her father, was of a prominent family of Lyme Regis, Dorset. John Jourdaine, his cousin, was a Captain in the service of the East India Company, and President in 1618 of the Council of India; Richard Jourdain, his uncle, was a member of the Society of Merchant Adventurers of Exeter before 1571, was Bailiff in 1583, and Receiver of Exeter in 1596; and Silvester Jourdaine, his brother, was the companion of his townsmen, Sir George Somers, Sir Thomas Gates, and Captain Newport, in their voyage to America in 1609, and was wrecked with them at Bermuda. On his return home Silvester Jourdaine published A Discovery of the Barmudas, otherwise called the Isle of Divels (1610), from which Shakespeare is supposed to have drawn material for The Tempest.

Ignatius Jourdaine went early to Exeter. In 1576 he had occasion to go to the isle of Guernsey where, probably through the influence of some of the banished preachers, he was "new borne," as he himself expressed it, and he was ever afterward a staunch Puritan, though also a good churchman and loyal to the King. But he did not hesitate to express his opinion when any royal act clashed with his sentiments. He wrote to the King a strong letter of protest against the Book of Sports, and induced Bishop Carey to present it. When Charles read it he declared that the writer ought to be hanged, but the bishop besought the King's leniency, asserting that in Mr. Jourdaine "God had not a better servant nor his Majesty a better subject in the whole land." Again, in 1638-9, when the royal proclamation in relation to the seditious practices of the Scots in matters of religion was read in the Exeter Cathedral, Alderman Jourdaine and others put on their hats by way of protest. The delinquents were summoned to appear in the Star Chamber to answer, but Mr. Jourdaine, then nearly eighty years old, was excused on the certificate of his medical adviser that a journey to London would endanger his life.

Ignatius Jourdain died in Exeter June 15 and was buried June 18, 1640, in the church of St. Mary Arches. His life was considered of such prominence as to entitle him to a biography, written by his pastor and published in London in 1654. It concludes: "That therefore his name may live . . . and that he may be a pattern of Piety and Charity to succeeding generations, it hath been thought fit to commit to writing, and to publish to the world those singular graces, and memorable acts that did shine forth in him both living and dying."

Mr. Jourdain filled many municipal offices in Exeter. In 1599 he was appointed one of the Bailiffs or Stewards, and in 1608 he was chosen a member of the Chamber of Alderman. He was Receiver of the city in 1610, Sheriff in 1611, and Mayor in 1617. He acted also as Deputy Mayor in 1624-5, when Exeter, scourged by the plague, was deserted by Mayor Walker and other officials. In 1625 he was elected one of the Burgesses to represent Exeter in Parliament, and again in 1627-9. He was prominent in both sessions, serving on important committees and speaking frequently. He also introduced several bills against profane swearing, against abuses of the Lord's Day, and for the capital punishment of adulterers.

Mayor Jourdain's first wife, married June 24, 1589, was Katherine, daughter of John Bodley, goldsmith, and nearly related to Sir Thomas Bodley, from whom the Bodleian Library, Oxford, was named. She was buried, May 4, 1593, in St. Mary Arches, Exeter, and Ignatius married second, Aug. 5, 1593, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Baskerville. The Register of St. Mary Arches contains the baptisms of seventeen of his children, all, excepting the first three, by the second marriage. Of these, Sarah, the sixth child, was baptized March 4, 1598-9. She married in Exeter, Oct. 28, 1619, William Hill, son of James Hill of Lyme Regis, and came with him and his six children to New England in the William and Frances, arriving in Boston, June 5, 1632.

William Hill was among the first settlers of Dorchester, Mass., where he was made a freeman, Nov. 5, 1633. Land was granted to him there, Nov. 2, 1635, and in 1636 he was a Selectman. He removed soon to Windsor, Conn., which he represented in the General Court in 1639-41 and in 1644. Thence he removed to Fairfield, Conn., where he was an Assistant and Collector of Customs. He died in September, 1649. His will, made Sept. 9, of that year, was not proved until May 15, 1650; but the inventory of his estate was made at Windsor Sept. 24, 1649, and at Fairfield Nov. 16, 1649. His widow was then about fifty years old. The date of her marriage with Edmund Greenleaf of Boston is not known, but it was in or after 1663, as Greenleaf's first wife died January 18 of that year.

With these facts before us, the myth of a Wilson marriage precedent to Sarah Jourdain's marriage is scarcely worth discussing, as it was invented solely to explain the relationship between the Hill and Wilson families. While Sarah Jourdain's age (twenty) at the time of her marriage with William Hill would not absolutely preclude the possibility of an earlier marriage, the fact that she was wedded under her maiden name of Jourdain would seem to settle that question conclusively. We must, therefore, look further for the solution of the problem in New England genealogy given by Mr. O. P. Dexter in the New England Genealogical Register (xxxix, 78). Nor does it seem necessary to accept his suggested solution (Gen. Reg., lii, 83) that if it can be proved that Anthony Wilson and the Hills were not blood relations then "I will not hesitate to say that Anthony Wilson married, probably in 1655-7, Elizabeth, younger daughter of William and Sarah (Jordan) Hill, had by her his daughter Sarah, and then immediately lost his wife."

While this is not impossible, it seems hardly probable, for the relation between the Wilsons and the Hills may be accounted for through their marriage connections. Anthony Wilson, whose first wife was Rachel (Hubbard) Brundish, widow of John Brundish, married second Sarah (Jones) Bulkeley, daughter of Rev. John Jones and widow of Thomas Bulkeley, son of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, Mr. Jone's coadjutor at Concord, Mass. William Hill, son of William and Sarah (Jourdain) Hill, married Elizabeth Jones, the younger sister of Sarah (Jones) Bulkeley, and this sisterly connection of the two wives fully explains Anthony Wilson's designation of William Hill as his brother, i. e., brother-in-law. While this may not wholly justify, viewed from a twentieth century standpoint, his speaking of his brother-in-law's mother as "Mother Hill" and of his brothers as "brothers Ignatius and James Hill," we must remember that family relationships were not very clearly defined in the early days and that the Hills and Wilsons appear to have been very intimately associated.

Those interested in the subject will find wills of the Hills, the Jourdaines, and the Baskervilles, with remarks by Mr. Henry F. Waters, in Gen. Reg., xlix, 494. See also The Life and Death of Mr. Ignatius Jourdain, by Ferd. Nicolls, London, 1654; and An Exeter Worthy and his Biographer, by Frances B. Troup, a reprint from Transactions of the Devonshire Association for the Advancement of Science, Literature, and Art, 1897.

On motion report was received and ordered on file.

Mr. Henry Pierson Gibson, the Librarian, reported as follows:

That the selection of Mr. Evans to take charge of the Library had produced very satisfactory results, that at the present time he considered the Library in better condition than ever before. That new systems of classifying, indexing and numbering had been introduced with great success and when completed we will have an accurate account of all our books, manuscripts, pamphlets, records, charts, etc. That while the death of Mr. Griffin had meant a great loss in the securing of valuable church records, splendid results had been accomplished by Mr. Vosburgh in securing new material and the donation of records made by Miss Eells.

The total accessions for the year were 586 of which 187 were bound volumes. The total bound volumes indexed in the Library now amount to about 8500 and including pamphlets, etc., 13500. There were 1477 visitors for the year.

Owing to the illness of the Necrologist, Capt. Richard Henry Greene, there was no report. The Secretary was, on motion, requested to express the regrets of the Society to Capt. Greene with the hope that he would soon be better, and the desire to have his records for use in THE RECORD.

The Registrar of Pedigrees, Mr. Winchester Fitch, made no report.

Mr. Mott, Chairman of the Publication Committee spoke as to the success of THE RECORD and the desire to secure New York material. That the tombstone inscriptions in Saratoga County will shortly be published and he hoped to follow county by county through the State.

On motion report was received and ordered on file.

The report of the Historian, Dr. William Austin Macy, was read by the Secretary. He spoke particularly of his efforts to secure reports of Church records of the various counties in the State and that he was working to obtain additional material of many churches which no longer existed whose records would be of great value to the genealogist. He hoped the members would emulate the activity of the late Mr. Walter K. Griffin and Mr. Royden W. Vosburgh in pushing the research work the Society has so long been interested in. He suggested that ways and means be devised to stimulate the widest co-operation on the part of our members.

On motion report was received and filed.

The Chairman of the Committee on Heraldry, Mr. Charles Pryer, reported that circulars, etc., had been sent to all new members elected but that there has been no additions of armorial bearings during the year.

The Report of the Nominating Committee being next in order the Chairman, Mr. John Denison Champlin, presented the names of the following five candidates for Trustees for the term of 1913–1916: Henry Russell Drowne, George Austin Morrison, Jr., John Reynolds Totten, Hopper Striker Mott, William B. Osgood Field. On motion report was accepted.

Rev. John Cornell addressed the meeting and read portions of the By-Laws as to nominations, etc., also spoke of having requested the addresses of all members and only been furnished with three names, and suggested an amendment to the By-Laws covering this point, and on behalf of ten members of the Society placed in nomination the names of: Henry Russell Drowne, Henry Cole Quinby, Gilbert Ray Hawes, Hopper Striker Mott, William B. Osgood Field.

Rev. S. Ward Righter tendered a vote of thanks to our fellow member Mr. Pumpelly for his interesting and amusing paper which was seconded by Mr. Morrison and carried unanimously.

Mr. Hatfield spoke on the subject of the confusion that had apparently existed among the members as to which were the proxies for the regular ticket and which for the opposition as demonstrated by the many letters received on the subject and presented the following motion: "Whereas it has developed that the system of sending proxies to members under our present By-Laws has shown itself inadequate. Be it resolved that the Trustees be requested to draft a revised By-Law that will properly permit the members of this Society to exercise their judgment in signing such proxies." Which after discussion was adopted.

Mr. Morrison made some remarks on the subject of the request that had been made to the Secretary and Trustees to furnish a list of the addresses of the members and several persons spoke on the subject. On motion of Mr. Mead it was duly moved and seconded and carried that no list of addresses should be furnished and that an individual address may only be given out on request with the approval of the Secretary.

BOOK NOTICES.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE

New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of The Record should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of The Record.

The "Book Notices" of The Record are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in The Record is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

The published Records of Virginia itself and its various counties are so meagre that it is a source of congratulation whenever an addition is made to this too little exploited field; therefore it is with pleasure that we announce the publication of this work. The volume itself deserves the highest commendation as an exhaustive and careful treatment of the subject, and will be of great value to all Historical Libraries; and from the fact that it contains several lists of early immigrants and census lists it cannot fail to be of aid to genealogical searches. The Cox Family in America, a History and Genealogy of the older branches of the family from the appearance of its first representative in this country in 1610; by Rev. Henry Miller Cox, A.M. Part I, pp. xi-325, including index. Part II, History and Genealogy of the Cock-Cocks-Cox Family, descended from James and Sarah Cock of Killingworth upon Matinecock, in the Township of Oyster Bay, Long Island, New York, compiled by George William Cocks, assisted by John Cox, Jr., pp. xii-345, including index. New York. 1912. Subscription price, cloth, $5.30 net postpaid (¾ Morocco, Japan paper, $8.30 net postpaid).

The first part of this work is by the Rev. Henry M. Cox, who has made a study of all Immigrants of the name, in all spellings from 1610 down to the Revolution, with their descendants for a few generations, carrying down to the present time noted names, as of Hon. S. S. Cox, Bishop Cleveland Coxe, Gen. Jacob D. Cox, etc.

The second part was largely compiled by George William Cocks, the principal editor of the volume, and is the result of thirty years' labor on his part. His well-known reputation as an expert genealogist and authoritative writer on Long Island History is sufficient to establish the fact that the work is excellent beyond criticism.

Special attention is called to the indices which are novel in their form and an improvement on indices in general.

History of the Presbyterian Church, Trenton, N. J., by John Hall, D.D. Revised edition. 8vo cloth, pp. 423, including index. Price $3.50. Address, Henry Duncan Oliphant, 160 West State Street, Trenton, N. J. Henry Collin Minton, D.D., LL.D., ex-Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church and Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Trenton, says: "This work is interesting and valuable, not only to those who are directly concerned with that Congregation, but also to any one who is desirous of being informed upon the early conditions and the later development of this general region. Dr. Hall was evidently a man of public spirit, broad interests and varied intelligence, with a marked faculty for historical research; and in his book he shows the ripe results of his careful and accurate work. Trenton is the centre of a section that is exceptionally rich in historic interest and it is easy to believe that full justice has not been done it in our historical literature, and we may perhaps add, is not done it to-day in the appreciation of Trentonians themselves and of South Jerseymen generally. Dr. Hall's authentic and succinct account of Trenton's narrow escape from being the National Capitol is worth more than the cost of the book. On the whole, he did a service, in making this contribution to historical literature, which was appreciated by his contemporaries; and in this new and revised edition, that service is made equally valuable to all intelligent readers of to-day."

From a genealogical standpoint we call especial attention to the Appendices, which contain much material of value to genealogical readers.

Vital Records of Connecticut, Norwich, Conn., 1659-1848, 2 vols. 8vo cloth (first volume ready for issue now, pp. 560; second volume ready for delivery July 1st, 1913, pp. ——). Published by the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Connecticut. Price $12.50 for the two (2) volumes Address, Lucius B. Barbour, Chairman of Publication Committee, State Library, Hartford, Conn.

It was with the greatest pleasure that we welcomed the Vital Records of Bolton and Vernon, Connecticut (the first volume of this series) when issued under the auspices of the Connecticut Historical Society, as indicating a much delayed start on the part of Connecticut to follow in the steps of Massachusetts in preserving in printed form the early Vital Records of their State.

Now we are doubly pleased by the issue of these second and third volumes of the series, as it indicates that the initial movement has vitality and that we may in time hope for many volumes of the Vital Records of Connecticut, which state next to Massachusetts is of the greatest interest to genealogists interested in New England research.

This first volume of Norwich records is a mine of information and when the second volume (which contains the index) is issued will be one of the most valuable additions to genealogical information which we have had the pleasure to scrutinize in some years. It should most emphatically be purchased by all genealogical libraries, Patriotic Societies and by individuals interested in that locality, not only on account of its great intrinsic value, but likewise to encourage the continuance of a good work so well started. We congratulate the Society of Colonial Wars in Connecticut and the State itself on the presentation to the public of this work.

The State of Connecticut should certainly pass an appropriation to aid in the continuance of these publications and also for the permanent preservation of the original records themselves.

This sumptuous volume evidences a painstaking preparation for the task which the compiler has crowned by an industrious and persevering conclusion of her efforts. The family with which this work deals is typical of those early settlers of Manhattan who brought with them such estimable traits as to leave many indelible marks on this section of our common country. And these people, indeed, were they to whom America is indebted for lessons of industry, persistence and indomitable courage—attributes ever present in the Dutch character—displayed in the face of harsh natural disadvantages which tried the souls of later arrivals in a lesser degree because of their labors. They made New Netherland what it was when the doughty conqueror, with no war pending and no compelling force but avarice to move him, despoiled a friendly nation of its rightful possession. It is proverbial that Perfidious Albion has ever so acted when opportunity presented.

We are informed in the pages of the work under review that all the branches of the distinctive family, the history of which is here presented, originated at the town of Wyck Dourstede and were descendants of Hendrick, Cavalier, who lived about 1400. It is affirmed that as far back as memory runs the Van Wycks have been an ancient and noble family. The Holland ancestry has been accentuated by numerous extracts from original sources and illustrations of a number of subjects connected therewith. One item which doubtless is of interest to descendants is the locating of a large colored coat of arms on the walls of St. Peter's Church at Utrecht, which is beautifully produced in this magnificent volume.

The progenitors in this country were Cornelius Barentse Van Wyck and his wife, Anna Polhemus, whom he married in Holland. Just when in the 17th century they reached New Netherlands is uncertain. The names of their seven children are preserved and from the records of the church at Flatbush a hamlet which was probably their first and only residence, are extracted some early vital statistics. The remains of Cornelius and Anna now lie in the family burying ground of Richard Thorne on Great Neck, L. I.

It will be recognized how impossible it is to follow the fortunes of the family in its ramifications. Many, of course, were the alliances the descendants entered into. It must be sufficient to mention some of the early collateral branches, viz.: The Brinkerhoff, Wiltse, Kortright, Hegeman, Thorne, Provost, Creed, Sebring, Montfort, Carman, Adriance, Martense, Breth, Van Voorhees, Santford, Schuyler, Van Alstyne, Rombout, Robbins, Hewlett, Wright, Polhemus, Cortelyou, Wickse, Teller and Cornell families.

Antiquarians and genealogists whose bent is delving among the lore of Long Island and the Hudson River counties, will find with joy many features in the text and illustrations which will prove fascinating. The latter, in passing, deserve particular praise. They add very much to the interest and appearance of the book naturally, but beyond that we doubt if any family history could show such a list of beautiful homesteads and residences as are here displayed. It is an evidence that the forehandedness of the Dutch has not departed with the lessening of the direct blood strain.

The volume is printed in readily legible type and is sent out in the usual faultless manner to be expected from the press of Tobias A. Wright.

Blatchford Memorial II. A Genealogical Record of the Family of Rev. Samuel Blatchford, D.D., with some mention of Allied Families. Compiled by Eliphalet Wickes Blatchford. Also autobiographical sketch of Rev. Dr. Blatchford from "The Blatchford Memorial." Privately printed. 1912. Quarto cloth, pp. 123.

The purpose of this book, the compiler states, was the publishing of the autobiography of his grandfather, the carrying of the Blatchford lineage one generation farther back than in "The Blatchford Memorial," published in 1871, the correction of a few traditional inaccuracies and also the bringing down to date the records of the family. All this and more has been accomplished by the venerable compiler in the elegant volume before us. Printed on hand-made Italian paper, with wide margins, beautifully illustrated with full-page portraits, old family homesteads, etc., and name and place indexes; the book impresses one with its dignity, its beauty and its comptness.

VIELE RECORDS, 1613-1913; being a Revised and Enlarged Edition of the Viele Genealogy, published in 1909 under the title "Two Hundred and Fifty Years with a Dutch Family in New York." By Kathlyne Knickerbacker Viele. 8vo, cloth, pp. 292. Press of Tobias A. Wright, 150 Bleecker Street, New York. Price $10.00.

This very handsomely printed and illustrated volume contains the records of the descendants of one Cornelius Volkertszen, a well-to-do trader and tavern keeper in New Amsterdam in 1639, and his wife, Maria du Trieux. At the time the first edition of the Viele Records was published nothing was known of this ancestor except that his name was Cornelis and that he was the father of the original three Viele brothers, Aernout, Cornelis and Pieter. One of the objects of this second edition was to go back one generation further, which the compiler was able to do through the published records of the Reformed Dutch Church in New York, published by the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. Many corrections and additions to the first Viele book have been made by Miss Viele in the present volume, and the work bears evidence of the most painstaking efforts of a very able genealogist. The book also has a complete name index.

JOHN PIERPONT MORGAN.

By Gen. Jas. Grant Wilson, D.C.L.

With three autographed portraits.

The great American banker was a descendant of Miles Morgan who came from England to Massachusetts in 1636, and on his mother's side of the Rev. James Pierpont, the second minister of New Haven. His descendant the Rev. John Pierpont who was also a lawyer, and well known as the author of the patriotic poem a reminiscence of the Gen. Warren and Revolutionary era, almost as familiar to the average American schoolboy as Halleck's "Marco Bozzaris." In 1816 Pierpont published his Airs of Palestine, which made him favorably known as one of our early poets. Later he became a zealous reformer, powerfully advocating the anti-slavery and temperance causes; was a candidate for Governor of Massachusetts and in 1850, of the Free Soil Party for Congress. When the Civil War began, although seventy-six years of age, the energetic old poet went to the front as chaplain of a New England regiment, but finding his strength unequal to the discharge of his duties, he soon afterwards resigned, and was appointed to a clerkship in the Treasury Department at Washington. While so employed he compiled in a single octavo, A Digest of the Decisions of the Treasury Department to Collectors of Customs, from fifty-four folio volumes, of which Secretary Chase said, "I regard this labor as a monument of talent and industry, and one of estimable value in conducting the correspondence of the department." When on duty in Washington during the winter of 1864–5, the present writer had the privilege of passing many pleasant evening hours with the venerable but still vigorous poet, from whom he received the signed photograph of which the accompanying vignette is a copy. His daughter Juliet married in 1836 Junius Spencer Morgan, who was born in Springfield, Mass., in 1813, and died at Monte Carlo in 1890.

"Stand, the ground's your own, my braves!"

After a prosperous career in a Boston dry goods establishment J. S. Morgan visited England in 1853, and was offered a partnership in the banking firm of George Peabody & Co., which he accepted in the following year. Ten years later, on the retirement of Mr. Peabody, the firm became J. S. Morgan & Co. Under this name the house grew in strength and influence until it ranked among the great banking houses of Europe. In 1872 I was made known to Mr. Morgan in London by a letter of introduction from his kinsman Gov. Edwin D. Morgan of New York, and received many agreeable courtesies from him. Ten years later meeting Mr. Morgan in Rome our acquaintance was renewed and during my two month's sojourn, I frequently met him at his own, and other dinner tables, as well as elsewhere in society in which he was much admired. The accompanying portrait is a little souvenir of our pleasant intercourse in the eternal city. His only son

John Pierpont Morgan was born in Hartford, Conn., 17 April, 1837, and was educated at the English High School of Boston, continuing his studies for two years at the University of Göttingen, Germany. He returned to the United States in 1857 and entered the house of Duncan, Sherman & Co. of New York. Three years later he became agent and attorney in this country for George Peabody & Co., which position he continued to hold for that firm and its successor. In 1864 Mr. Morgan became the junior partner of Dabney, Morgan & Co., and that of Drexel, Morgan & Co., seven years later, and within a short period head of the house of J. P. Morgan & Co., which soon became the leading private banking house of the country. He was also a partner in the London firm of J. S. Morgan & Co. For two score years Mr. Morgan was prominent in the financial world being occupied in important reorganizations of railways and consolidation of industrial properties: floated United States bond issue of $62,000,000 during the Cleveland administration; organized and floated securities of United States Steel Corporation, 1901 (capital $1,100,000,000); secured American subscriptions of $50,000,000 to British war loan in the same year; organized the existing agreement of the anthracite operators of Pennsylvania, also of soft coal interests in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania; controlled over 50,000 miles of railways and also large American and English ocean transportation steamship lines.

Mr. Morgan gave the site and building amounting to $1,500,000 to the Lying-In Hospital of the city of New York, and large gifts to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the New York Trade Schools, American Museum of Natural History, Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the New York Public Library, as well as to many other institutions in this country, too numerous to mention in this brief memorial. One of his latest gifts, made to the nation, was a particularly fine and valuable set of autograph letters and documents of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Quite recently Mr. Morgan erected adjoining his New York residence a superb marble building for the conservation of his large and choice collection of books, engravings and manuscripts which is presumably much the most valuable private library in this country.

There were few more enthusiastic yachtsmen on this side of the Atlantic than Mr. Morgan who was for many years Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, building the Columbia, which defeated the Shamrock for the America's silver cup in 1899 and 1901. He was a member of many clubs and societies, at home and abroad, and among other orders and decorations he received the German Grand Cross Order of the Red Eagle. During his extended presidency of the Metropolitan Museum of Art his gifts were numerous and princely. For twenty-seven years Mr. Morgan was a life member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

For many years Mr. Morgan annually visited Europe for the double purpose of rest and recreation, also with a view to adding to his vast art and literary collections. He was interested in Italian and Egyptian excavations and made frequent excursions up the Nile. Returning from his last visit he was taken ill in Rome and after a short illness died there on 31 March, 1913. Had he survived seventeen days longer, he would have been seventy-six years old. His funeral, in St. George's Church, of which he had long been the senior warden, was attended by an unusual number of the leading citizens of New York, the service being conducted by the Bishops of New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut. He was buried by the side of his father in the family mausoleum at Hartford, the capital of his native State. On the day of his funeral he was honored with memorial meetings in the New York Chamber of Commerce and in London's Westminster Abbey.

Perhaps from no pulpit of his own, or any other church, could there have come truer and more eloquent declaration of Christian faith than was set forth in Mr. Morgan's last will and testament made a few months before his death. He says:

"I commit my soul into the hands of my Saviour, in full confidence that having redeemed it and washed it in His most precious blood, He will present it faultless before the throne of my heavenly Father; and I entreat my children to maintain and defend at all hazard and at any cost of personal sacrifice the blessed doctrine of the complete atonement for sin through the blood of Jesus Christ, once offered, and through that alone."

By his will Mr. Morgan made many personal bequests, remembering all who had served him and giving three charitable bequests amounting to $700,000, also providing for annuities to other charitable objects which if capitalized, would amount to several millions more. His princely collections of art and literature estimated to be worth from fifty to sixty millions, and which he had not been allowed time to make such disposition as he desired, are left to his son, and in his will he expresses the wish that his son will carry out what he had planned to do with his wonderful treasures. It is expected that they will be shared between New York and Hartford.

I may be permitted to remember that my acquaintance with this great man extended over a period of two score years, during which we were associated in the Diocesan Conventions and in various organizations connected with the Protestant Episcopal Church in which Mr. Morgan was deeply interested. When a Committee on Historical Publications was appointed by the New York Diocesan Convention of 1885, consisting of Bishop Potter, Rev. Drs. Dix, Lobdell, Benjamin, J. Pierpont Morgan and the writer, and the latter, the only survivor, was chosen to edit the centenary proceedings together with a history of the diocese, it was found that the editor could not conveniently perform the drudgery of obtaining the necessary data to enable him to prepare the parish histories for a hundred years, and that there were no funds supplied to employ an assistant, Mr. Morgan promptly authorized the work being done at his charge. More than two decades later, when the Commission on Archives of the General Convention wished to print a series of volumes of a portion of their early and valuable manuscripts, and the fact that our Commission had no funds to meet the cost was brought to the attention of Mr. Morgan, he said "Have them properly edited and printed at my expense." Six stately royal octavo volumes issued in a limited edition for private circulation and in the best possible manner of the printer's art, with many similar volumes to follow, is the result to the Episcopal Church of the United States, of the generous churchman's liberality. Perhaps his latest important gift, in which the late William Bayard Cutting shared, was Synod Hall, a beautiful ecclesiastical building now nearly completed on the Cathedral grounds, which will be first used by the General Convention which meets in New York in October, 1913.

A few years ago learning that the writer was preparing for publication an account of Thackeray's two visits to this country in 1852–3 and 1855–6, Mr. Morgan asked me to come to his house and see some of his Thackeray treasures which might be useful. He brought out various Titmarsh volumes and among them two extra illustrated with original Thackeray drawings and letters, which he had just acquired at a cost of over sixteen thousand dollars! An hour or more were spent among his library treasures and with his cigar, he seemingly oblivious of the Wall Street office anxiously waiting for him, and enjoying himself as much as any idle gentleman of leisure could have done! Another incident may be mentioned. When the Duke of Veragua visited this country as the guest of the nation, he was invited to unveil Sunol's bronze statue in Central Park of his illustrious ancestor, Columbus. Hearing from him that he had recently lost most of his fortune by a disastrous investment, I suggested that if he was willing to part with his precious Columbus manuscripts which he had shown me in Madrid, I was under the impression that a purchaser could be found willing to pay a price that would perhaps make good his losses. The Duke, with many expressions of gratitude, gave me authority to dispose of the almost priceless documents. When I suggested their purchase to my friend, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, Vice-President of our Society, with a view to their presentation to the nation or some New York institution, to my surprise the suggestion failed to interest him, and the subject was then submitted to Mr. Morgan, who at once said: "Certainly I shall be glad to get them, but would like to see photographs of the documents and letters with translations." Before they arrived from Spain, a former American Minister to Spain, who had no knowledge of the proposed sale, set on foot a subscription for the relief of the representative of Columbus, which being made public drew from a younger half-witted brother of the Duke, which appeared in the newspapers, a claim for half the amount that should be raised. This caused so much ridicule that Mr. Morgan abandoned his intention of purchasing the Columbus manuscripts for $200,000, which he proposed to present to our government. The same incident induced Ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer of Michigan, who died in Detroit, June 1st, to abandon his subscription in behalf of the Duke.

"The scope of his activities was extraordinary. He was first of all a banker and financier—probably the most aggressive and capable the United States has ever produced. But he was also a churchman, a sportsman, a man of the world, an art connoisseur and collector, a philanthropist and an exemplary neighbor and citizen. He labored earnestly to promote education, good taste, piety, charity and civic improvement. His sympathies were catholic and his grasp on essentials would have made him a leader in any pursuit which he might have chosen.

"To inspire confidence was the keynote of Mr. Morgan's career. His word was his bond, always redeemed at full value, He left great riches, but he also left a good name more priceless than riches. He was a leader of his day whom both his fellow citizens and the world at large have long recognized as a representative American."

One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break;
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph;
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,

NOTES ON THE MANUSCRIPT RECORDS OF THE FEMALE DESCENDANTS OF ELDER WILLIAM BREWSTER.

Collected, Compiled, Arranged and Presented to the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society

BY

MISS EMMA C. BREWSTER JONES,

Compiler of the Brewster Genealogy.

Contributed by John R. Totten, Member N. Y. G. & B. Society.

To my certain knowledge no more valuable manuscript donation to our Society's library has ever been received than the above described collection. The donation was made to the Society some year and a half ago, but owing to the bulk of the manuscript and to the Society's lack of expert assistance it is only now that we are able to announce this invaluable acquisition and to inform our members that the collection is now arranged in binders and open to inspection. To those who are familiar with the admirable and exhaustive two volume Brewster Genealogy compiled by Miss Jones, it will be needless to comment upon the value of the collection; but it is but proper to state that these records exhibit all the painstaking exactness of a first class genealogist.

It was probably the primary intention of Miss Jones in the process of collecting her material for her Brewster Genealogy to include within its covers a record of all of the descendants of Elder William Brewster, both male and female; but when it came to the practical carrying out of this original intention it was found that it would extend the work beyond practical limits; and for this reason the records in the Brewster Genealogy relate largely to those of the male lines; some records of female lines are therein published but they may be said to have generally been omitted for lack of time and space to devote to them.

In collecting the records of these female lines they have in all instances been entered upon regular blank forms prepared for the purpose and the authority for the entries on each blank is carefully noted together with the name and address of individuals furnishing information and the date of its receipt; and many of the records are enriched by biograpical sketches.

The records came to us in boxes, each box containing the records of one particular female line; and the accurate order in which these records were arranged in the boxes is a most commendable commentary upon Miss Jones' systematic method in her work.

It has been my pleasure to examine carefully these records page by page and verify their proper arrangement and finally to myself personally place them in binders for their preservation and to facilitate their proper presentation to the members of our Society.

These volumes are numbered from No. 1 to No. 14 inclusive; and in those instances where the records of any particular descendant are quite voluminous, these records are subdivided into several volumes as for No. 1A. No. 1B.

Volume No. 14 contains copies of Brewster deeds and letters, and also certain records of descendants of the male Brewster lines which were not published in Miss Jones' two volume Brewster Genealogy.

The following is a summary of the contents of these records as they at present appear in volume form, viz.:

The action of Miss Jones in thus presenting these very valuable records to this Society is to be highly recommended, as it is a proper step towards their permanent preservation and at the same time is public spirited in so much as it places them where they can be consulted by all those interested. It is to be hoped that the example set by Miss Jones will be followed by others, having in their possession manuscript compilations which there is no immediate prospect of publishing, thereby preserving such records which otherwise would run the danger of being lost or destroyed.

LENOX.

CONTRIBUTED BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

This well known American family, descended from James and Elizabeth (Sproat) Lenox of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, who were married in 1750 and had among others, four sons, viz.: William baptized 1752; David, 1753; Robert, 1760; and James, 1772.

Of these sons Robert came to America in his youth and was educated under the direction of his uncle at Burlington, N. J. In 1784, after a brief visit to Scotland, he engaged in business as a general merchant in New York City, where he accumulated a fortune and was a leader in many important business and philanthropic movements. He became a member of the Chamber of Commerce in 1815, was elected its vice-president in 1817, and from 1827 until his death, December 13, 1839, served as its president, being the 14th to hold the position. An appreciation of his character, successful ventures in trade and fortunate investments in the real-estate field is to be found in the Knickerbocker Magazine for March, 1840. James Lenox, the famous philanthropist and founder of the Lenox Library was his only son and heir.

David Lenox settled in Philadelphia.

The youngest son of James and Elizabeth Lenox, James, acquired a fortune as a member of the N. Y. firm of Lenox and Maitland. On his return to his native land he purchased the estate known as Dalscairth, in Kirkcudbrightshire, a few miles from Dumfries, where he died a bachelor, May 10, 1839.

Some eighty miles from Dumfries on a spur of single track and lying half a mile from the ruins of the Castle of Dunskey, is situated the village of Portpatrick, the nearest point to the Irish coast. From this spot came Patrick Lenox, a cousin of the Kirkcudbright clan, the third son of Robert and Margaret Lennox, who was born in 1750 and settled in Newcastle, Maine, where he married Margaret Mc Near, in 1785. He died April 19, 1831, and his widow followed him May 17, 1844. They had three sons: Robert, born March 13, 1786; Thomas, Nov. 1, 1788; and Patrick, May 15, 1794. For particulars concerning them and their descendants see Cushman's History of Sheepscot, etc., Maine.

Here follows a comprehensive search made by Henry Paton, M. A. of Edinburgh.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES RELATING TO PETER ALRICKS AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

By Dr. J. G. B. Bulloch and Arthur Adams.

The history of the Alricks family in America begins with Jacob Alricks who was sent out by the Dutch West India Company as Vice-Director and Commissary-General of the Colony on the Delaware. He embarked Dec. 21, 1656, in the ship Prince Maurice from Amsterdam. The wife of Jacob Alricks died Jan. 6, 1659, and he himself Dec. 30, 1659, leaving no children. As an excellent monograph by Edward A. Price, Esq., published by the Historical Society of Delaware, relates in detail the public services of Jacob Alricks and his nephew Peter, who succeeded him, this article will be devoted entirely to the genealogy. Almost nothing, except the brief sketch in Egle's Pennsylvania Genealogies, has appeared in print concerning the descendants of Peter Alricks, one of the most eminent men in the early history of Delaware; so it seems fitting that at least a brief outline of the first few generations of descendants should be presented.

It is not definitely known when Peter Alricks came to America, but he was here by Dec. 12, 1659. From 1660 to 1697, he was almost constantly in the public service. In 1660 he was Commander of the Amsterdam Colony on the Delaware River; in 1663 he was appointed a Magistrate for the Colony in Delaware; in 1683 he was Commander-in-Chief of the town and fort at New Castle; he was also in command of the troops at the Horekill, and filled other important offices under both the Dutch and the English governments. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Provincial Assembly from 1684 to 1689, and again in 1696 and 1697.

The records of the Dutch Reformed Church in New Amsterdam contain several references to Peter Alricks. Feb. 9, 1664, Peter Alricks, young man of Nykerck in Groningerlandt, and Maria Wessells, young woman of Uytrecht, were married. Maria Wessells was a daughter of Warnaer Wessells, who was a witness to their marriage.* Maria Wessells, daughter of Warnaer, was baptised Oct. 24, 1660. Warnaer Wessells was an excise officer in New Amsterdam, Breucklen, Midwout, and Amersfoort in 1654. He was a small burgher of New Amsterdam in 1657, and held other offices there up to 1662. These records also give the dates of baptism of two of the children. The will of Peter Alricks (Col. Del. Wills, p. 9) is dated at New Castle Jan. 25, 1694, but he did not die before 1697, as he sat in the Governor's Council as late as May 13, 1697. Children:

2 i. Peter Sigfridus,[2] bapt. Oct. 3, 1666.
3 ii. Harmanus.[2]
4 iii. Jacobus,[2] bapt. Sept. 10, 1671.
5 iv. Wessells.[2]

2. Peter Sigfridus[2] Alricks (Peter[1]), was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church in New York, Oct. 3, 1666. It appears from his will (Col. Del. Wills, p. 20) that his wife was named Mary. The will is dated Jan. 5, 1715, and was proved March 28, 1716. The will provides that in default of issue, the property is to go to the children of his brothers Hermanus and Jacobus (deceased) and to the children of his brother Wessells. Peter Alricks, a son of the brother Jacobus, is mentioned. So it seems improbable that

* The identity of Maria Wessells is established by the will of Henrica Anthony. This will is dated Jan. 16, 1701, and was proved May 16, 1701. An abstract appears in Vol. I, of New York Wills, page 441, published in the Collections of the New York Historical Society for 1892: Henrica Anthony of New York, widow, will of. She mentions her three grandsons, Henry, Allard, and Nicholas Anthony; her brother Warner Wessells and his children; Henry Coerten, son of her sister Christina Coerten, widow; her sister Maria Aldricks of New Castle, Penna.; her brother Harmanus Wessells, late of New York Chirurgeon; her brother Dirck Wessells of New York; Elizabeth Sharpas daughter of William Sharpas, Town Clerk of New York, etc.

Peter Sigfridus left issue. However, Price says (p. 59) that he left a son Peter Sigfridus who married Susanna Stidham at the Old Swedes' Church in Wilmington, Del., May 25, 1740, and died in 1764, leaving numerous descendants scattered all over the country. Child:

6 i. Peter Sigfridus.[3]

3. HERMANUS[2] ALRICKS (Peter[1]), according to Price, married and left three children. Children:

i. Peter.[3]
ii. Abigail.[3]
iii. Mary.[3]

4. JACOBUS[2] ALRICKS (Peter[1]), according to Price, had issue. Children:

7 i. Peter[3] (Will of Peter Sigfridus).
ii. Sigfridus.[3]
iii. Jacobus.[3]
iv. Hannah.[3]

5. WESSELLS[2] ALRICKS (Peter[1]), according to Price, married and left five children. He was Sheriff of New Castle Co., resigning in 1700. It is said that he died in 1730. Children:

8 i. Peter.[3]
9 ii. Harmanus.[3]
10 iii. Ann,[3] m. William Glenn.
11 iv. Mary,[3] m. Joseph Hill.
12 v. Martha,[3] m. —— Griffith.

6. PETER SIGFRIDUS[3] ALRICKS (Peter Sigfridus,[2] Peter[1]), married Susanna Stidham, May 25, 1740, at Old Swedes' Church, Wilmington, Del. The will of Peter Sigfridus Alricks of New Castle Hundred, Del., is dated Sept. 19, 1764, and was proved Nov. 28, 1764. Beside the children mentioned below, he speaks of his brother-in-law Jonas Stidham, his nephew Peter Jacquet. The executors are Susannah, Fredus, and Lucas Alricks. Children:

i. Fredus.[4]
ii. Lucas.[4]
iii. Susannah.[4]

7. PETER[3] ALRICKS (Jacobus,[2] Peter[1]), lived in St. George's Hundred. His will is dated Sept. 16, 1772, and was proved Aug. 21, 1773. In it he mentions his wife Mary, sons Wessells, Harmanus, Peter, and John, a daughter Mary Peterson, and three daughters not named. He speaks of grandsons Wessells and William, sons of son Wessells; of a granddaughter Rebecca, probably daughter of the son Wessells; of granddaughters Mary, Martha, Hester, and Hannah, daughters of the son Harmanus; of grandchildren John and Peter Peterson and a granddaughter not named, children of the daughter Mary Peterson. The executors named are the wife Mary and the sons Harmanus and John. Children:

13 i. Wessells.[4]
14 ii. Harmanus.[4]

15 iii. Mary,[4] m. John Peterson.
iv.-vi. Daughters,[4] not named.
16 vii. Peter.[4]
viii. John.[4]

8. PETER[3] ALRICKS (Wessells,[2] Peter[1]), m. ——. He died before 1776. We learn from the will of Mary(11) Hill that he had the following children:

i. Harmanus.[4]
ii. Mary,[4] m. —— Parker.
17 iii. Martha,[4] m. —— Stockton.
iv. Hester,[4] m. —— Humphries.
v. Hannah.[4]
vi. Wessells,[4] } From the will of Mrs. Hill it is not clear vii. Rebecca,[4] } whose children these are; they may have been of Harmanus(9) Alricks. Wessells had a son Wessells, and Rebecca may also have been his daughter.

9. HARMANUS[3] ALRICKS (Wessells,[2] Peter[1]) was born, it is said, in Philadelphia. He settled at Carlisle in the Cumberland Valley, in Penna. He was the first member of the General Assembly from that county, and was Prothonotary and Justice of the Peace in it. He married, first, Sarah ——, on whose estate he was appointed Adm. June 19, 1750, he being designated as her husband. Probably there was no issue. He married, second, Ann West, b. 1733, in the North of Ireland. She died Nov. 21, 1791 in Donegal Township, Lancaster Co., and is buried in the old church graveyard there. Harmanus Alricks died Dec. 14, 1772 in Carlisle, Cumberland Co. After his death his widow married Col. Alexander Lowrey of Donegal. An account of the descendants of this Harmanus Alricks is to be found in the article on the Alricks family in Egle's Pennsylvania Genealogies, pp. 13-23, and therefore this line will here be carried no further than the children:

i. William,[4] b. 1758.
ii. Ann,[4] b. Oct. 7, 1760; m. Alexander Boggs.
iii. Harmanus,[4] b. 1762.
iv. West,[4] b. 1765.
v. James,[4] b. Dec. 2, 1769; m. Martha Hamilton.

10. ANN[3] ALRICKS (Wessells,[2] Peter[1]), married William Glenn, as we learn from the will of Mary(11) Hill. According to the records of Christ Church Parish, Philadelphia, the marriage took place June 16, 1731. William Glenn settled in Charleston, S. C., and the records of St. Phillip's Parish give the children:

i. William,[4] m. Martha Miller.
18 ii. John,[4] m. Sarah Jones.
iii. Martha.[4]
iv. Charlotte,[4] m. John McCall, Jr. and had; (1) Charlotte Pegg McCall, d. s. p.

11. MARY[3] ALRICKS (Wessells,[2] Peter[1]), married Joseph Hill. Her will is dated at Appoquinimink Hundred, Oct. 24, 1776, and was proved Nov. 28, 1776. She mentions her nephews, John and William Glenn sons of her sister Ann Glenn; a niece Charlotte McCall, (deceased); Mary Shaffly, a daughter of her sister Martha Griffith, deceased; her niece Ann Griffith; Harmanus Alricks, son of her brother Harmanus, deceased; Wessells Alricks, son of her nephew Wessells Alricks, and Rebekah, a sister to Wessells Alricks; West, James, William, and Nancy, children of Harmanus Alrick; Harmanus, Mary Parker, Martha Stockton, Hester Humphries, and Hannah Alricks, children of her brother Peter Alricks, deceased. She also mentions Catharine, daughter of Susannah Bradford of Philadelphia, Valentine, son of the Rev. Thomas Read, Joseph, son of her husband's nephew, John Hill. The executors named are her nephew William Alricks, and her niece Ann Griffith. Apparently she left no issue.

12. MARTHA[3] ALRICKS (Wessells,[2] Peter[1]), married —— Griffith. We learn from the will of Mary(11) Hill that she had the following children—probably others:

i. Mary,[4] m. —— Shaffly.
ii. Ann.[4]

13. WESSELLS[4] ALRICKS (Peter,[3] Jacobus,[2] Peter[1]), married Rebecca Hancock, daughter of William and Sarah (Thompson) Hancock of Salem Co., N. J., by N. J. license of March 21, 1757. Wessells and his wife Rebecca are mentioned in the wills of both William and his widow, as is their son William. The will of William Hancock is dated 21 Nov., 1760, and was proved 28 Dec., 1762. He was a son of John and Mary (Chambless) Hancock, and served for twenty years in the N. J. Assembly, and as a Justice of Salem Co. We learn from the will of Peter(7) that Wessells and Rebecca had the following children:

i. Wessells.[5]
ii. William.[5]
iii. Rebecca.5

14. HARMANUS[4] ALRICKS (Peter,[3] Jacobus,[2] Peter[1]), married Grace. According to the will of Peter,(7) his father, he had four daughters, who are named. The will of Harmanus Alricks is dated at St. George's Hundred Sept. 26, 1779, and was proved Oct. 25, 1779. He mentions his wife Grace, speaks of an unborn child, and mentions his brothers Peter, John, and Wessells Alricks. The wife Grace was made executor. Children:

i. Mary.[5]
ii. Martha.[5]
iii. Hester.[5]
iv. Hannah.[5]

15. MARY[4] ALRICKS (Peter,[3] Jacobus,[2] Peter[1]), married John Peterson. According to the will of Peter,(7) they had issue as follows:

i. John.[5]
ii. Peter.[5]
iii. A daughter.[5]

16. PETER[4] ALRICKS (Peter,[3] Jacobus,[2] Peter[1]), married Dorcas, daughter of Francis and Christian Land. Children:

19 i. Samuel.[5]
ii. Ann,[5] m. Alexander Porter.
iii. Elizabeth,[5] m. (1) John Stalcop; m. (2) John Price.
iv. Sarah,[5] m. James Dunning.
v. Esther,[5] m. John Stewart.

17. MARTHA[4] ALRICKS (Peter,[3] Wessells,[2] Peter,[1]) married a Stockton, probably Benjamin of St. George's Hundred. In the will of Benjamin Stockton, dated Oct. 12, 1776, proved Aug. 22, 1778, he mentions his wife Martha, and his sister Elizabeth Stockton of Maryland.

18. JOHN[4] GLENN (Ann[3] (Alricks) Glenn, Wessells,[2] Peter[1]), married Sarah, daughter of Dr. Noble Wymberly Jones, a patriot in the Revolution. John Glenn was Chief Justice of Georgia, 1776-78. John and Sarah (Jones) Glenn had a daughter Charlotte, among others:

20 i. Charlotte.[5]

19. SAMUEL[5] ALRICKS (Peter,[4] Peter,[3] Jacobus,[2] Peter[1]) married Lydia, daughter of William and Sarah (Thompson) Hancock of Salem Co., N. J., a sister of Rebecca, wife of Wessells(13) Alricks. Samuel and Lydia are mentioned in the wills of William and Sarah Hancock, as are three of their children. William Hancock's will is dated 21 Nov., 1760, and was proved 28 Dec., 1762. He was a son of John and Mary (Chambless) Hancock, and for over twenty years represented Salem County in the New Jersey General Assembly. He was also a Justice of Salem Co. for many years. Children:

i. Mary.[6]
ii. Sarah.[6]
iii. A daughter.[6]

Probably one of these daughters married Dr. David Thompson, and another a Dushane. The will of Elizabeth Dushane, widow, of the town of St. George, Red Lion Hundred, dated Dec. 6, 1790, and proved Jan. 23, 1792, mentions grand-daughter of Samuel Alricks, namely Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. David Thompson and Elizabeth Dushane. She, the testator, was probably the widow of Isaac Dushane, whose will was proved Mar. 17, 1790. John Dushane, of Red Lion Hundred, whose will was proved Mar. 7, 1775, had a wife Sarah.

20. CHARLOTTE[5] GLEN (John[4] Glen, Ann[3] (Alricks) Glen, Wessells,[2] Peter[1]) married Jan. 1, 1814, John Irvine Bulloch, eldest son of Capt. James Bulloch and Ann Irvine. Capt. James Bulloch was the eldest son of the Hon. Archibald and Mary De Veaux. The Hon. Archibald Bulloch was president of the Provincial Congress of Georgia, a delegate to the Continental Congress, and President and Commander-in-Chief of Georgia. Children:

21 i. William Gaston,[6] b. Aug. 3, 1815.
ii. James Powell.[6]

iii. Jane D.,[6] b. Aug. 9, 1823; m. John Henry Calburn, April 29, 1851, in Charleston, S. C.

21. William Gaston[6] Bulloch (Charlotte[5] (Glenn) Bulloch, John[4] Glenn, Ann[3] (Alricks) Glenn, Wessells,[2] Peter[1]), was a noted physician and writer of his day. He was born Aug. 3, 1815. He graduated from Yale University in the class of 1835, and from the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania in the class 1838. He lived in Savannah, Georgia, and was a founder of the Savannah Medical College, and a professor therein. He served as a surgeon in the Confederate Army with the rank of Major. He married, Nov. 6, 1851, Mary Eliza Adams Lewis, daughter of John Lewis and Margaret (Adams) King, widow of Joseph King. He died June 23, 1885. Children:

AERNOUT CORNELISEN VIELE.

By Kathlyne Knickerbacker Viele.

The thirty one years which had intervened between the year 1609 when Henry Hudson in the Half Moon sailed into what has since become New York harbor and 1640 when the subject of this sketch was born on Manhatten Island, had witnessed the first white settlement established there and clustered around a primative little fort was a knot of roughly constructed dwellings whose inhabitants had already endured the hardships and perils inevitable to pioneers in a new country.

Aernout Cornelisen was the son of Cornelis Volkertszen and Marie du Trieux. He was baptized in the Dutch church in New Amsterdam on May 27, 1640, by the Rev. Everhardus Bogardus and is the thirteenth child whose baptism is registered. Bogardus was not the first Domine sent out by the church from Holland but he is the first whose records have been preserved. None of the New Amsterdam records—civil or ecclesiastical—previous to 1638 are extant with the exception of a few deeds.

When we come then to seek to ascertain when Cornelis Volkertszen came to the tiny settlement the search is vain and his early history can only be surmised by finding in the Holland Colonial Documents that a Cornelis Volkertszen of Hoorn was part owner of the ship "Fortuyn," which in 1613 sailed across the Atlantic under the command of Capt. Cornelis Mey. The "Fortuyn" on this voyage explored the coast of New Netherland to the extreme end of Long Island and made a record which entitled its owners to the special privileges accorded by the States General in 1614 for the space of three years to certain traders of Amsterdam and Hoorn.

As Capt. Mey returned to New Netherland for a time in 1623 so doubtless did Cornelis Volkertszen of Hoorn come thither as a trader, after the monoply by the West India Co. of the ocean traffic.

Capt. Mey in 1623 came to New Netherland in the interest of the West India Co. and brought with him in the ship New Netherland that company of Walloons who under the leadership of Jesse de Forest had embarked from Leyden and who are claimed to be the first settlers of New Netherland. Ever since 1609 traders had camped out on Manhatten Island but these appear to have been the first emigrants who came with their families to make New Netherland their home.

Among these Walloons and one of the few to remain on Manhatten Island (the greater number went on to Ft. Orange where the trading was better) was Philip du Trieux and his family. His wife was Susanna de Scheene. One of his daughters married Isaac de Forest, another married Evert Wendel and a third married Cornelis Volkertszen.

Cornelis Volkertszen and his wife Marie du Trieux lived in a house built on the double lot on the "Great Highway" for which he received a patent in 1642. Here they kept a tavern or trading-post and during the occasional absence of her husband Marie often traded and "tapped" beer sometimes evading the law and dealing out beer to the Indians as well.

In 1650 Cornelis Volkertszen having died, his widow on Feb. 20th married Jan Peek who continued with her the conduct of her late husband's business. Jan Peek traded up the Hudson and in 1655 acquired land in Beverwyck in order to obtain the privilege of trading there. Previous to that he seems to have done his trading at the mouth of a little stream some forty miles up the river, which stream came to be called Peek's kil. The town of Peekskill now bears his name. On these trading trips Jan must often have been accompanied by his eldest step-son, Aernout who would have proved useful in assisting him to sail his boat and who would thus have obtained much early training for his own future work among the Indians. From Jan Peek, Aernout doubtless acquired a knowledge of English, for in 1656

Jan was appointed broker for the merchants of New Amsterdam "because he could speak Dutch and English."

In 1659 we find Aernout in Beverwyck and in 1660 he seems to have started in as an independant trader for he joins in a petition "that no Dutch traders be allowed to roam through the woods." In 1661 he is certainly a man of affairs as in more than one instance he is given power of attorney to transact the business of others.

It is in 1661 that a family name appears for the first time when Aernout Cornelisen signs himself to a document "Aernout Corn. Wilen."

This name of Wilen-Vielen, borne by the three sons of Cornelis Volkertszen—Aernout, Cornelis and Pieter—seems to indicate as do most Dutch names their father's trade. Johann Winckler in his Niederlandsche Geslachtsnamer says Velius (old Latin) which in the common Dutch would become Velen,—Vielen—was a Dutch surname meaning one who worked in flax or linen, especially a sailmaker. It is not far-fetched to think of the part owner of the "Fortuyn" as a sailmaker.

In this same year, 1661, Aernout appears to have married Gerretje Gerretse of Amsterdam and within a year or two we find him established in his own house in Beverwyck pursuing the occupation of a trader with a tavern or trading-post after the manner of his parents in New Amsterdam.

In 1675 he is first heard of as an Indian interpreter and from then on he is frequently recorded as a go-between for the Indians and the Colonial authorities. At first he was entirely an interpreter of agreements but later he was constantly employed carrying the messages of the governors to the Indians which involved travelling up and down the state from one chief to another strengthening their respect for the English and often persuading them up to Albany for a desired conference. Still later he was the English envoy to the Indian Court at Onandage in the northern part of the State where he often acted as the negotiator of treaties between the Indians and the English. When in 1691 he received from Gov. Leisler a Commission as Provincial Indian agent his duties varied little from what they had been for years.

At Onandage he met with the French Jesuits who were there to influence the warriors of the Five Nations in favor of their country and again and again Aernout had to pit his personal hold on the "Wilden" against the Jesuit's superior knowledge of the arts of diplomacy. From 1675 to 1698 he was the principal Indian agent, the man most in touch with the Iroquois and he certainly aided materially in fostering that loyalty of the Five Nations to the English which has been the wonder of historians. It appears not to have been till after 1696-8 that Robert Livingston, Indian Commissioner went himself among the Indians.

In 1698, sent thither by Gov. Bellomont, Aernout seems to have fulfilled his last mission at the Court of Onandage.

Two large grants of land were given Aernout by the grateful Indians for "his great trouble in going back and forth among them." One of these was for land on the Hudson stretching along the river from Wappenger's Creek to the site of the present city of Poughkeepsie. This grant of 1680 was confirmed to him in 1704 in a document still in existence and still legible, in the Secretary of State's office at Albany and is the oldest deed to land in Dutchess Co. (Platt's His. of Dutchess Co.)

The second grant dated 1683 was for land on the Mohawk river near Schenectady. (His. of Schenectady Patent.)

In 1692 Aernout was the leader in an expedition ordered by the State to go to the far west to extend the fur trade and on this journey which lasted over two years, he appears to have reached the valley of the Ohio and to have pressed on till he came to the Upper Ohio Valley which he is apparently the first white man to have entered. (The Wilderness Trail. Hanna.)

The fur trader was the first progressive man in New York State. Aernout Cornelisen Viele was the most progressive fur trader for he had the courage to penetrate into the as yet untrodden wilderness and to make new records of discovery. He accomplished this on the journey as far as the Ohio in 1692-4 and he did the same thing in 1687 when he and a number of others "going a-trading" in the northwest incurred the jealousy of the French who set upon them "robbing them of all that they had" and although it was a time of peace taking them prisoners to Canada. It took four months of spirited official correspondence before they were released.

Aernout Cornelisen's influence over the Indians seems to have been due to two facts; first that he always kept faith with them and secondly that he was perfectly fearless in his manner of approaching them—"talking to them as a master."

This man has a dual claim to the remembrance of posterity. As a successful negotiator of treaties which held the Five Nations as a bulwark between the English and the French and thus preserved to the first the land already won and as the fearless trader who in the pursuance of his occupation added incidently to the English possessions and consequently to our own, we may well reckon him among the makers of American history.

Five of Aernout's children settled in New York City. Two of them—Cornelis and Aernout Jr.—were surgeons. A daughter of the former married Francis Child who was most likely a grandson of Sir Francis Child of the great English banking house of Child and Co. and whose descendant Francis Child in 1789 established in New York the Daily Advertiser—the first daily paper. Aernout's daughter Willemtje married Symon J. Schermerhorn and through their son, Aernout all the Schermerhorns of New York City are his descendants, The late John Jacob Astor descended from him through his mother who was Caroline Schermerhorn. Aernout's daughter, Jacomyntje married Abraham Abrahamsen and through her granddaughter, Jemima (Jacomyntje) Abrahamsen Bartow, several Episcopal clergymen of the family of Bartow descend from Aernout Viele. Valentine Mott Porter of Santa Barbara, Cal., a writer of historical essays, descends from Aernout through his daughter Susanna who married Johannes Wendel. In Kingston, N. Y. the Misses Bernard, descendants of Aernout Cornelisen Viele's youngest son Philip, still possess Philip Viele's Family Bible with most complete records.

EARLY SETTLERS OF WEST FARMS, WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y.

Copied from the manuscript record of the late REV. THEODORE A. LEGGETT,* by A. HATFIELD, JR.

It will not be long before the names of West Farms and even Westchester will become obsolete. The former is already within the bounds of the city proper (23rd Ward) and Westchester is on the outer edge.

The Leggett family have lived in this vicinity for two hundred and fifty years and the progenitors were the original European proprietors of the Manor of West Farms, excepting a few small families which have settled in the United States at various but later dates. All who bear the name Leggett in all parts of this country though particularly in the middle and western states are scions of the old Westchester stock.

A brief account of the original settlement of Westchester and its Manor of West Farms is as follows:

In 1640 this tract of land like all other lands within New Netherland was purchased from the Indians and was called Vredeland, and the town of Westchester when settled was called Oostdorp.

Bearing date Oct. 2, 1642 license was granted by the Dutch to John Throckmorton who came from New England with thirty-five families to settle in Vredeland and the following year a grant was made to Mr. Throckmorton for the land now known as Throgs or Frogs Neck. Many of these first settlers met their death at the hands of the Indians.

* Rev. Theodore A. Leggett, D.D., was the pastor of the Harlem Presbyterian Church from May 15, 1870, to Aug. 7, 1871. He died at West Brighton, Staten Island, Nov. 25, 1906, aged 61 years. THOMAS J. BURTON.

By permission in 1652 Throckmorton conveyed the Neck to Augustine Hermans who soon after conveyed fifty morgen to Thomas Hunt.

On Nov. 14, 1654, Thomas Pell of Fairfield, Conn., obtained a grant from the Indians (the second time they had sold it) to lands north and east of the Bronx River. As early as 1639 Jonas Bronck (after whom the river is named) bought 250 morgen of land, from the Indians near the point of the main, just across the river, separating it from the Island of Manhattan. This land eventually became the property of Capt. Richard Morris who came from Barbadoes in 1674 and later became known as Morrisania and was next to the Leggett Estate.

About 1647 a number of Puritans settled near where is now the village of Westchester. In 1650 Gov. Stuyvesant complains to the New England commissioners "of the English encroachments upon Oostdorp" and in 1654 it was resolved at a meeting of the Director General and Council to send an interdict forbidding them to proceed further but to abandon the spot. Continued encroachments awakened vigorous measures for it was resolved to arrest the leaders and drive the rest off. Twenty-three were arrested, carried to New Amsterdam and imprisoned on a ship. Among them Richard Pouton whose name is continually appearing in the later records of Westchester.

Finally the intruders submitted to Dutch rule by allowing their Civil officers to be appointed by the New Amsterdam authorities. Ammunition was then sent to the settlers for their protection and "a writing book for the Magistrates." This was done June 3, 1657; and I have had this old book in my hands. It is now in the possession of Mr. F. W. Leggett of New York.

In 1662 they were granted the privilege of a court of their own "but in the dark and dubious matters especially in witchcraft the party aggrieved might appeal to the Governor and Council."

About this time the settlers at Westchester and West Farms were placed in a trying dilemma. Connecticut claimed the district as lying within her jurisdiction and in Assembly held at Hartford, Oct. 9, 1662 resolved so to inform the colony there which was ordered to send deputies to Hartford.

Here it might be well to remark that West Farms was so named as lying west of Connecticut.

The colony was a bone of contention between the Dutch and the New Englanders until the subjugation of the Dutch in 1664. Governor Nicolls then adjudged that the district belonged to the Colony of New York and later contributed Westchester and Hempstead on Long Island with Oyster Bay, the North Riding of Yorkshire.

Connecticut protested against the decision because their charter by King Charles II. made their western boundary the Pacific Ocean.

The boundary line seemed settled in 1683, but the dispute was reopened, and has been at least discussed for two hundred years. Nor was the boundary line between New York and Connecticut fixed forever until 1880.

Westchester was the shire town from 1683 to 1759 and was by royal charter incorporated April 16, 1696.

By Act of Assembly in 1693 "a public and open market was ordered every Wednesday of the week at Westchester to which it should be lawful for all the inhabitants and sojoiners to resort and thither carry all sorts of cattle, grain, provision, etc.;" also an act for a fair to be held once a year.

As wherever there was a Puritan or a Presbyterian or an Independent Settlement a church was organized. So at Westchester where our forefathers of West Farms attended. In fact the government as in New England was by church and state united.

At a town meeting held May 5, 1696 it was "voted and agreed upon that the meeting house" (it having fallen into decay) "shall be repaired forthwith and that two men shall be chosen to see it done. Gabriel Leggett and Josiah Hunt is chosen to agree with a carpenter," to repair the said meeting house, and to bring an account to the town of the cost and expense thereof whereby a rate may be made to defray the charge in so doing."

The following is from the journal of the Dutch Commissioners who visited Oostdorp in 1656:

"31 Dec. after dinner Cornelius van Ruyven went to the house, where they held their Sunday meeting, to see their mode of worship, as they had as yet no preacher. There I find a gathering of about fifteen men, and ten or twelve women. Mr. Baly said a prayer, after which, one Robert Basset read from a printed book a sermon composed by an English clergyman in England. After the reading Mr. Baly gave out another prayer and sang a psalm and they all separated."

The first regular minister I find mentioned is Rev. Ezekiel Fogge, under date of 1674. Rev. Morgan Jones is mentioned as marrying and baptizing in 1680.

In Town meeting 1684 it was resolved to extend a call "to Mr. Warham Mather as our minister for one whole year" at a salary of £60.

At town meeting Jan. 2, 1692 "it was voted and agreed that there shall be an orthodox minister in the town, as soon as possible may be, and to allow him forty or fifty pounds per anum, equivalent to money."

Again in May of 1695 an attempt was made by part of the vestry to "agree with Mr. Warham Mather and settle him with all expedition:" and Rev. John Miller describing the Province of New York in the same year says "There is a meeting house in Westchester and a young man coming to settle there without orders. There are two or three hundred English and Dissenters, a few Dutch."

Col. Heathcote, a strong Episcopalian, had been chosen one of the Church Wardens, and he vetoed the plan to settle Mr. Mather. His purpose as admitted by himself later, and as the sequel shows being to establish Episcopacy. A very few years later the church of our forefathers became the Episcopal church of St. Peters. As in other instances after English rule was established succeeding the government of Holland, the church was virtually seized and appropriated by the established church.

Rev. Mr. Morgan, a Presbyterian minister of East Chester occasionally preached till 1702 when the Rev. John Bartow, a missionary of the Propogandist Society of England insinuated himself into the rectorship of the church or was inducted by the representative powers of church and state in the Province of New York, though not without much opposition by the inhabitants of Westchester.

The Manor of West Farms was part of the Borough town of Westchester. The original deed from the Indians, with their names attached, with "their mark" each being the rude drawing of an animal, is in the ownership or at least in the possession of Mr. Francis W. Leggett of New York. The territory must have covered some thousands of acres.

The original deed, dated March 12, 1663, I transcribe: This may certify whom it may concern that we Shonearockite, Wapomoe Tuckowe, Whauhapehucke, Capahase, Quanusco, Shaquiske, Passachahenue, Harrawooke have aliened and sold unto Edward Jessup and John Richardson (both my great, great, great, great, great-grandfathers) both of the place above said (Westchester) a certain tract of land bounded on the east by the river Aquehung or Bronks to the midst of the river, on the northward by the Trees marked &c. by a piece of a hassock meadow, westward by a little brook called Sackwrahung, southward by the sea with a neck of land called Quinnahung, with all the meadows &c., uplands, trees, &c., whatever else besides bee upon ye said parcell of lands with all other commodities belonging to the same quietly to possesse and enjoy the same from us our heires or successors, to them, their heires and successors for ever, and for their cattle to range in the woods so farre as they please without molestation or infringment &c., and that this is our true Intent and Meaning wee have sett to our hands the day an Yeare above written.

Here follow the nine Names and "marks," signed in the presence of Edward Walters, Richard Pouton, Nathan Bailey.

"March 12, 1664, I Shaunarockett in the name and behalf of the rest doe acknowledge to have received of Edward Jessup and John Richardson full satisfaction for the tract of land in this bill specified.

Shaunarockett His Mark."

Same witnesses, and "Entered at Hampstead at ye time of the general meeting there the 9th of March 1664."

Another deed from the above mentioned Indians to Edward Jessup and John Richardson bears date March 12, 1664, which was recorded for Mr. Richardson, April 5, 1667. Albany deed book, Vol. III, 58-59.

In the year 1666 Edward Jessup died making his will Aug. 16, of the same, to which John Richardson was one of the witnesses, leaving his estate, with small bequests to his children, to his wife Elizabeth without the usual condition of not remarrying. On the 20 June, 1668, Thomas Hunt, his son-in-law, purchased of "Robert Beacham and Elizabeth, the wife formerly of Edward Jessup, all those hoeing lands and accomodations that were formerly Edward Jessup's within the bounds & limits of Westchester, that the said Edward Jessup and John Richardson purchased together &c."

Note in advance, that John Leggett son of Gabriel, married Cicily, daughter of Thomas Hunt.

In 1669, Aug. 12, John Richardson and Thomas Hunt make an equal division of so much of these lands as had not already been divided at least on the above date the commission appointed to make such division report.

I can give no further account of the disposition of these lands until after some personal history of their proprietors at least here of John Richardson, and later of Jessup and Hunt.

It is not much, beyond John Richardson's purchase of the Patent, that is known of him. That he was an Englishman is clear, since he leaves by will 100 acres to Joseph Richardson, "my brother's son in England." He probably came from Essex, since the "Visitations of Essex" contain the Richardson pedigree. It is noteworthy that the names of Richardson, Jessup, Leggett and Hunt are of frequent recurrence in the pedigrees and histories of Essex Co. He was probably brother to William Richardson who took an active part in public affairs, who was one of the executors of his will, as he was also an executor to the will of Lewis Morris, and to whom Mr. Morris left a "negro boy named Jack."

It is probable that John Richardson came into Westchester with the other settlers from Connecticut: and he had lived in Westchester, or Oostdorp, five years before purchasing, with Jessup, the West Farms for on Sept. 7, 1657 he appears, from the Court records as plaintiff in auction against Robert Basset.

March 24, 1659 is recorded the following bill of sale to John Richardson, bearing date Jan. 27, 1658.

"Know all men whom it may concern that I Richard Pouton, now inhabitant of Westchester or last town, now within the jurisdiction of New Netherland, have set over and sould unto John Richardson his heirs, &c. the home lot which was laid out to Samuel Brocket and after sould to Hendrick Cornelius and Roger Wiles with all the accomodations there are belonging or which shall hereafter fall by lot, with all buildings and fencings belonging thereinto. Signed, Richard Pouton.

Witnesses Robert Basset & John Finch."

After the West Farms purchase Richardson built the dwelling house marked "Old Homestead" or, if not there then near it and the "Old Homestead" became the dwelling house of Gabriel Leggett and Richardson's house in time became the home and property of John, eldest son of Gabriel Leggett.

From the Records of the County Clerk's Office, Fairfield, Conn., we obtain the following in regard to the estate of Daniel[6] Thacher:—

"Inventory of Estate dated, May 6th, 1782. Administrator's bond signed by Josiah Thacher, Eliphalet Lockwood and Nathan Jarvis, all of Norwalk, before Jonathan Sturges, Probate Judge, September 17th, 1780, witnesses Isaac Jarvis and Hezekiah Silliman. Order of sale granted of all of the inventoried estate July 21st, 1783, to Eliphalet Lockwood, Esqr., and Mr. Josiah Thacher, Administrators. The estate was insolvent and insufficient to pay debts. Court order signed by Left. Hezekiah Silliman, Clerk. Administrator's accounts accepted July 21st, 1783. The whole inventory delivered into Court amounted to £61.3-9, in addition to which there were 74 acres of land, which were "apprized" to the estate of Captain Josiah Thacher, deceased (father of Daniel[6] Thacher), amounting to £11.11-3. Total, £72.15-0. Administrator's account and account of sales again allowed August 6th, 1790. Total, £99.15-3.

NOTE:

As there seems to be some diversity of opinion as to whether the maiden name of Daniel[6] Thacher's wife was Mary Street or Mary Starr, I will here quote the various authorities on the subject. Starr Genealogy, by Frank Farnsworth Starr (Lenox Library), says p. 17: "Thomas Starr, b. April 10th, 1711; died May 14th, 1759, lived at Groton, Conn., in the Starr Homestead; he married Jerusha Street (daughter of Nicholas and Jerusha Street), b. ——, 1715; died July 6th, 1790, 'in her 75th year,' and had among other children, Mary Starr, born January 20th, 1740; died November 14th, 1741."

And according to this authority they had no other child named Mary: hence from this quotation we see that the Starr Genealogy differs from the Street Genealogy to be subsequently quoted. Pages 251-2, Starr Genealogy, says: "Eunice Starr (daughter of Lieut. Daniel and Lucy (Douglas) Starr of New London, Conn.), born February 28th, 1767; baptized March 15th, 1767; died September 17th, 1843; married October 30th, 1791, to Daniel Greenleaf Thatcher (son of Daniel and Mary (Street) Thatcher), born June —, 1765, at Norwalk, Conn., died May 16th, 1836, at New London, Conn. He was left an orphan at an early age; he went to New London and learned the hatter's trade and carried on a successful business for many years and died respected and beloved; he belonged to the Congregational Church."

We see here that the Starr Genealogy specifically states that Daniel Greenleaf Thacher's mother's maiden surname was Street. Selleck's History of Norwalk, Conn., p. 453, states as follows:

"Daniel, son of Captain Josiah and Mary (Greenleaf) Thacher, married Mary, daughter of Nathaniel and Mary (Raymond) Street."

We therefore see that the Starr Genealogy and Selleck's Norwalk agree in the positive statement that Daniel[6] Thacher's wife's maiden surname was Street.

Hall's History of Norwalk, Conn., p. 219, states that Nathaniel Street married on November 25, 1719, to Mary Raymond, daughter of Capt. John Raymond of Norwalk, and then gives a list of their children up to Ebenezer, born November 1st, 1735, and there ending, viz.:

1. Samuel Street, born October 13th, 1720.
2. Hannah Street, born September 8th, 1722.
3. Timothy Street, born December 1st, 1723.
4. John Street, born July 22nd, 1728.
5. Ebenezer Street, born November 1st, 1735.

It is to be noted that in this list of children of Nathaniel Street there is no mention of a child Mary Street who is said by Selleck's Norwalk to have married Daniel[6] Thacher. Daniel[6] Thacher himself was born June 29th, 1739, and the list of Nathaniel Street's children ends with the one born in 1735. It is possible that this list of children of Nathaniel Street is incomplete and that a child Mary Street was born to Nathaniel Street, subsequent to the birth of Ebenezer in 1735 and hence of an age more suitable to become the wife of Daniel[6] Thacher.

The Street Genealogy, by Henry A. and Mary A. Street, Exeter, N. H., 1895, states as follows, viz.: pp. 9 and 19: "Nathaniel Street (son of Lieut. Samuel Street and his first wife Hannah Glover), born January 19th, 1693; died September 24th, 1748; married November 25th, 1719, to Mary Raymond (daughter of John and Elizabeth (St. John) Raymond), born March 15th, 1694; died March 7th, 1762. Nathaniel Street was a house and ship builder and resided at Norwalk, Conn., and both he and his wife are buried there in the old burying ground in East Norwalk.
Children:

1. Samuel Street, born October 13th, 1720; md. Elizabeth (probably) Raymond.
2. Hannah Street, born September 8th, 1722; md. Eliakim Raymond.
3. Thomas Street, born December 1st, 1723; md. Susannah Lockwood.
4. John Street, born July 22nd, 1728; md. Hannah Jarvis.
5. Ebenezer Street, born November 1st, 1735; md. Rachel ——."

It is seen that this list of children of Nathaniel Street agrees with that given by Hall's Norwalk (except that Street Genealogy gives 3rd child as Thomas while Hall's Norwalk gives 3rd child as Timothy), and that there is no mention of a Mary Street to become the wife of Daniel[6] Thacher.

Raymond Genealogy, pp. 4 and 6, state specifically as follows: "John Raymond, born September 9th, 1665; died April 12th, 1735; married May 7th, 1690, Elizabeth St. John (daughter of Samuel St. John), and had Mary Raymond, born March 5th, 1694, who married Nathaniel Street, November 25th, 1719.

St. John Genealogy states specifically as follows: "Elizabeth St. John (daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Hoyt) St. John), born at Norwalk, Conn., April —, 1673; d. ——; married March 7th, 1690-1, to John Raymond, born September 9th, 1665; died April 12th, 1737. They had a child, Mary Raymond, born March 5th, 1694; died March 7th, 1762, in her 67th year; md. December 24-5, 1719, Nathaniel Street, born ——, 1692; died September 24th, 1748, in 56th year.

Hence we see that both the Raymond and the St. John Genealogies support the statement that Nathaniel Street married Mary Raymond, but they do not go so far as to give record of a child Mary Street, to become the wife of Daniel[6] Thacher.

The Street Genealogy above quoted also states, p. 11: "Nicholas Street, born July 14th, 1677, at Wallingford, Conn.; died June 2nd, 1727; he resided at Groton and was buried at Wallingford, Conn.; he was a tailor. He married April 22nd, 1704 (by Mr. Woodbridge), to Jerusha Morgan and had Jerusha Street (p. 24), born ——, 1715; died July 6th, 1790; buried Starr Cemetery, Groton, Conn.; married Thomas Starr, Jr. (son of Thomas), born April 10th, 1711; died May 14th, 1759, aged 48. They resided at Groton, Conn., on the Starr homestead and joined the church there September 1st, 1734. He was a farmer. They had (p. 50), Mary Starr, born January 20th, 1740, who married Daniel Thacher, and had (p. 91), Daniel G. Thacher, who married Eunice Starr."

Here we note for the first time a statement that Daniel[6] Thacher married a Mary Starr, while all the other authorities viz.: Selleck's Norwalk and Starr Genealogy (quoted above) state that her name was Street, and Selleck going so far as to state that she was Mary Street, daughter of Nathaniel and Mary (Raymond) Street. It is to be noted also that the Starr Genealogy, p. 17, states that the Mary Starr, born January 20th, 1740; died November 14th, 1741, while the Street Genealogy, p. 50, states that this same Mary Starr, born January 20th, 1740, married Daniel Thacher.

From all of the above statements taken in connection with the fact that, as far as I can gather, Daniel[6] Thacher lived and died in Norwalk, Conn., I am inclined to the belief that the Street Genealogy is in error in stating that Daniel[6] Thacher married Mary Starr (daughter of Thomas and Jerusha (Street) Starr of Groton, Conn.), who was born January 20th, 1740 (and who the Starr Genealogy states died November 14th, 1741). It seems more likely to me that Selleck and the Starr Genealogy are correct in their statement that her maiden surname was Street and that as Selleck states she was a daughter of Nathaniel and Mary (Raymond) Street, and was born sometime about 1740, although she is not included in the list of the children of Nathaniel Street as given by Hall's Norwalk, on p. 219. Moreover as a straw to induce me to this belief Daniel Greenleaf[7] Thacher (son of Daniel[6] Thacher) calls one of his children Polly (Mary) Street Thacher, thus perpetuating in the family the name of her presumable grandmother. It is to be borne in mind that this is but a deduction drawn, not from positive facts, but from an accumulation of circumstantial evidence. I may be entirely wrong and the Street Genealogy may be correct.

and Grace Sturges, his wife (born ——; baptized Fairfield, Conn., March 8th, 1724; died ——; daughter of Peter and Hannah (Jennings) Sturges, of Fairfield, Conn.), of Fairfield, Conn.

Children: 3 (Thacher), 2 sons and 1 daughter.

+845 i. Partridge,[7] born February 14th, 1767; died September 8th, 1845; married Mary Lockwood.

+846 ii. Stephen Greenleaf,[7] born ——, 1774; died May —, 1857; married Boradil Coit.

847 iii. Elizabeth[7] (Betsey), born ——, 1777; died April 10th, 1847, at Stratford, Conn., aged 70, and was buried there in the Episcopal Burying-ground. She was not married. Orcutt's History of Stratford incorrectly states that she died in 1817, but an examination of her gravestone in February, 1912, by the Rector of the P. E. Church establishes the fact that she died in 1847.

Capt. John[6] Thacher married a second time at Stratford, Conn., probably, date of marriage ——, about or previous to April, 1778 (see date of birth of first child by this marriage) to Mehitable (Ufford) Thompson (widow of Lieut. Wm. Thompson, who was killed at the battle of Ridgefield, Conn., April 27th, 1777), born at Stratford, Conn., March 16th, 1745; died at Litchfield, Conn., September 6th, 1807, and was buried at Litchfield, Conn., near the southeast corner of the Talmadge burial-ground, about one foot outside of the iron railing of said ground, where there is a monument to her memory. She was a daughter of Ebenezer Ufford by his wife Jane (Moss) Ufford, who lived at Stratford, Conn. Apparently Captain John[6] Thacher and his second wife were members of the P. E. Church at Stratford and the rector of that church (in 1912) informs me that between February 3rd, 1775, and April 3rd, 1785, there were no records kept of the P. E. Church in Stratford; which fact accounts for the non-existence of the record of Captain John[6] Thacher's second marriage, which occurred between those dates. Bailey's Early Conn. Marriages gives the records of the Congregational Churches only.

Children: 5 (Thacher), 3 sons and 2 daughters, all born at Stratford, Conn.

848 iv. Anthony, 1st,[7] born January 27th, 1779; died February 3rd, 1779, aged 7 days, at Stratford, Conn., and was buried there in Congregational burying-ground; gravestone, thus inscribed:— "In Memory of two children of Mr. John and Mrs. Mehitable Thacher. Anthony died the 3rd of February, 1779, aged 7 days. Mehitable died the 16th of July, 1780, aged 30 hours."

849 v. Mehitable, 1st,[7] born July 15th, 1780; died July 16th, 1780, aged 30 hours, at Stratford, Conn., and was buried there in Congregational Burying-ground; gravestone. See inscription under record No. 848.

+850 vi. Anthony, 2nd,[7] born January 7th, 1782; died December 26th, 1844, at New London, Conn.; married Lucretia Christophers Mumford.

851 vii. Mehitable, 2nd,[7] born November —, 1786; baptized November 23rd, 1786, at Stratford, Conn.; died June 29th, 1793, aged 7 years, at Stratford, Conn., and was probably buried there in the Congregational Burying-ground, although no stone marks her grave. The record of her death is to be found in the record of deaths kept by Rev. Stephen Stebbins of the Congregational Church at Stratford, Conn.

+852 viii. Daniel,[7] born May 15th, 1789; died October 30th, 1867, at Bridgeport, Conn.; married, first, Julia Ann Hubbell; married, second, Eunice Sherwood Lyon.

Captain John[6] Thacher undoubtedly spent his early life in Norwalk, Conn. We find in the New Milford, Conn., land records that on May 28th, 1766, land was deeded to John Thacher, late of Norwalk, Conn., and on that date he was described in the deed as "now of New Milford, Conn." Which fact indicates that he had taken up his residence in New Milford. The same land records show that on March 20th, 1769, John Thacher deeds to another this same piece of land that he acquired in 1766. These records probably fix his residence in New Milford at least between the years 1766-1769; how much longer he stayed there has not been determined by me. It is my impression that his residence in New Milford, Conn., was originally caused by the residence there of Partridge Thacher (a distant relative) which belief is made probable by his naming his first child by his first marriage Partridge, after the said Partridge Thacher. In fact, the Lockwood Genealogy, pp. 294-5, makes the erroneous statement that Partridge[7] Thacher (son of Captain John[6] Thacher) was the grandson of this Partridge Thacher of Milford, Conn., where in reality he was the grandson of Captain Josiah[5] Thacher, of Milford, Conn., as we have previously shown.

This Partridge Thacher, of New Milford, was a descendant of Rev. Thomas Thacher, of Old South Church, Boston (a nephew of Antony[2] Thacher, the first American ancestor of Capt. John[6] Thacher), and hence the relationship between Partridge Thacher, of New Milford, and Captain John[6] Thacher was in fact an actual blood connection, yet their common lines of blood had diverged since their remote ancestor, Rev. Peter[1] Thacher, of Queen Camel, County Somerset, England, who died in 1624. Partridge Thacher, of New Milford, was an eccentric man, and was married, but without children; and he may have taken an interest in Capt. John[6] Thacher, and this interest may have occasioned Captain John[6] Thacher to have taken up his residence in New Milford for a time and to have named his first born after said Partridge Thacher. Captain John[6] Thacher was admitted to communion in the New Milford Church in June, 1766; and on the list of baptisms there in April —, 1767, we find the name of Partridge Thacher, son of John Thacher. From 1769 to the outbreak of the Revolutionary War, his residence may have been at New Milford, although we have no record of his probable stay there beyond the deeds above referred to, 1766-69. He married, first, Ann Perry, as above stated; this marriage in all likelihood took place in Fairfield or Norwalk, Conn.; but we have no actual record of either time, or place. The marriage must, however, have taken place previous to 1767, as we have the positive record that his first child, Partridge[7] Thacher, was born February 14th, 1767, and was baptized at New Milford in April —, 1767. He early engaged in active service in the Revolutionary War; and history, as well as family tradition, establishes the fact that he was a Captain in the Navy, in command of the Galley Washington, at the battle of Valcours Island, on Lake Champlain on October 11th, 1776, where he was wounded and taken prisoner and afterwards paroled and subsequently exchanged. In the action of Valcour's Island he was the Captain in command of the Washington, which vessel had on board General Waterbury, who commanded the Connecticut contingent of troops, associated in the general command with General Benedict Arnold.

From the autobiography of Samuel Blakeslee, of Wallingford, Conn., we extract the following:—"In the year following (1776) there was a company raised by Captain John Thacher, of New Haven, joining the army under General Waterbury at Lake Champlain. After an engagement, Captain John Thacher and his company were taken prisoners and afterwards released on parole."

From the Connecticut Historical Society's Collections, Vol. VII, p. 283, we have the following extract from the "Journal of Bayze Wells of Farmington, Conn., May, 1775, to February, 1777," viz:—

"AT THE NORTHWARD AND IN CANADA.

"Sabbath, 6th October (1776), this day the wind southerly, and this morning I am not well—about twelve o'clock 'Rogally' (i. e., Row Galley) 'Washington,' Captain Thacher, arrived; this vessel carries nine (9) carriage guns, sixteen (16) Swivels; about one P. M. Rogally 'Congress,' Captain Arnold arrived; this galley carries ten (10) carriage guns and sixteen (16) swivels. These vessels saluted the fleet with firing a round. The Commodore saluted each of them with five (5) guns. General Waterbury arrived; came on the 'Washington' and joined the fleet. They brought a barrel of rum for each gondola."

From Connecticut Men in the Revolutionary War, p. 594, we have the following extract, viz:—

"A flotilla of gondolas, galleys, etc., was built on Lake Champlain in the summer and fall of 1776 and commanded by Generals Arnold and Waterbury. Among the builders were two companies of ship carpenters sent from Connecticut (by request of General Schuyler) under Captains Job Winslow and John Lester. Most of the vessels were destroyed or captured in the action off Valcours Island, October 11th, 1776. Whether the galleys were credited to certain States or belonged to Congress is not clear. The Lady Washington was commanded by General Waterbury. Arnold was on the Congress and among other Captains was Hawley who commanded the Royal Savage, Captain Mansfield the New Haven, Captain Grant the Connecticut and Captain Warren the Trumbull."

From Force's American Archives, 5th Series, pp. 1039–40, Vol. II, year 1776, by Peter Force, on file in the New York Public Library, we find as follows, viz.:

In Harper's Magazine for January, 1903, is to be found an article on "Benedict Arnold, Naval Patriot," which article contains a description of the battle of Valcours' Island, with a mention of the Galley Washington and the loss of her captain.

Among the Archives of the War Department there was found by General Alexander James Perry, U. S. Army, a receipt for the articles of equipment of the Galley Washington, a copy of which was secured by photograph and is here below reproduced:

The signatures to this receipt shows that he spelled his name Thacher.

From the papers of Rufus Lincoln, we obtain the following extract, viz.:

"October 13th, 1776. The Action on Lake Champlain. The Americans were defeated and lost, killed (wounded and prisoners) & General Waterbury a brigadier in the Militia and Captain Thatcher and about 68 privates were made prisoners."

From a return of American officers and other prisoners on Long Island, Augnst 15th, 1778, we have the following extract, viz.:

* * * * * *

"Captain Thatcher 'E' (i. e. Exchanged) Conn. Militia, taken October 13th, 1776, on Lake Champlain."

* * * * * *

From which it appears that previous to August 15th, 1778, Captain John[6] Thacher had been exchanged; that is to say had been released from his parole upon the delivery to the British forces one of their adherents who had been held in custody by the Americans in exchange for the liberty and person of Captain John[6] Thacher. This probably was the termination of the military career of Captain John[6] Thacher.

From "Connecticut Men in the Revolutionary War" we obtain the following extracts, viz.:

Page 649. "Invalid pensioners, residence not stated, John Thatcher." Which latter statement is in accordance with family tradition; which is to the effect that Captain John[6] Thacher was a pensioner, although no official record of his pension can be located either in the Archives of Connecticut or in those of the United States.

The above quoted extracts prove conclusively that Captain John[6] Thacher served as a Captain of the Navy in the Revolutionary War and that he was wounded and captured October 11th, 1776, at the battle of Valcour's Island on Lake Champlain; that he was subsequently paroled and exchanged. After his capture and parole and exchange he probably returned to his home; and in 1777, it is probable that his 1st wife Ann Perry died at or subsequent to birth of her last child Elizabeth. He married a 2nd time to Mehitable (Ufford) Thompson, widow of Lieut. William Thompson who was killed at the battle of Ridgefield, Conn., April 27th, 1777. The exact date of his 2nd marriage has not been ascertained; but as Lieut. William Thompson died April 27th, 1777, and, as Anthony 1st[7] Thacher, the 1st child of Captain John[6] Thacher by Mehitable (Ufford) Thompson was born January 27th, 1779, it follows in the natural course of nature that he married the widow Thompson previous to April 27th, 1778 (9 months previous to birth of Anthony 1st[7] Thacher), and subsequent to April 27th, 1777 (the date of death of Lieut. William Thompson). He was initiated a Freemason in Stratford, Conn., November 4th, 1779; and was Master of St. John's Lodge Free and Accepted Masons at Stratford, 1780-84 and 1788-90. Which shows that he had taken up his residence in Stratford as early as 1779. His name first appears on the Stratford Land Records in February, 1781, and the records there show that he was living in Stratford as late as 1790. On February 20th, 1781, he received title to one (1) acre of land in Stratford with a good barn located at a place called the "old mill"; and later, March 1st, 1784, he conveys said land above described as well as a house known as Thacher's Bake House in Stratford to George Smith for £28-15-4; and in said deed he is described as late of the town of Stratford and now of the City of New York." Hence it would seem that he lived in New York City for a time. In 1790 (June 13th), John Thacher and his wife Mehitable deed 30 acres by quit claim both being then described as of Stratford, Conn.

The Probate Records of Stratford, Conn., covering the date of his death in 1805 are filed in Bridgeport, Conn., and the only reference we there find as to the settlement of his estate is as follows, viz.:

"At a Court of Probate held at Stratford, Conn., the 4th day fo February, 1805, Victory Wetmore is appointed Administrator on the estate of John Thatcher, late of Stratford, Conn., deceased, and gave bonds according to law. (See Vol. V, Stratford Probate Records.)

Test. Joseph Walker, Clerk."

A search of the records for a period of thirty years thereafter does not disclose any inventory or accounting on the part of the Administrator; and it is made evident that Captain John[6] Thacher left no will.

Ancestry of Ann Perry, 1st wife of Captain John[6] Thacher:

1. Richard Perry, a settler in Fairfield, Conn., in 1649, and who died in 1657 or 1658, had a son
2. Nathaniel Perry of Fairfield, Conn., born ——; died —— 1681; married Hester Lyon (daughter of Richard Lyon of Fairfield, Conn., as early as 1649, and whose will is dated April 12, 1678, whose home in Fairfield was on Barlow's Plain), born ——; died ——; and by her had a son
3. Joseph Perry, of Fairfield, Conn., born ——, about 1676; renewed covenant at Fairfield Church, February 11th, 1711; died Fairfield, Conn., August 9th, 1753, in the 77th year of his age, and was buried there in Old Burying Ground; he married 1st Sarah Bulkley, daughter of John Bulkley; 2nd Deborah (Burr) Whelpley, widow of Joseph Whelpley, and daughter of Daniel Burr of Fairfield; 3rd Mary Cluckstone (daughter of Michael Cluckstone and granddaughter of Rev. Samuel Wakeman), who after the death of Joseph Perry married 2nd to Thomas Edmunds. Mary Cluckstone was born ——, 1697-8; and died November 8th, 1773, aged 75. Joseph Perry's house in which he lived in Fairfield was in 1882 the oldest house in Fairfield. By his 3rd wife he had amongst others, 2 children.
   1. Esther Perry bapt. Fairfield, Conn., June 15, 1712, who married Commodore John Cannon of Norfolk, Conn., at whose home in Norwalk, Selleck, in his History of Norwalk, suggests that Captain John[6] Thacher met her niece Ann Perry who became the 1st wife of said John[6] Thacher.
   2. Michael Perry bapt. Fairfield, Conn., October 29th, 1721.
4. Michael (Mich or Micha) Perry, bapt. Fairfield, October 29th, 1721; d. ——; md. at Fairfield, Conn., December 8th, 1742, to Grace Sturges (daughter of Peter and Hannah (Jennings) Sturges of Fairfield, Conn.), bapt. Fairfield, Conn., March 8th, 1723-4; d. ——; had a daughter
5. Ann Perry, baptized Fairfield, Conn., February 19th, 1743-4.

Ancestry of Mehitable Ufford, 2nd wife of Captain John[6] Thacher.

1. Thomas Ufford (or Uffoot) came from England to America in 1632, with his wife Isabel, on the ship "Lion," with three children. They landed in Boston where he was made a freeman that same year. He was in Milford, Conn., as early as January, 1645-6, where he and his wife joined the church. He died in Stratford, Conn., in 1660, leaving an estate of £289-12-7. They had 2 sons and 1 daughter, born in England, viz.:
   1. Thomas; 2. John; 3. A daughter who married Roger Terrell of Milford.
2. John Ufford, b. ——, in England; died ——; he lived in Stratford, Conn. He married 1st ——, about 1655, to Hannah Hawley, who secured a divorce from him in or before 1657, when on the 25th of the 3rd month, 1657, she married 2nd to John Beard. He married 2nd to Martha Nettleton (daughter of Samuel Nettleton of Branford, Conn.), and after living sometime in Milford, Conn., he removed to Stratford. He had by his 2nd wife a son

3. Lieut. Samuel Ufford, born Stratford, Conn., January 21st, 1670; died December 30th, 1746, at Stratford, Conn., and was buried there in the Congregational Burying-ground gravestone; he married December 5th, 1694, to Elizabeth Curtis (daughter of Joseph and Bethiah (Booth) Curtis of Stratford, Conn.), born January 17th, 1677, at Stratford, Conn.; died ——; he had a son

4. Ebenezer Ufford, born ——, 1719; died ——; married November 17th, 1743, to Jane Moss (daughter of John and Jane (——) Moss of Stratford, Conn.). They had a daughter

5. Mehitable Ufford, born March 16th, 1745; died September 6th, 1807, at Litchfield, Conn., married 1st October 14th, 1762, to Lieut. William Thompson (son of John and Mehitable (Webb) Thompson of Stratford, Conn.), born October 29th, 1742, at Stratford, Conn.; died April 27th, 1777, killed at battle of Ridgefield, Conn., on that date, and was buried in Stratford, Conn., in the Congregational Burying-ground; and by him she had 7 children. She married 2nd as given above to Captain John[6] Thacher.

Moss Ancestry of Mehitable (Ufford) Thompson-Thacher:

1. John Moss, born ——; at ——; died February 8th, 1721-2, at Stratford, Conn.; he married ——, at ——, to Jane ——, who died September 28th, 1742. He came to Stratford, Conn., from Jamaica, Long Island, N. Y.; but he is supposed to have been born in New Haven, Conn., and to have been the son of Joseph Moss and grandson of John Moss an original settler of New Haven. They had a daughter

2. Jane Moss, born May 22nd, 1722 (posthumous); who married November 17th, 1743, to Ebenezer Ufford and had a daughter

3. Mehitable Ufford, born March 16th, 1745; died September 6th, 1807, who married 1st Lieut. William Thompson, and 2nd Capt. John[6] Thacher.

Owing to the close family associations and business affiliations which existed throughout life between Isaac Thompson and his half brothers Daniel[7] and Anthony[7] Thatcher, I have deemed it desirable for the benefit more especially of the descendants of Anthony[7] Thacher of New London, Conn., to here introduce a sketch of the Thompson Ancestry of the said Isaac Thompson, viz.:

1. John Thompson, came from England, married Mirabel ——, in England; settled in Stratford, Conn., in 1640 among the 1st settlers. He died in 1678. His will was dated in July and his inventory taken in August of that year. If, as some of his descendants think, he was the John "Tomson," aged 22, who came over in 1635 in the Elizabeth and Ann, he was at the time of his death 65 years old. His wife Mirabel died April 13th, 1690. They had a son

2. Ambrose Thompson, born January (or June), 1651-2, at Stratford, Conn.; died September 6th (or 7th), 1742, aged 90 (aged 92 according to G. S.), and was buried at Stratford in Congregational Burying-ground, gravestone; he married ——, at ——, to Sarah Welles (daughter of John and Elizabeth (Bourne) Welles of Stratford, Conn.), born at Stratford, Conn., September 28th, 1659; died at Stratford, Conn., March 23rd, 1730, aged about 71 years and was buried in Congregational Burying-ground there, gravestone. Sarah, his wife, owned the covenant in 1697-8 and was admitted to full communion April 9th, 1699. It is possible that Sarah Welles was his 2nd wife owing to the fact that the records in 1698 and subsequently to 1705 speak of Sarah, now wife of

Ambrose Thompson, suggesting a possible 1st marriage. Sarah Welles was however the mother of his children. They had

3. John Thompson, born ——, 1680, at Stratford, Conn.; died July 20th, 1765, in his 85th year, at Stratford, Conn., and was buried there in Congregational Burying-ground, gravestone; he married 1st November 15th, 1705, to Ruth Curtis (daughter of Benjamin and Esther (Judson) Curtis), born January 11th, 1683; died April 23rd, 1721. He married 2nd November 30th, 1721, to Martha (Blagge) De Forest (widow of David De Forest of Stratford and daughter of Samuel and Mary (——) Blagge of Stratford, Conn.), born ——, 1677; d. February 7th, 1740, in 63rd year of her age, and was buried in Congregational Burying-ground, Stratford, Conn. He had by his 1st wife a son

4. John Thompson, born April 1st, 1717, at Stratford, Conn.; died ——; married 1st December —, 1739, at ——, to Mehitable Booth (daughter of Deacon Joseph and Hannah (Willcoxson) Booth of Stratford, Conn. (born ——, at ——; died ——, 1740); he married 2nd July 7th, 1741, at Fairfield, Conn., to Mrs. Mehitable Webb, b. ——; d. ——; and by this 2nd marriage he had

5. William Thompson, born October 29th, 1742, at Stratford, Conn.; died April 27th, 1777, killed at the battle of Ridgefield, Conn., and was buried in the Congregational Burying-ground, Stratford, Conn. He married October 14th, 1762, at Stratford, Conn., to Mehitable Ufford (daughter of Ebenezer and Jane (Moss) Ufford, of Stratford, Conn., and after his death his widow became the 2nd wife of Captain John[6] Thacher. William Thompson was a Lieutenant in the military service and was killed at the battle of Ridgefield, Conn. On May 4th, 1777, the Sunday after the burial of Lieut. William Thompson, Rev. Izrahiah Wetmore preached a funeral sermon in his memory on the text Isaiah ix:5, which sermon was in the possession of Wetmore family in 1861.

   Children: 6 (Thompson), 5 sons and 1 daughter, all born in Stratford, Conn.

   1. John, born July 17th, 1763; died ——; married Ellis Benjamin.
   2. William, born August 11th, 1765; died December 14th, 1812; married Phebe Lewis.
   3. Isaac, 1st, born March 27th, 1768; died August 20th, 1775, at Stratford, Conn., and was buried there.
   4. Joseph, born October 22nd, 1769; died ——; married Helen Curtiss.
   5. Mary, baptized ——, 1773; died ——; married Charles Butler of Litchfield, Conn.
   6. Isaac, 2nd, born August 24th, 1775; died March 2nd, 1852, in New London; he married 1st January 5th, 1800, Catherine Mumford (daughter of John and Lucretia (Christophers) Mumford of Lyme (Salem) Conn.), she was born August 22nd, 1777; died August 20th, 1816, aged 39. He married 2nd June 24th, 1817, to Sarah (Sally) Christophers (daughter of Peter and Abigail (Miller) Christophers of New London, Conn.), born March 21st, 1782, died ——.

271. HANNAH[6] THACHER (Capt. Josiah,[5] Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born at Norwalk, Conn., ——, after 1735; died ——, at ——; married ——, at —— (Norwalk, Conn., probably), to John Banks, born ——, at ——; died ——, at ——. I have been unable to obtain any definite record of this couple and their possible descendants beyond the following fragmentary facts which may aid some one of their descendants in the future to connect with their Thacher ancestory. Selleck's History of Norwalk, Conn., states on page 452, that Hannah[6] Thacher was Mrs. John Banks, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., but I have been unable to find any record of her or her husband there. There is a deed recorded in Norwalk, dated August 2nd, 1775, in which Ebenezer Street deeds to John Banks. In the distribution of the estate of Captain Josiah[5] Thacher, of Norwalk (father of Hannah[6] Thacher), under date of August 6th, 1798, Hannah Banks, his daughter, is allotted £28-14-02; showing her to be alive on that date and either the wife or widow of John Banks; and from the phraseology of the distribution which says "Hannah, wife of John Banks," it would seem that John Banks was himself also alive on that date. In the autobiographical diary of the Rev. William[7] Thacher (Daniel,[6] Capt. Josiah[5]), he speaks of having been in Petersburgh, Va., in 1791-3, as foreman for his cousin, John Banks, a tailor in that town. Now if John Banks, who married Hannah[6] Thacher had by her a son John, said John Banks would naturally be the first cousin of Rev. William[7] Thacher. There were families of Banks in Fairfield, Conn., and in Greenwich, Conn., but I have not been able to connect the John Banks who married Hannah[6] Thacher with any of them.

272. ELIZABETH[6] THACHER (Capt. Josiah,[5] Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born ——, after 1735, at Norwalk, Conn.; died ——, at ——; she married, first, —— (previous to March 20th, 1778, as on that date both she and her first husband, Thomas Hill, were witnesses to the will of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher), at —— (Norwalk, Conn., probably), to Thomas Hill, of New Haven, born ——, at —— (Fairfield, Conn., probably); died —— (previous to May 6th, 1783, as on that date his widow married a second time at Stratford, Conn., to John Blackleach and also previous to March 31st, 1782, as he is spoken of as deceased on that date), at —— (Fairfield, Conn., probably). She married, second, at Stratford, Conn., May 6th, 1783 (she being then described as of Fairfield, Conn.), to John Blackleach, of Stratford (Huntington), Conn. He was born ——, at ——; died —— (between April 4th, 1820, ,and May 15th, 1820), at —— (Stratford, Huntington, Conn., probably). His parentage is unknown to me.

Children, first marriage (Hill), none that are known of.

Children, second marriage (Blackleach), none that are known of.

Selleck's History of Norwalk, Conn., p. 452, is incorrect in its statement that she married, first, John Blackleach and second, to —— Hill, of New Haven. She married as I have above stated, first to Thomas Hill and second to John Blackleach, as proven by the documents above referred to.

As regards the Thomas Hill whom she married as her first husband, I have been unable to determine to my own satisfaction who he was, but the following notes I have collected on the matter may be a guide to some future student of the matter. Thomas[1] Hill, a mariner, lived at Fairfield, Conn.; in 1686 he purchased in London one-half interest in a vessel called the Two Brothers of 32 tons burthen for £72; and, while on a long voyage from home, he left his estate in trust with Elias Dougherty and Jacob Walker, of Long Island. He married ——, 1685, to Abigail Wakeman (only daughter of Izbon and Hannah (——) Wakeman, of New Haven), born ——, at ——; died ——, at ——. Izbon Wakeman died in 1683; and his widow married, second, in 1685, to Captain Joseph Bastard.

Children: 2 (Hill), sons, and no doubt others.

ii. Benjamin,[2] baptized November 3rd, 1695.

Thomas[2] Hill, born ——, at —— (Fairfield, Conn., probably), died ——, at —— (Fairfield, Conn., probably). He lived at Fairfield, Conn., probably, as his children were all baptized there and his wife Mary renewed covenant with the church there June 25th, 1720, and she is buried there in old burying-ground; gravestone. He married ——, at —— (Fairfield, Conn., probably), to Mary Burr (daughter of John Burr (born May 2nd, 1673, at Fairfield, Conn.; died November —, 1705, at Fairfield, inventory filed November 6th, 1705; distribution ordered May 6th, 1708), and Elizabeth ——, (born ——, at ——; died ——, at ——), of Fairfield, Conn., born October 24th, 1694, baptized at Fairfield, Conn., March 31st, 1695 (on which date her mother Elizabeth renewed covenant with church), at Fairfield, Conn.; died December 19th, 1763, aged 69 years, 1 month, 26 days, at Fairfield, Conn., and is buried there in old burying-ground; gravestone. She renewed covenant with church at Fairfield, June 25th, 1720.

Children: 9 (Hill), 3 sons and 6 daughters, all baptized at Fairfield.

i. Abigail,[3] baptized June 5th, 1720, "dau. of Mr. Thomas Hill," Schenck, Vol. II, p. 484.

ii. Thaddeus,[3] baptized June 26th, 1720, "dau. of Mr. Thomas Hill," Schenck, Vol. II, p. 484.
iii. Mary, 1st,[3] baptized November 11th, 1722, "dau. of Mr. Thomas Hill," Schenck, Vol. II, p. 485.
iv. Mary, 2nd,[3] baptized August 9th, 1724, "dau. of Mr. Thomas Hill," Schenck, Vol. II, p. 485.
v. Elizabeth,[3] baptized January 9th, 1726-7, "dau. of Thomas and Mary Hill," Schenck, Vol. I, p. 379.
vi. Anne,[3] baptized May 11th, 1729, "dau. of Thomas and Mary Hill," Schenck, Vol. I, p. 379.
vii. Thomas,[3] baptized December 12th, 1731, "son of Thomas and Mary Hill," Schenck, Vol. I, p. 379.
viii. Sarah,[3] baptized August 25th, 1734, "dau. of Thomas and Mary Hill," Schenck, Vol. II, p. 489.
ix. Andrew,[3] baptized October 25th, 1739, "son of Thomas and Mary Hill," Schenck, Vol. II, p. 491.

The above list of children are recorded in the Greenfield and Fairfield Parish Registers. Thomas[2] Hill is styled Captain in the Greenfield Parish Register. Captain Thomas[2] Hill was a representative to the General Assembly from Fairfield, Conn., May 13th, 1756, and May 12th, 1758. (See Schenck, Vol. II, pp. 109, 208.) Thomas Hill, Esq., was Sheriff of Fairfield County, Conn., in February, 1759.

Thomas[3] Hill, Jr., born ——, 1731 (baptized December 12th, 1731), at Fairfield, Conn.; died ——, before October —, 1766; for in that month and year Thomas Fitch, Jr., administrator of the estate of Thomas Hill, Jr., makes a memorial to the General Assembly as regards the settlement of Thomas Hill's estate requesting authority to sell land to pay debts and provide for his widow. He married at Fairfield, Conn., January 27th, 1757, to Ellen Sturges (see Bailey's Conn. Marriages, Vol. VI, p. 37), born ——, at ——; died ——, at ——.

From the above we see that Thomas Hill,[3] Jr., died previous to October, 1766, session of the General Assembly, and therefore could not be the Thomas Hill who was the husband of Elizabeth[6] Thacher on March 20th, 1778, when they both as husband and wife witnessed the will of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher.

From the Conn. Colonial Records, Vol. XIII, we have the records of Thomas Hill as guardian of the Indians and Justice of the Peace for Fairfield, Conn., up to as late as 1770. This must have been Capt. Thomas[2] Hill. Now the records of the burials in the old Burying-ground, Fairfield, Conn., give the gravestone of Mary, wife of Thomas Hill, Esq., and states that she died December 19th, 1763, aged 69 years, 1 month, 26 days. There is no record, however, of the death or burial of said Thomas[2] Hill, hence it is possible that he may have married a second time after death of his first wife Mary, to Elizabeth[6] Thacher. This, however, seems unlikely, as he was born (probably) before his first wife Mary, i. e., before October 24th, 1694, and Elizabeth[6] Thacher was not born until after 1735; and if Thomas[2] Hill married her as his second wife after December 19th, 1763, she was over 41 years younger than he was, which while possible is yet an improbable conjecture.

From the Burial Inscriptions of the Old Fairfield, Conn., Burying-ground, p. 103, we secure the following inscription:—"Here lyes inter'd the body of Doctr Thomas Hill, who died March 8th, A. D., 1781, in the 36th year of his age." This Doctor Thomas Hill was neither the Thomas[2] nor Thomas[3] Hill mentioned above, as his date of birth, 1745, renders that impossible. I do not know who this Doctor Thomas Hill was, but he was alive on March 20th, 1778, when Thomas Hill and his wife Elizabeth[6] (Thacher) Hill witnessed the will of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher, and he (Doctor Thomas Hill) died March 8th, 1781, in time for his widow (if he had one) to marry, second, on May 6th, 1783, to John Blackleach; and moreover he was dead in 1782 in which year Thomas Hill, husband of Elizabeth[6] Thacher, is spoken of as deceased. The exact date of birth of Elizabeth[6] Thacher is not known, but she was a daughter of Capt. Josiah[5] Thacher by his second wife, and hence must have been born after 1735; and in the list of the children of Capt. Josiah[5] Thacher she is always placed after Capt. John[6] Thacher, born July 25th, 1742, and before Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher, who was born ——, 1748. Hence, we see that probably she was born about 1745, the year of birth of the above Doctor Thomas Hill, and was of a proper age to become his wife.

From all of the above I am inclined to believe that the Doctor Thomas Hill who died May 8th, 1781, at Fairfield, and who was buried there, was the first husband of Elizabeth[6] Thacher; especially as in her marriage at Stratford, Conn., on May 6th, 1783, she is stated to be a widow from Fairfield, Conn. She was probably married in Stratford, while visiting her brother, Captain John[6] Thacher, who was then living at Stratford with his second wife Mehitable (Ufford) Thompson-Thacher.

Of John Blackleach, the second husband of Elizabeth[6] (Thacher) Hill, I have been unable to ascertain the parentage or the date and place of his birth. He was, however, a brother of Hudson Blackleach. His will was dated April 4th, 1820, and proved May 15th, 1820; hence he must have died between those dates. Said will is filed in Bridgeport, among the Stratford Probate Records, Vol. VI, 1819-20, pages 500 and 515; in it he is described as of Huntington, Conn. (formerly part of Stratford), and he leaves all his property to his niece Charity Apame Blackleach (daughter of Hudson Blackleach). From the fact that his wife Elizabeth[6] (Thacher) Hill-Blackleach is not mentioned in the will, it is fair to presume that she died previous to his death; and from the fact that he leaves all of his property to his niece, it is to be presumed that he died childless.

273. Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher (Capt. Josiah,[5] Deacon Josiah,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born ——, 1748 (about), at Norwalk, Conn.; died ——, 1782 (about), at Amsterdam (?), Holland, and was presumably buried there. He was a mariner and his home was at Norwalk, Conn. He married March 5th, 1778, at Fairfield (Green's Farms), Conn., to Anna Platt (born, at ——; died ——, at ——). She was a daughter of Joseph Platt (born September 9th, 1706 (or 1716); died March —, 1777, Yale College, 1733), and Hannah (Whitman) Platt (daughter of Zachariah Whitman by his third wife), of Norwalk, Conn.

Children: (Thacher), none that are known of.

No record that I am aware of gives the exact date of birth of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher. Among my notes, according to some authority which I have failed to record, I find the statement that,—"Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher was a mariner; he died at the age of 34; he sailed on a brig from Boston for Holland, by way of the North of Scotland, the port of destination being Amsterdam, Holland. The ship returned safely with the news that Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher, had died in Holland." The inventory of his estate was filed December 12th, 1782, this being the earliest date in the settling of his estate. The year 1782, less 34 years, his age at death, places his approximate date of birth 1748, which date of birth is in accordance with the order of birth of the children of Captain Josiah[5] Thacher as given by Selleck in his History of Norwalk. I imagine that he died a year or so prior to 1782, say 1779, or 1780.

From the Connecticut Hist. Soc. Collections, Vol. VIII., "Revolutionary Rolls and List, 1775-1783," p. 235, we have the following extract:—

"Payroll of Captain Frederick Chapel's Company of seamen raised in the State of Connecticut for Naval Service on the lakes on the Northern Department commencing on the day of their enlistment and ending the 25th day of September, 1776.

"Stephen Greenleaf Thacher, Lieutenant, entered service August 18th, 1776."

From which it would appear that he served his country on the Lake Champlain expedition, and that he possibly was present at the battle of Valcour's Island with his brother Captain John[6] Thacher.

The following is an abstract of his will:—

"Will of Stephen Greenleaf Thacher, at present in good health and enjoying ye free exercise of reason"—"just debts & funeral expenses to be paid out of moveable estate, and remainder to well beloved wife Anna to be her own forever. To wife Anna use of all Real Estate from decease of my honored father. If wife Anna has a child by testator, she is to have 1/3 of dower; but, before estate is distributed, an orphan child of testator's brother Daniel, deceased, viz: William Thacher to be given £50 out of personal estate, "out of affection to whom I bestow the legacy." If wife die, without bearing a child to testator, or said child die without issue, then William Thacher above mentioned to inherit. Wife Anna and Thaddeus Betts of Norwalk to be executors. Dated March 20th, 1778."

(sgd) STEPHEN G THACHER

Witnesses:—
Thomas Hill
Elizabeth Hill
Deborah Whitney

"There personally appeared Deborah Keeler, late Deborah Whitney, wife to Isaac Keeler, who witnessed signature Thomas Hill, another witness, now deceased, before me,

(sgd) THADDEUS BETTS
Justice of the Peace."

Norwalk, Ct., March 31st, 1782.

This is the will referred to in the record of Elizabeth[6] Thacher-Hill, No. 272; and as then stated, proves Thomas Hill, her husband, to have been alive March 20th, 1778, and to have been dead on March 31st, 1782.

From Fairfield County, Conn., Probate Records, Estate of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher:—

"Inventory proved by Doctor Thaddeus Betts, Esq., February 3rd, 1783; amount £7-9-6. Certified to by Stephen St. John and Jesse Raymond, both appraisers under oath, dated Norwalk, December 12th, 1782 (outside of paper endorsed, 1783).

The estate of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher, administrator's account dated February 3rd, 1783, covers both sides of paper about 8 x 15 inches, and is signed

(sgd) ANN THACHER, Executrix
(sgd) THADDEUS BETTS, Executor

Dated Norwalk, Conn., February 12th, 1783.

Final settlement of estate was made June 21st, 1784, and on that same date Thaddeus Betts of Norwalk, was appointed guardian of William Thacher, a minor, who was a beneficiary under the will of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher.

From all of the above it would appear that Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher married March 5th, 1778 (possibly, 1778-9), and immediately thereafter March 20th, 1778 (or 1779), made a will in favor of his wife and any possible child to be born, and otherwise in favor of his nephew William[7] Thacher, he being on the eve of departure on a long sea voyage; he subsequently departed on said voyage and died while on said voyage in Amsterdam (?), Holland, and his wife had no issue by him.

Anna (Platt) Thacher, widow of Stephen Greenleaf[6] Thacher, was married a second time at Fairfield, Conn., by the Rev. Andrew Eliot of the First Congregational Church on March 3rd, 1785, to Captain Samuel Keeler, born ——, at ——; died ——, at ——. He was a son of Matthew and Sarah (Scott) Keeler of Norwalk, Conn.

Children: 3 (Keeler), sons. Not in Thacher line.

1. Joseph, born October 18th, 1786; died ——, 1824, probably in Norwalk, Conn.
2. Charles, born April 6th, 1789; died ——; settled in New York City and was there in 1812.
3. Samuel, born March 17th, 1792; died ——.

George Thacher's MSS Genealogy, p. 180, he died unmarried in the West Indies, but according to Otis' Barnstable Familes, Vol. I, p. 517, he married ——, 1745, at ——, to Mary Joyce.

I have no further record of this family.

THE RECORDS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF SMITHTOWN, SUFFOLK COUNTY, NEW YORK.

By William A. Robbins,
Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and Long Island Historical Society.

In the Record for April, 1911, at page 128, there was printed a brief account of the Presbyterian Church at Smithtown, Suffolk County, New York, together with the baptismal and marriage records of Rev. Joshua Hart, one of its early ministers.

The first settled pastor was Rev. Napthali Daggett, who was ordained September 18th, 1751, and dismissed at his own request for want of support, November 6th, 1755, soon afterwards becoming connected with Yale College, where he had been elected the first Professor of Divinity, the preceding September.*

During the next twenty years there seems to have been no settled pastor, the Church depending on occasional supplies.

* For a fuller account see A History of the Doggett-Daggett Family, p. 118, by Samuel B. Doggett, 1894.

Rev. Thomas Lewis, Yale, 1760, was employed from 1763 to 1769; and in 1771, Rev. Daniel Avery spent some time here by appointment of the Presbytery. Then was installed the Rev. Joshua Hart, above mentioned, who was dismissed September 6th, 1787, but continued to labor as a stated supply in other congregations on Long Island, for the next twenty years dividing his time between Fresh Ponds and Hempstead, after which his whole time was devoted to the former place.

Another vacancy then ensued during which occasional supplies were enjoyed. A Mr. Halsey was employed from April, 1793, to June, 1795; and for a few months afterwards, a Mr. Perkins.

In October, 1796, Rev. Luther Gleason commenced preaching here and at Islip, or Huntington South, being installed September 28th, 1797. He abruptly left the Presbytery and was suspended from the ministry August 20th, 1807, and finally deposed October 16th, following. The church became split and for several years was destitute of preaching a greater part of the time.

For the six months following November, 1809, Rev. Nathaniel S. Prime* divided his time between this church and the one at Freshpond. In September, 1811, Rev. Bradford Marcy commenced preaching here and at Babylon and he remained until August, 1814, having brought about the reunion of the two churches. Sometime in 1815, Rev. Henry Fuller began preaching and was ordained October 23rd, 1816, as pastor of the united churches of Smithtown and Freshpond and was dismissed in 1821. Then followed Rev. Richard F. Nicoll who came in 1822, was ordained June 25th, 1823, and dismissed June 5th, 1827. On September 9th, 1827, Rev. Ithamar Pillsbury commenced his labors here, but he was not installed until April 21st, 1830. He was dismissed April 17th, 1833.

A brief vacancy then followed during which the church was supplied by different individuals among whom were a Mr. Alvord and a Mr. Lockwood.

In April, 1835, Rev. James P. Edwards commenced preaching here and was installed May 5th, following. He remained until 1852, and was followed by Rev. Rutgers Van Brunt, who resigned in 1856 and was followed by Rev. Ezra F. Munday. He was succeeded in 1861 by Rev. S. H. McMullen and he, in turn, by Rev. James Sinclair. Then came Rev. Henry A. Porter who remained six years and was followed by Rev. Henry A. Lewis and next by Rev. J. O. Gray.

The records of this church are incomplete. Those printed with this number of the RECORD and to be continued are taken from the copy made by Mrs. Charles Hilton Brown and her brother, Mr. Charles Embree Lawrence, and loaned by them to the author. The part comprising the Rev. Napthali Daggett records has been compared with a certified copy of the original preserved in the archives of Yale University which was made in 1899 for Mr. Orville B. Ackerly by Prof. Franklin B. Dexter, the then Secre-

The pictures of the present church edifice, which was erected in 1827, were provided by Mrs. Brown and her brother.

NOTES ON SOME EARLY VERMONT-NEW YORK SETTLERS.

By Theresa Hall Bristol,
Member New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

There was so much controversy and strife between New York and New Hampshire and Massachusetts over the land lying east of the Hudson River, and that in the western part of what is now Vermont, and Northwestern Massachusetts, that it is hard to discriminate between those who settled on either side of the line. Many of the early Northern New York settlers were the Vermont settlers or their offspring. The land controversy began about 1761, and continued, between New York and New Hampshire at least, until Vermont was created a State in 1791. The following are a few of those who went to New York via Vermont:

Elisha Higgins and Jane Collins were married at Eastham, Mass., Sept. 30, 1700. Children:

Elisha, Jr., b. Jan. 3, 1702, at Eastham.
Martha.
Beriah, lived at Provincetown, Mass.
Alice.
Applyer.
Jonathan, lived at Hardwick, Mass.
Elizabeth.

Elisha Higgins, Jr., m. 1st at Eastham, Oct., 1721, Sarah, and had at Eastham:

i. Elisha, 3d, b. 1727. He enlisted under Isaac Wyman and Seth Hudson, at West Hoosac (now in New York), 1758–59, and previous to that was at Guilford, Vt., 1754, and Fort Massachusetts (now N. Adams), 1755. (See Hist. Berkshire Co., Mass., p. 102). He m. Thankful Rice at Palmer, Mass. (int.), Sept. 22, 1764, and was a member of the church there in 1764, occupying "ye second seat in ye body of ye meeting house;" his wife "in ye seat opposite on ye women's side." The Hardwick History evidently confuses him with his father Elisha and brother Edward, giving Edward the same wife.

The Hist. of Hardwick states that Elisha, Jr., the father "came in from Palmer 1742," but nothing appears in the Palmer Hist. to indicate that he ever lived there. He had by wife Hannah (Dodge?) at Hardwick, Mass.:

ii. Uriah, b. May 24, 1742; m. April, 1763, Esther Cooley of Greenwich, and had: Sybil, Abigail and David; lived for a time at Palmer, occupying in 1764 "ye fifth seat in ye body of the house;" his wife "in ye seat opposite." Was at Hardwick in 1775 when he testified to having seen "Jonothan Danforth purchase half a barrel of Bohea tea at Albany." He enlisted at Hardwick, Aug. 21, 1777, on the Bennington Alarm. Was living at Dumerston, Vt., in 1793, when his grandson, son of Caleb, was named for him. (See Vt. History Magazine, vol. v, p. 104.)

The Hardwick History gives Elisha, Jr., children, in addition to Elisha and Uriah, Joseph, Edward, Abiel, Abigail and "probably more."

iii. Joseph, enlisted at Hardwick for the Crown Point Expedition 1756; int. of marriage at Hardwick, March 6, 1756; m. at Littleton, March 24, 1757, to "Mrs. Anna Hooker late of said Hardwick but for ye space of six months last inhabitants of and residents in Westfield in ye county of Middlesex." He was at Dummerston in 1793 with his brother Uriah.

iv. Edward, "thought to be son of Elisha," is given in the Hardwick Hist. the wife of his brother Elisha (see Palmer Records).

v. Abiel, m. Ebenezer Safford, Nov. 24, 1759.

vi. Abigail, m. Simon Giffin at Hardwick, Mass., March 24, 1761.

About 1750 a separate church was formed at Hardwick and these members, together with those admitted in 1762, became the First Congregational Church at Bennington, and the first Congregational Church in the State of Vermont. Evidently Elisha Higgins and wife were among these "separatists," for in 1753 they were called to give reasons why they absented themselves from the Lord's Supper. (See Hardwick Hist., p. 226). Elisha Higgins d. at Bennington, Vt., Jan. 22, 1777, in his 77th year. Hannah, wife of Elisha Higgins, d. Sept. 22, 1776, in her 74th year. (See Cook's Benington Cemetery Lists, copied by Miss Eells.) Elisha Higgins and family are supposed to have settled at Ft. Ann and taken refuge, with others, at Bennington at the time of the Revolution. Simon Giffin, son of Simon, Sr., and Janet Leichman Griffin, was born, presumably in or near Boston, July 5, 1740; m. 1st at Hardwick, Mass., March 24, 1761, Abigail, dau. of Elisha Higgins, Jr. Children:

i. Edward, b. Dec. 3, 1761, at Hardwick.
ii. James, b. Feb. 22, 1764, at Hardwick.
iii. David Dodge, b. Sept. 8, 1766, at Bennington.
iv. Jennie.

Family tradition says that Simon Giffin, Jr., lived for a time at Ft. Ann, now in Washington, then Albany County, N. Y. It is presumed that his wife Abigail (Higgins) d. there Nov. 24, 1768. He m. 2d, Lydia Crane at Wethersfield, Ct., in 1771, and served from there during the Revolution. He was a manufacturer of spinning wheels. His sons by his first marriage probably remained with their mother's people. Census, 1790—James and David were in Vermont; in 1796 they were at Ft. Ann again; in 1800, David was among the first settlers a few miles above Ogdensburg, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., where he was very active in the War of 1812. (See Lewis's Northern N. Y. Genealogies.)

Children of Simon and Lydia (Crane) Giffin:

v. George, b. 1773, at Wethersfield, Ct.
vi. Ann, b. 1774, at Wethersfield, Ct.
vii. John, b. 1777, at Wethersfield, Ct.

Simon Giffin, Jr., died at Wethersfield, Ct.

Edward, son of Simon, Jr., and Abigail (Higgins) Giffin, b. Dec. 3, 1761, at Hardwick, m. at Bennington, Vt., March 29, 1781, Abigail, dau. of Nathaniel Holmes. The author of Holmes Genealogy has omitted the children of Nathaniel, Sr., and Sarah Pettee of Dedham, who were baptized by Rev. Philip Curtis of Sharon, and whether Abigail was dau. of Lieut. Nathaniel or of Nathaniel, Sr., has not been ascertained. The dates in her son's diary and those on the clergyman's list conflict. However, she gave her daughters the same names, and she and her husband were at Clarendon, Vt., and went to Georgia, Vt., with Nathaniel, Senior's, two sons, Benjamin and Stephen. Edward Giffin, and Benjamin, Stephen, Nathaniel and Zephaniah Holmes, all enlisted at Bennington in the Revolutionary War. During the land controversies which covered the period between 1761 until after the Revolutionary War, between New York and New Hampshire and Massachusetts, Nathaniel Holmes, Nathaniel Holmes, Jr., and Zephaniah Holmes signed in 1769 the same petition with other settlers in and around Bennington for protection against the New York settlers who had been granted the same land. Nathaniel Holmes, Jr., was one of the ten men who rescued Baker of Clarendon from the Sheriff of New York in 1772. (See Hall's Early Hist. of Vt., p. 137.) "In 1789, Stephen and Benjamin Holmes, brothers," (with others) "came into Georgia from Clarendon and surrounding towns." With them came Edward Giffin and wife, who were members of the First Congregational Church at the time of its formation. Benjamin Holmes was deacon of the Baptist Church formed about the same time; was called Colonel and was Representative for that town many years. Capt. Stephen Holmes moved to Fairfax, Vt., and was Representative for that town. Zephaniah Holmes was on a school committee there in 1796. The children of Nathaniel and Sarah (Potter) Holmes, some births recorded in Dedham and some in Stoughton, as they lived near the boundary line, were:

Nathaniel, b. 1741.
Zephaniah, b. 1743.
Benjamin, b. 1745; d. 174 ?
Sarah, b. 1747. (See Holmes Gen.)

Children of Nathaniel Holmes, bap. by Rev. Philip Curtis:

Benjamin, bap. 1746 (above who d. ?).
Sarah, bap. 1748 (above ?).
Mary, bap. 1752.
Benjamin, bap. 1754 (children often named for one d.).
Ann, bap. 1756.
Stephen, bap. 1757.
Abigail, bap. July 6, 1760.

Edward and Abigail (Holmes) Giffin moved from Georgia, Vt., to Colchester, Vt., in 1800 and in 1806 he succeeded Nathan Wheeler as deacon of the First Congregational Church "and served until his removal from town in 1812," when he joined his brother David at Crary's Mills, near Ogdenburg, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., where he died October 2, 1830. Children:

David, b. April 21, 1783, at Clarendon, Vt.
Polly, m. Paul Giffin.
Salinda, m. John Wheeler.
Ann, m. David Giffin.
Abigail, m. Gilbert Mansfield.
Nathaniel, d. unm.
Sarah, m. Paul Place.
Lucy, m. Luther Parish.

BOOK NOTICES.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

ANSON PHELPS STOKES.

By Margaret Janet Breen.

Mr. Anson Phelps Stokes, head of the widely known family of that name, died in New York, June 28, 1913. He was born Feb. 22, 1838, in his grandfather Phelps' home, a stately colonial mansion, once referred to as "a lonely country seat on the East River two miles from the City," its grounds spreading over what is now 29th to 33rd Streets and from Third Avenue to the East River. In this beautiful place Mr. Stokes lived during his boyhood. He was the eldest son of James Stokes and Caroline (Phelps) Stokes, daughter of Anson Greene Phelps, whose name is perpetuated in the well known city of Ansonia, of which he was the founder.

Mr. Stokes received his early education from tutors from the Union Theological Seminary and later at private schools in New York. In 1860 he went abroad on the famous clipper ship Dreadnaught, and studied navigation under Captain Samuels, who told his father that the boy "should not be thrown away on the land." Mr. Stokes later became an enthusiastic yachtsman, the sea and everything connected with it attracting him strongly. He owned the Nereid, Clytie, Seafox and the Mermaid, in which he made many long cruises, and was twice Vice-Commodore of the New York Yacht Club. In 1902 he wrote the story of some of his travels in Cruising in the West Indies. His wide knowledge of navigation, his great fund of information relative to naval affairs, and his genius for mathematics, were of great assistance to him in perfecting plans for a heavily armored naval battery carrying sixteen 12-inch and two 15-inch guns intended principally for harbor defense. The Ultima which Mr. Stokes styled "a globuloid naval battery" was a battleship and floating fortress in one, of 30,000 tons displacement, having available space for 5,000 tons of coal and accommodation for 1,300 men. The model was shown at the Jamestown Exposition in 1907. By reason of this invention he was elected a member of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers in New York, and of the Institution of Naval Architects in England, being proposed for membership in the latter society by Hon. William H. White, chief constructor of the British Navy, who had designed most of the British battleships then extant.

Mr. Stokes retired from active business as a banker more than twenty years ago, and as he became possessed of leisure his interests developed in many directions. He loved books and liked to be in daily intercourse with them. He studied New England history and his library was well furnished with literature of its early days. He took great pleasure in riding, was a fearless horseman and well known in hunting circles in England. It was while riding on his place at Lenox in 1899 that he was thrown so violently from his horse as to necessitate the amputation of his leg. Thereafter his leisure time was spent in yachting and automobiling. But retirement from business did not bring to him the ease to which he had looked forward, for many important private interests had been placed in his care. As trustee he had a deep sense of his obligations, and from a strict feeling of duty he accepted tasks which exacted a greater sacrifice of time and energy than most men in his situation would have been willing to make.

In the days of his business career he was a member of the mercantile firm of Phelps, Dodge & Company, founded by his grandfather; a member of the banking firm of Phelps, Stokes & Company, with his father, James Stokes, and his father-in-law, Isaac Newton Phelps, and had won great repute in financial circles throughout the United States and England. One of his most marked characteristics was his ability to form a ready and well-balanced judgment on difficult and complicated questions. His clearness of understanding, practical wisdom, his high-minded integrity and uprightness went far toward making him a strong figure in the financial world of thirty years ago. He was brief and concise, strong in his convictions and direct in all statements on business or political policies. He had been for thirty years a trustee of the United States Trust Company, on the Board of Directors of the Mercantile and Second National Banks, and a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

He was the author of Joint-Metallism, which went through five editions, and in many letters and pamphlets on monetary problems he urged the opening of the mints for the free coinage of silver by which the "two metals might be made the metallic basis of currency at ratios based on their relative market values." His clear presentation of his theme opened up lively discussion and enlightening argument among the most noted partisans of monometallism and bimetallism both in this country and abroad.

Being a close student of the affairs of government, Mr. Stokes attained national distinction through his efforts on behalf of sound civic principals, and his activity in the formation of non-partisan organizations for better municipal government. He was a founder and the first president of the Reform Club; was on the first Executive Committee in 1877, and a Vice-President of the Civil Service Reform Association, and for his work in behalf of free trade he was made an honorary member of the Cobden Club of London; and although several times urged to run for political office, Mr. Stokes felt that he could be of more service to his country in his work as a private citizen. He was a firm believer in democratic principles, and was fervent in his support of them. He never ceased to plead for the best that could be rendered in politics, in conduct and in life, and the weight of his character and standing emphasized his every utterance.

Perhaps much of the ideal of citizenship and its duties which actuated him was a matter of heredity as well as of personal pride, for he was descended through his mother from many of the builders of this nation, the Puritans of the 1630 emigration, in whose character idealism and strong practical sense combined, and to whom the claims of duty were factors in the details of every day life. Among his most distinguished ancestors were three Colonial governors, Dudley, Haynes and Wyllys, who turned their backs upon the luxury of substantial homesteads in England to seek hardship and peril on the rocky and gloomy shores of New England, that those who came after might know and experience liberty of conscience and freedom in religious thought which were denied them in the mother country. He was also descended from a long line of clergymen, among whom was Timothy Woodbridge, one of the founders of Yale, from Lieutenant Thomas Phelps who fought in the Revolution, and from several of that small band of soldiers led by John Mason, who, in 1637, crushed the Pequots in the famous "Swamp Fight" and saved the infant Colony of Connecticut from annihilation by the Indians.

Not less illustrious were the ancestors on his father's side. His grandfather, Thomas Stokes, was one of the founders of the London Missionary Society. He came to New York from London in 1798. He had been associated with Robert Raikes in the founding of Sunday Schools in London, and with Rowland Hill and others in fitting out the first missionary ship, the Duff, for the South Sea Islands, and when he came to New York he was active in the formation of Sunday Schools here, and was one of the organizers of the New York Bible Society and of the New York Peace Society. He was one of the best known merchants of his day. He was descended from John Stokes of Greensted, Essex, England, who was buried in the grounds of the little log chapel built more than nine hundred years ago as a shrine for the body of St. Edmund while it rested on its way for interment in Suffolk. The name of Stokes is a very old one in England, and it is supposed that this John Stokes was directly descended from Adam de Stok who was buried in Great Bedwyn, Wiltshire, in 1313. This Adam de Stok was of Norman origin.

Mr. Stokes had been a Lieutenant-Governor of the Society of Colonial Wars, was a patron of the Museum of Natural History and of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, a member of St. George's Society, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, New England Historic-Genealogical Society, National Geographic Society, the American Social Science Association, and of the Century Club, the Knickerbocker, Metropolitan, Union League, Church, Lenox and City Clubs, and of the New York Yacht Club and the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club. Notwithstanding this, Mr. Stokes was a man of domestic tastes and habits. He was essentially a home man. His devotion to his family was exceptionally tender and he found his greatest pleasure in the companionship of those nearest and dearest to him. His love of his family, however, was not confined to his own domestic circle, for his interest in the lives and homes of his ancestors was a marked feature of his later life. For many years matters historical and genealogical had a peculiar charm for him. His interest in genealogy as a recreative study took him many times to England, the country he seemed to love best, and motoring through the counties with which his ancestors were associated gave him much interest and pleasure. In 1909 he published the first volume of Stokes Records.

Mr. Stokes was a scholar, a patron of art and literature because of real understanding and love of them, a deeply religious man and in every way a broad and admirable American; the state and the city have lost a valuable citizen, and his death leaves a large space to be filled. Few men have enjoyed to a greater degree the confidence and respect of those with whom he had business or social dealings, and few men in their private lives have shown more generous kindness of heart. His parents and his two grandfathers were noted for their wide and abundant philanthropy and high Christian principles, and he, following the example set by his forebears, deeply interested himself in many charities and gave generously his time and means to their support. He was never weary of well doing.

In 1865 Mr. Stokes married Helen Louisa, daughter of Isaac Newton Phelps, and four sons and five daughters were born to them, all of whom survive their distinguished father:

i. Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes, married in 1895, Edith, daughter of Robert B. and Susanna (Shaw) Minturn of New York.

ii. Sarah Maria Phelps Stokes, married in 1890, Baron Hugh Colin Gustav George Halkett, who died in 1906.

iii. Helen Olivia Phelps Stokes.

iv. James Graham Phelps Stokes, married in 1905, Rose Harriet Pastor.

v. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., Secretary of Yale University, married in 1903, Caroline Green Mitchell, daughter of Clarence Green and Sarah (Lindley) Mitchell.

vi. Ethel V. Phelps Stokes, married in 1895, John Sherman Hoyt, son of Alfred M. and Rosina (Reese) Hoyt.

vii. Caroline M. Phelps Stokes, married in 1903, Robert Hunter, son of William Robert and Caroline (Fouts) Hunter of Terre Haute, Ind.

viii. Mildred E. Phelps Stokes, married in 1907, Doctor Ransom Spafard Hooker, son of Horace Monroe and Asenath (Spafard) Hooker of Cooperstown, N. J.

ix. Harold Montrose Phelps Stokes.

Mr. Stokes was an Episcopalian, and frequently a delegate to the Diocesan and General Conventions, and gave much time to ecclesiastical affairs in New York. His religious faith was deep and simple. He was a diligent student of the Bible, and in its lessons and its literature he was thoroughly versed. Practical religion pervaded all his active life, and was deeply involved in that benevolence which was his most characteristic trait. In his belief, in his habit of mind and type of character, he was a fine example of what the church stands for at its best. He was a member of the Church of the Incarnation, 35th Street and Madison Avenue, and was buried from the Chapel of the Incarnation in East 32nd Street, which stands on what was once the estate of his grandfather, Anson Greene Phelps, where Mr. Stokes was born seventy-five years ago.

The sites of old Richardson homestead and Gabriel Leggett's, as well as those of later generations, have all an absorbing interest to me; nor less so the old graveyard on Hunt's Point. Inside the gateway lies a flat stone engraved: "Private Cemetery of John Leggett and —— Willett." I infer from this that my great-great-grandfather's wife (whose name I have not found as yet among the old records) was a Willett, but of this later. Since the yard contains many Hunt graves, that of the poet Roderic Drake, and others, I imagine that originally there were two yards, separated probably by a fence, for the Leggett graves are by themselves. The old stones are very rude. There was probably at that time not a headstone cut in the whole Province, all such stones, as in old Trinity, New York, were imported from England or Holland. These old gravestones, therefore, are rough slabs, and at first I thought they were without inscription of any kind, but after several visits I found that sunken beneath the surface of the ground were the initials rudely carved. I have heard my mother say that grandfather Leggett wished to

Near the old graveyard is the burying place of the slaves of the Leggett family and other families containing a good many irregular shaped headstones. I have often heard, and the wills which I will later record, show it, that there were a good many slaves owned by the family.

In the latter part of March, 1891, I went with Mr. Francis H. Leggett to West Farms to be present at the opening of certain graves, which proved to be those of William Leggett, 3rd son of Gabriel 1st, and of his family and others. On the lawn of the big white house which for half a century has stood on this estate (on Hunt's Point), grew six cedar trees until comparatively recent times, and tradition had told the owners that within the mound where they grew was an Indian burying-ground. Mr. J. L. Spofford, who now has control of this property, had his men dig into this mound, and found underneath lying flat, a gravestone bearing this inscription: "1744, Sarah Leggett—died Aug. 30, 1744, aged 52 yrs." Nine bodies were removed from this mound, or what was found of them, and buried in St. Peter's yard at Westchester. They should not have been disturbed, for I have since learned that when the property was sold by the Leggetts it was with the understanding that, the stones being laid flat, they never should be. Some of these stones, I am told, can be seen as forming in part a rockery made by Mr. Spofford. In William Leggett's grave there was nothing found save his arm bone and a gold link sleeve button, and the bone was preserved in a very singular way, it lay, no doubt folded across the breast, underneath that part of the coffin lid which had the following: "Wm Leggett—Aged 71 Years," formed by large headed copper nails. The copper preserved not only the portion of the lid in which they were driven, but the arm bone which lay beneath it. In the graves of the women were gold pins, probably used in fastening the shroud, also gold link cuff buttons. All were surprised by the stature of the men, for although the bones had crumbled, the space they had occupied was well defined, they were verily Anakim—over six feet—some were pronounced nearer seven by the Columbia College professor who was superintending the work. I have often heard my mother say the Leggetts were very tall, my grandpa "as high as the door."

I do not know as yet whether the first Gabriel was of the nine bodies removed, have no way of knowing where he was buried; but as the churchyard of the church where he attended at Westchester was distant and, having no hearses, the dead were carried to the grave on a bier, no doubt he and his were buried near the old homestead, for it was long the custom for landed proprietors to have a cemetery on their estate. I may find the spot yet.

Gabriel was no doubt buried in the old yard on Hunt's Point; I think I can make out his initials on one of the oldest stones.

Returning again to speak of the original patent, after the death of John Richardson's widow in 1694 or 5, and who, as will be stated at length beyond, had married Capt. Williams, a member of Leisler's Council for the Province of New York, the following covenant was, Nov. 20, 1695, entered into by the heirs:

"Whereas John Richardson late of Westchester Co., deceased, did give and bequeth unto Martha, his then wife, all the houses land and meadow during her life with other things thereto relating, as appears by the last will and test. of the sd John Richardson bearing date 16 Nov., 1679, and the said Martha being deceased, the wife of Thos. Williams of said place; and since her interment several controversies hath arrisen by John Ketcham & Bethia his wife, eldest daughter of sd John Richardson and Gabriel Leggett and Elizabeth his wife the other daughter of the said J. R., and John Lawrence of New Town Guardian to the two orphants of Joseph & Mary Hadley, late of Yonkers Plantation deceased, the other dau. of sd J. R., concerning the dividing of the estate given unto the said mother during life: and for pacifying of all hearts and contentions which hath arisen between the sd John Ketcham and Bethia his wife, and Gabriel Leggatt & Elizabeth, and on behalf of George and Mary Hadley the two orphants of Joseph and Mary his wife aforesaid, and for the preventing of law suits, hath mutually agreed and concluded to divide the sd lands and meadows, houses and orchards in manner and form following: Impri. That John Ketcham and Bethia his wife shall have the Long Neck with all or singular the woods, under-wood, and all the appertenances with a highway thereto, together with three acres of meadow within the Planting Neck, to have &c. heirs, &c. forever.

Second—That Gabriel Leggatt and Elizabeth his wife shall have the now dwelling house and orchard, with a piece of meadow alongst the side of said orchard with 22 acres of land to be laid to said house and orchard in side of that land which the said Gabriel Leggatt bought of John Forgason, with the land between the two orchards, together with one third of the undivided lands after the 1200 acres is laid out, and one third of the meadow in the Planting Neck after the 3 acres is laid out to the said John Ketcham, with all and every of the appertenances unto the sd Gabriel Leggett, his heirs &c.

Third, That George Hadly and Mary shall have ye land lying upon yè Planting Neck of sd estate: and ⅔ of meadow upon sd Neck after John Ketcham hath his three acres, together with ⅔ of the nndivided lands after the 1200 acres is laid out. Also John Ketcham shall pay unto John Lawrence of the New Town for the use of the orchard £4. 10s. & 9d in money, and Gabriel Leggatt shall pay to the sd John Lawrence for the use afores^d the sum of £3.6s.

Note. In one or two documents in the Co. Court House at White Plains I find Elizabeth Leggett made "her mark," but here, and several times again, she signs a very neat signature. At that time, I find, nothing was thought of marking instead of writing full name, when for any reason more convenient to do so.

Of the Hadleys, Mary, dau. of John Richardson, "died shortly after her father," Joseph Hadley then married Hittabell, dau. of George Tippetts (Col. James de Lancey marrying Martha Tippetts), and she, by or before 1694, was remarried to John Conckline. By an instrument of which Gabriel Leggett and E[d] Collier were witnesses, dated Sept. 12, 1695, she gave "release to her brother George to all claims to land now in his possession."

By John Richardson's will "eight acres of land about the first spring" was given to "my son in law Joseph Hadley," Jan. 10, 1687/8; he sold this land to Capt. Thos. Williams, and on March 3, 1695, Gabriel Leggett received the same by deed from Capt. Williams.

By certain of the estate left by will to Mary (Hadley), dau. of John Richardson, there was litigation which was not settled till just at the close of a century. The case was this: quoting from the letter of John Barton, rector of St. Peter's Church, to the "Venerable Society &c." "John Richardson of the parish of Westchester, married his dau. Mary to Joseph Hadley; the said John Richardson sometime after his sickness whereof he died, makes a will, and bequeaths to his said dau. Mary, one hundred acres of land. The said daughter dies also soon after her father, but left issue by the said Joseph Hadley, her husband. After her death, she dying without a will, Joseph Hadley, the husband of the deceased, sells this land to Thomas Williams; and the sd Thos. Williams dyes in possession of the sd land intestate, and without heirs, and by that means the land, by the judge and jury, was determined to be escheated to the crown. But now George Hadley, the son and heir of the sd Jos. Hadley, which he begot by the sd. Mary, the dau. of John Richardson, puts in his claim for this land as his mother's heir; alledging that his father could not dispose of his mother's inheritance &c."

The above was "land which my Lord of London obtained of her Majestie for the church at Westchester."

Sequel:—I find a deed for this land, dated Aug. 11, 1790, from the Corporation of Trinity Church of New York to Isaac Hadley.

Gabriel Leggett was born in England about 1635. He married Elizabeth Richardson probably about 1676. The earliest date at which I find his name mentioned in the public records of Westchester is, Liber I, p. 25: "1680. Appeared Gabriell Leggate to record the ear marks of his hores, cattle and suine—a cropp of the neere eare, and a half pennye under the off eare."

That he had property independently of his wife is evident for on March 18, 1683/4, he gave "a deed to Nathan Bailey for 3 acres on Frogs Neck;" and was owner, as seen above, of live stock. He was not only a land owner, but a merchant, and also operated a saw mill. From the records of Harlem, among accounts for building the Town House, is this item: "Four hundred and thirty feet of sawed planks from Gabriel Legget of Westchester for flooring the loft," and in the year 1682 a bill "to the town for material and work on the town house, from De Forrest and Legget for glass and planks, £100:0:0."

He figures in various suits, and on town committees, and, at Town meeting May 5, 1696, Gabriel Legat and Josiah Hunt were appointed to oversee repairs to be made upon the Meeting House.

From all that is on record concerning him one of the most distinctive features of his character was his personal courage.

Old Gabriel had with his boldness evidently a violent spirit, certainly so according to the testimony of Capt. Williams in his petition to the Governor, which I will in place transcribe; but we may remember Capt. Williams was very mad when he wrote it, and was himself no doubt extravagent in his allegations. The trouble between these two men arose partly from personal causes, but was chiefly on account of political differences.

Martha Richardson, foolishly we may suppose, after the death of her husband married Capt. Thos. Williams. Williams was by no means an inferior person, but was rather a prominent man in the community and the Province. He was born in 1631. He could not have married Martha earlier than 1680 or 81, since J. R. died 1679–80. He died 1703, Martha about 1694.

By John Richardson's will the bulk of his property was left to his wife during life without other conditions. She was a rich widow, and Capt. Williams made a soft place for himself by marrying her. This was a trial to the heirs, but what exasperated Gabriel was that Capt. Williams would not get out of the house after Martha's death; as appears by his petition to Gov. Fletcher. The chief cause of trouble was political. The Province was rent, communities, families, nearest friends divided as Leislerians and anti-Leislerians. After the dethronement of James II, and before the official notice in the Province of the Proclamation of William and Mary as Sovereigns of, etc., had been received, Capt. Jacob Leisler seized the Government of the Province of New York and was, by the Committee of Safety appointed Commander-in-Chief. There is no occasion to repeat this chapter of Colonial history, enough that on the arrival of Sloughter, duly commissioned Governor, the anti-Leislerians found their revenge securing Leisler's sentence to death, and he was executed in New York May 16, 1691.

Gabriel Leggett was a strong opponent of Leisler's claims and was by his nature, no doubt, an extreme partisan. When, therefore, Leisler called for volunteers to go to Canada against the French, he resisted the call, as appears by the following records of the Court: "June 6 & 7, 1693. The court orders that the Sherrife shall give notice to Capt. Pouton, Thos. Statham, and Gabriel Leggett, with what witnesses they have, to appear at the Court house at two o'clock to Indeavor to put a period to wht differences is amongst them." One witness testifies "after scurrelous words used by Gabriel Leggett to Capt. Williams, calling him a liar &c. Mrs. Williams spoke to him to interceed with her husband to pas by or putt up the difference between them for her daughter's sake &c." Williams himself testifies: "The first ocation of this difference was a hogg took violently from me." Afterward Capt. Leisler sent an order to Capt. Pouton "to send him some men to goe to Albany for their assistance against the French, also the said Williams to assist in taking and sending the men, upon which the Town's Company was called together, and Capt. Pouton asked them who was willing to go volunteers for said expedition, and Gabriel Leggett answered they was fools if any of them did go, upon which Capt. Pauton commanded him to hold his peace, but he still continued abusing the deponent and said: 'here comes the father of rogues,' and many other scurrulous words, upon which I gott a warrent against him &c."

Edward Collier testified: "He writt ye warr^{tt} and Capt. Richard Pouton signed it, and Capt. Williams was the complaynant, and Thos. Strathem was the Sheriffe and served it; and after this at a court held at Thos. Baxter's house in the month of March, 1689, there was Gabriel Leggett and his wife, and Capt. Williams and his wife, and they were talking about making up the difference as I suppose, but what their agreement was I could not tell, nor what terms, but I heard yt Gabriel was to pay the fees, & that deponent turned his fees over to Thos. Stratham, but never received any, neither do I know whether Stratham recd any of Leggett; soe after Col. Sloughter was come over Governor in May following, the s^{d} Gabriel took out a writt against Thos. Statham for an assault and false imprisonment to answer him at the next court of Sessions in June, and Capt. Pouton was Statham's baile, and some time afterwards William Cadderton came to my house and desired me to goe with him to Mr. Barnes to write a bond for his brother Stathem, for his brother Stathem and Gabriel were agreed, and Thos. S. was to pay to G. L. £25, soe I went to Mr. Barnes with him, and writt part of one bond, and Gabriel made scruple about it, and would not take his own bond without further security, soe I writt another, and Capt. Pouton and Mr. Chadderton was bound with him jointly and severally, and they signed, sealed and delivered it." Samuel Hitchcock testifies "that Capt. Williams and Mrs. Williams was together, and Gabriel Leggett, and Mrs. Williams desired him to interceed with Mr. Williams to forgive and pass by the fault of Gabriel for her daughter and children's sake upon wh deponent spoke to Capt. Williams, and also Mrs. Williams said, 'Good Gabriel, doe not goe to law,' and I said the same, and Gabriel seemed willing, and said he was sorry for it, and they let the action fall." Thos. Baxted, aged 39, testifies "when they came to the court they were talking about an agreement, and Mrs. Williams spoke to him to persuade her husband he should not take advantage of the law against Gabriel. I fetched a gallon of cider to drink with them, and to forward the agreement, and Gabriel Leggett did acknowledge he was sorry he had abused him in such words, as he said, for he did not know any such thing of him, and they did drink friends together in burnt wine and other drink, and the said Gabriel was to pay the clerk and sheriff their feese. Capt. Williams and he shook hands with one another, and did promise to live peaceably."

"Capt. Barnes upon his oath as a Justice of the peace saith that Capt. Williams and Gabriel Leggett being at his house was drinking together and he thinks Gabriel was little overtaken in drink, but he called Capt. Williams thief, murderer & lyer, & he would prove it, and repeated over many times, upon which Williams being provoked got out a writt against him, and arrested Leggett, and several persuaded Leggett to get security, but he would not, soe went to prison, and there he remained till the next morning. Some time after I asked Leggett how he came on with Capt. Williams, and he told me they were agreed."

All this seems very small, as very bad, but Gabriel Leggett was not "tight" enough, not such a fool as not to know what he was doing. He knew Leisler was ruling without authority; he believed that soon his rule would come to a disasterous end, that then all his acts, and of his subordinates, would be declared illegal. He would not accept bail when illegally arrested and imprisoned for he was shrewd enough to know that bye and bye he could make his personal and political enemies "whistle for it" and that he did by heavy penalities for false imprisonment, as will presently appear by their petitions to Gov. Fletcher from in prison.

Meanwhile Capt. Williams in small revenge takes action by that matter of "a hogg took violently from me" as above mentioned. Later in the same year (1693) he has Gabriel Leggett indicted for taking "a barrow hogg." For reasons which will appear he would not deny the charge, and the court found the fact acknowledged was done and acted in the time "yt Sir Edmond Andros was Govr of the Province and before ye time of ye late disorders" (all offenses before these disorders had by general act been pardoned) therefore finds, "that ye sd Gabriel Leggett for ye above offense shall pay ye charges of this court ocationed by the above indictment, and also before two of their Magt's Justices of ye peace of this county give in sufficient security for his good behavior for one whole yeare and untill ye above costs be paid and security given as above ye sd G. L. to remain a prisoner within Sheriff's custody."

Let there be no astonishment at these proceedings. The court records are full of them. As said, such constituted almost the only amusement and entertainment to be found, but Gabriel had a revengeful purpose, it is feared, in pleading to an offense he had not committed, for from the proceedings of Supreme Court, April 6, 1695, was "granted a writ of error in the case of Gabriel Leggett who was erroneously indicted for stealing a barrow hogg from Thos. Williams." It does not appear what use Gabriel Leggett made of this finding, but by his false imprisonment it will soon be made evident. I must first, however, write out a very singular petition which I find on record addressed by Thos. Williams to Gov. Fletcher. Its representations of Gabriel Leggett are very unlovely, but we may remember that they were made by an angry adversary, and were no doubt intended to counteract influences in operation against himself, and arrest action the culmination of which will appear in the appeal following this.

"To his excellency Benjamin ffletcher Capt Genl and Govr of the Province of New York, &c. The humbell pitt^{n} of Capt. Thos. Williams of the Town of Westchester &c. To the Excellency Showeth that Go^{r} Pett$^{r's}$ wife be lately by God's Providence taken from him by which means he is left in a sad condition, and his trouble further ogmented by one Gabriel Legatt that liveth by him who dayle abuseth y^{r} Pett^{r} by his coming to his house in a violent manner cursing, and swearing, and with other exorable threatening to hold him out of his house he is now quietly possessed of both in right of his late wife deceased relict of J. R. deceased and the State by will and due administration thereof settled. Now soe itt be may itt Please yr Excellence that said G^{l} Legat having married one of the daughters of sd Richardson may have a right in due court of law to some of the land, &c. butt that not contenting the said Gabriel Legatt he being a person of notories ill behaved & wicked maletious nature so that yr Pett^{r} with his family(?) is in dayley feare of his being violently assaulted and abused by said Legatt as he daily threatens &c., and att present the Judge & judges is cautious of acorting anything &c. (incoherent here) yr pett^{r} humbly craves yr power and order for the securing his person and estate yt noe violence be offered him as being in a weak condition. If any pretence agst Itt may be derised by due course of law, and for which he shall pray

THOMAS WILLIAMS."

This remarkable paper is inscribed "Oct. 31, 1695, The within petition is referred to the Judge & Justices of the County of Westchester p. order DAVID JAMISON, JR."

Note:—Thos. Williams, with others, was condemned at a court of Oyer and Terminer, for treasonable and felonious crimes in establishing a recruiting office under Leisler, against which, as we have seen, Gabriel Leggett protested, and for which he was arrested, etc. His petition to Gov. Fletcher after 17 months imprisonment is contained in Doc. Hist., Vol. II, p. 413. I do find the petition of Thos. Statham, which is as follows: "To his Excellency, &c., &c. The humble petition of Thos. Statham of the Co. of Westchester. Showeth unto your Excellency that in the time of the late disorder by the importunity of Richd Pouton of West^{r} and others, your petitioner did take a commission under Jacob Leisler as Sheriff of sd county, not knowing otherwise but that the said Jacob Leisler had received letters patent from their Majesties, King William & Queen Mary, authorizing the saud Jacob to do the same as by those which were conversant with him did report for undoubted truths. Whereupon the 24th day of Feb. in the 2d year of their Majs' reign, one Gabriel Legatt of sd County did abuse one Thomas Williams pretended councellor to the sd Jacob Leisler in a very gross manner whereby the sd Richd Pouton one of the Justices then made by the sd Leisler in sd county of Westchester took upon himself (upon the complaint of the sd Thomas Williams) to issue out a warrant of commitment directed to your poor petitioner, and commanding him as he would answer the country at his perill to Take the said Gabriel Legat into safe custody, which was done by yr Excellency's poor Petitioner, not knowing better. And the said Gabriel was under confinement about tenn hours, and then let out by order of the Justices. Whereupon a court of Sessions held at Westchester in March the next following the sd Gabriel Legatt appeared and did acknowledge his fault, and all was past by and forgiven. Yet nevertheless the said Gabriel Legatt in May after the arrival of Coll. Sloughter commenced an action against y^{r} poor Petitioner for a Assault and false imprisonment done to him about the occasion aforesaid to the value of Tuo hundred pounds, which was executed by Benjamin Collier high Sheriff whereby he was in undoubted fear of being utterly undone, and being a prisoner, and having no friend to councell withall, did sign to an obligation to pay him twenty five pounds which was the demand of the sd Gabriel. Afterwards the sd Richard Phanton by his refractory language against the Government was by a speciall Warrent carried down to New York and there put under confinement in ye Citty Hall and there did remain some time after your Excellency's arrival, and then was released, upon which the said Gabriel commenced an accor against the said R^{d}, by reason the sd Richard was bound with your pettitioner jointly and severally to sd Gabriel (wasn't he far seeing and sharp, if not benevolent?) for the payment of the afores^{d} sum of twenty five pounds. Whereupon the sd Gabriel obtained judgment against sd Richard for fifty pounds. By default at the Supreme Court held at New York on October last past and execution thereupon the sd Richards estate. Thereupon the sd Richard commenced an account against your poor petitioner and obtained a judgment against him for forty pounds and cost at a court of common pleas held at Westchester on the 8th and 9th days of Dec. and still doth remain in Sheriff's custody and do expect daylie execution to be issued out against him. Therefore without remedy by order of the common law to the utter undoing of you^{r} poor petitioner, his wife and children, unless your Excel's gracious favour be to him shewed in this behalf to consider p^{e}mises, and accordingly to grant your pet^{r} such relief herein as to your Excellency may seem most agreeable to justice and equity. And your Petitioner as in duty he is bound will ever pray."

(Endorsed) "7th of April, 1693, referred to Col. Heathcote."

GENEALOGICAL NOTES RELATING TO WARNAER WESSELS AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

By Drs. J. G. B. Bulloch and Arthur Adams.

Besides the Warnaer Wessels with whom this paper chiefly deals, there was another person bearing the same name who settled at an early date at New Amsterdam. It is possible that all of the name were related; but if so there is now no evidence at hand to establish the connection. Not to mention the various families, such as that of Major Dirk Wessels Ten Broeck, whose descendants bear the name Ten Broeck, and whose history is well known, it may be well before beginning our account of Warnaer Wessels, the Exciseman, and his descendants, to notice briefly other persons in New Amsterdam bearing the name of Wessels.

In vol. 6, p. 277, of the "Records of New Amsterdam" (Minutes of the Court of Burgomasters and Schepens), under the date of Jan. 17, 1670–71, we find the following entry: "Samuel Edsal in right Jenneken his Wife, Warnaer Wessels Junior, Gelyn Verplanck in the right Hendrickie his Wife, and the afore-mentioned on the behalf of Harmen Wessels now residing in Holland, all brothers and sisters of Harmen Wessels, lately deceased P^{lts} contra Gerrit Huygen and Geertie Rutgers late widdow of the aforementioned Harmen Wessels, defts. The court having viewed and examined the Testament of s^{d} Harmen Wessels and Geertie Rutgers, and heard the debates between both parties, do decree and order that the Def^{ts} according To the Tennour of the s^{d} Will shall pay to the p^{lts} f. 505 Hollands Money & to deliver to the p^{lts} a Coppy of ye Inventory produced in Court, as also a Coppy of the debt booke mentioned in the s^{d} Inventory, and to pay the Charges of the Court Equally betwixt them."

The will of Harmen Wessels, unfortunately, is not found, and we can only conjecture the relationship of the Harmen spoken of as residing in Holland to the deceased Harmen Wessels, Warnaer Wessels, Jr., etc. Since there was a Harmen Wessels apparently besides Dr. Harmanus Wessels in New Amsterdam as early as 1662 (Records of New Amsterdam, vol. 4, p. 168), it seems not improbable that the Harmen residing in Holland in 1670 was the father of the Harmen Wessels, deceased, Warnaer Wessels, Jr., etc., and that he had returned to Holland. The place of origin of this Wessels family is indicated by the record of marriage of Samuel Edsall to Jannetje Wessels in the record of the Reformed Dutch Church of New York (Marriages, p. 19): "May 29, 1655, Samuel Idsall Van Ridding in Baruÿcshier (Berkshire) in Oudt Engelandt (Old England), en Jannetje Wessels Van Aernhem in Gelderlandt." In the record of the marriage, June 1, 1668, of Galeyn Ver Plancken, young man, of New York, Hendrickje Wessels, is spoken of as a young woman from Aernhem in Gelderlandt also. April 10, 1667, Warnaert Wessels, young man from Arnhem, and Debora Pieters of New York were married. This is doubtless the Warnaer Wessels, Junior, spoken of in the document referred to above. His will is dated Dec. 12, 1701, and was proved Nov. 19, 1702. He mentions his wife Elizabeth and speaks of his son Peter and his daughter Antie as children of his deceased wife Deborah. He had a daughter Janicke by his second wife. He was a hat maker (N. Y. Hist. Soc. Collections, Abstracts of Wills, vol. i, p. 349). Similarity of names creates the probability that this family was related to our Warnaer Wessels, but there is no proof of this relationship. Warnaer Wessels, the hat maker, was sometimes called Junior, as in the document cited, to distinguish him from the older man.

There were other persons bearing the name of Wessels apparently not related to either Warnaer Wessels, the Exciseman, or to the family just considered.

For instance, an examination of the index of the "Records of New Amsterdam" reveals that there was a David Wessels whose name occurs frequently. He was from East Vrieslant and married Tÿtje Gommers, Nov. 20, 1658. But we must now turn to our subject—Warnaer Wessels, the Exciseman, and his family.

We find mention of Warnaer Wessels in New Amsterdam as early as 1653 when he is named as defendant in a suit brought by Hendrick Van Dyck (Records of New Amsterdam, vol. i, p. 141). There is no indication as to who his father was or that he ever came to America, but his mother came as is proved by this record: "Warnaer Wessels plft. vs. Hendrick Van der Walle, deft. By virtue of power from his mother, etc.," in which she is spoken of as Metje. She seems to have been in business independently, being mentioned as early as 1655, and her name occurs frequently in the records as late as 1671. Warnaer Wessels was a man of some prominence, his name occurring frequently in the Court Records of New Amsterdam, for the most part in connection with suits arising from his duties as exciseman. In 1656 he had the position of Farmer of the Excise, to which he was appointed Dec. 1, 1654. He was appointed Gauger and Assizer, Jan. 8, 1657 (Records of N. A., vol. 2, p. 262). Nov. 16, 1669, he was appointed constable (Records of N. A., vol. 6, p. 263). He was named as a small burgher in 1657.

An important document for our knowledge of the family of Warnaer Wessels is the will of Henrica Anthony. It is dated Jan. 16, 1701, and was proved Aug. 16, 1707. She mentions her three grandsons Henry, Allard, and Nicholas Anthony; her brother Warnaer Wessels, and his children: Henry Coerten, son of her sister, Christina Coerten, widow; her sister Maria Aldricks of New Castle, Penn.; her brother Harmanus Wessels, late of New York, Chirurgion; and her brother Dirk Wessels of New York. The executors mentioned are Isaac De Riemer, William Jackson, and Colonel Jacob Rutsen of Ulster County. In the codicil, dated Aug. 24, 1702, she makes Henricus Coerton, mariner, Andreas Teller, merchant, William Jackson, and Jacobus Kip, husband of the late widow Ver Plank, executors. When the will was proved Henry Coerten and William Jackson were the only surviving executors.

In this connection may be mentioned the fact that Allard Anthony in giving testimony in a law suit, speaks of Warnaer Wessels, the Exciseman, as his brother-in-law (Records of New Amsterdam, vol. 2, p. 421). Unfortunately the value of this evidence as to the relationship of Allard Anthony and Warnaer Wessels is vitated by the fact that in vol. 3, p. 1, Warnaer Wessels is spoken of as father-in-law of Allard Anthony. One of the two entries is in error, probably due to a mistake in transcription, and doubtless brother-in-law is the correct relationship.

We are obliged, therefore, to begin our account of the family with the name of the progenitor unknown. Probably he died in Holland and never came to America. It is not improbable that his name was Warnaer, and possibly he did come but died soon. It would seem that the home in Holland was in Utrecht, since both Henrica Wessels and Maria Wessels, sisters of Warnaer Wessels, are spoken of as from Utrecht in the records of their marriages. Christina, another sister, however, is spoken of as from Dordrecht in the record of her marriage.

Metje Wessels, then, probably a widow from Utrecht, shortly before 1653, emigrated to New Amsterdam bringing with her her sons Harmanus, Warnaer and Dirk, all seemingly already married, and her daughters Henrica, Christina, and Maria. Children:

2 i. Warnaer,[2] m. Anna Elizabeth Masschop.
3 ii. Harmanus, m. (1) Agatha Van Zalen; m. (2) Dec. 24, 1652, Magdaleentje Duurkoop, young woman of Amsterdam.
4 iii. Dirk, m. Rachel (Vermilye), widow of John Terbosch.
5 iv. Henrica, m. Allard Anthony, April 12, 1656.
6 v. Christina, m. (1) Barent Cours, May 16, 1675.
7 vi. Maria, m. Peter Alricks, Feb. 9, 1664.

2. Warnaer[2] Wessels (Metje[1]), was the Exciseman, and his public activities having already been discussed, need no repetition. Therefore we shall speak here only of his family. The baptisms of his children are recorded in the Register of the Dutch Reformed Church of New York, and there the name of his wife is given as Anna Elizabeth Maskop or Massop. For example, April 8, 1657, was baptised Gerardus, son of Warnaer Wessels and Anna Elizabeth Maskop. The sponsors are Allard Anthony and Metje Boonen. Probably Warnaer Wessels was married before coming to New Amsterdam; certainly the name of Mascop does not appear elsewhere in New York records.

The date of the death of Warnaer Wessels is not known, but he must have died before Aug., 1675, for on Aug. 8, 1675, were married Francois Rombouts, the widower of Altje Wessels, and Anna Elizabeth Maschop, the widow of Warnaer Wessels, both of New York (Reformed Dutch Church Records, Marriages, p. 40). The relationship of Altje Wessels to others of the same name is not known. She came from Tolhuys near Schenchenschaus, and they were married, May 31, 1665. Anna Elizabeth Maskop died before Sept., 1683, for on Sept. 8, 1683, Francois Rombouts married Helena Teller. He was very prominent in New Amsterdam, holding many public offices, and was a man of wealth and social position. Children:

8 i. Gerardus,[3] bap. April 8, 1657.
9 ii. Gertruyd, bap. March 31, 1659; m. —— Munster.
10 iii. Maria, bap. Oct. 24, 1660; m. Richard Ashfield.
11 iv. Christina, bap. March 5, 1662; m. Jacob Teller.
12 v. Aeltie, m. Isaac De Riemer.

3. HARMANUS[2] WESSELS (Metje[1]), married (1) Agatha Van Zalen, as we learn from the record of his second marriage: "Jan. 31, 1683, Mr. Hermanus Wessels, Wed[r]. (widower) Van Agatha Van Zalen en (and) Magdaleentje Duurkoop, j. d. (young woman) Van Amsterdam" (Reformed Dutch Church Records, Marriages, p. 52). He is spoken of by his sister, Henrica Anthony, in her will as a Chirurgeon, and in the records various references to him in that capacity are found; for example in vol. 2 of wills (New York Historical Society Collections, pp. 421, 434, 436, 463). The date of his death is not known, but references to him as late as 1683 appear. Children:

By first wife:

13 i. Anna,[3] m. William Jackson, Jan. 24, 1694.

By second wife:

ii. Maryken, bap. June 3, 1687.

4. DIRK[2] WESSELS (Metje[1]), is mentioned in his sister Henrica Anthony's will as of New York. April 13, 1679, we find recorded the marriage of Dirk Wesselzen, young man from Tolhuys, at Aernhem, and Rachel Van Melje, widow Jan Van Bos. If as seems probable, this Dirk Wessels is ours, this record is interesting as confirming the hypothesis of relationship between the two families of the name, for it will be remembered that the family referred to in the legal document cited in vol. 6, p. 277, of the "Records of New Amsterdam," came from Aernhem. Rachel Vermilye was the daughter of Isaac Vermilye, one of the most prominent of the founders of Harlem. For some account of him see Riker's History of Harlem. Nothing further is known of Dirk Wessels.

5. HENRICA[2] WESSELS (Metje[1]), married Allard Anthony from Amsterdam, April 12, 1656. She is spoken of as a young woman from Utrecht. He was a son of Fransiscus Anthony, and was very prominent in the public life of the time. He was appointed Burgomaster, Dec. 8, 1654, and also in 1655, and in 1663; he was Treasurer in 1656; Orphan Master in 1658, et seq.; he was chosen as "Officer of the City," Nov. 22, 1664; he was appointed Sheriff in 1665, and seems to have served as late as 1672. The will of Allard Anthony is dated Dec. 12, 1685. He leaves his whole estate to his wife, cutting off his only son Nicholas with the proverbial shilling because he had displeased him in his marriage. He speaks of his father Fransiscus Anthony of Holland. His house was on the west side of Broadway, a little south of Oyster Pasty Lane. The will of Henrica Anthony has already been spoken of, since it was of first importance for our understanding of the origin of the Wessels family. The son Nicholas was deceased, and her whole estate was left to her grandchildren, Henry, Allard, and Nicholas Anthony. Child:

14 i. Nicholas,[3] bap. Jan. 28, 1657; m. Engeltje Schoonmaker.

6. Christina[2] Wessels (Metje[1]), married Barent Cours, Courten, or Coursen, May 16, 1675. He was a widower whose first wife was Annetje Jans. In the record of the marriage of Barent Cours to Annetje Jans, Dec. 12, 1664, he is spoken of as from Rhenen in Munster; Annetje Jans was the widow of Andries Spiering. In the marriage record, Christina Wessels is spoken of as a young woman from Dordrecht. The will of Barent Coersen is dated Sept. 25, 1688, and was proved Jan. 8, 1688/9. He mentions his wife Christina Wessels, his son Henricus, and his daughter Anna. The wife is made executrix. Barent Courten had two children by his first wife: Annetje, bap. Oct. 20, 1667, and Hendrick, bap. May 1, 1670. Evidently this Hendrick died young, for the one child by the second wife was given the same name. Child:

15 i. Hendrick,[3] bap. Dec. 22, 1675. The witnesses are Peter Alricks and Henrica Wessels.

7. Maria[2] Wessels (Metje[1]), married Peter Alricks, Feb. 9, 1664. For some account of the descendants of Peter Alricks, see N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. xliv, p. 226 (July, 1913). It should be noted here that he married, not the daughter, as there stated in error, but the sister of Warnaer Wessels, the Exciseman. A few additional facts gleaned since the compiling of the Alricks article are here included. Children:

i. Peter Sigfridus,[3] bap. Oct. 3, 1666; m. Maria Oblinus, b. 1668, dau. of Joost Oblinus and his wife Maria Sammis of Harlem (m. 1661), and widow of Thomas Tourneur, whom she m. April 5, 1692 (Riker's History of Harlem).

ii. Harmanus.

iii. Jacobus, bap. Sept. 10, 1671.

16 iv. Wessels, m. probably Elizabeth, dau. of John Purdy, of all Hallows Parish, Ann Arundel County, Maryland, who mentions his daughter Elizabeth Alridge in his will, dated Oct. 21, 1701 (Maryland Wills, vol. 3, p. 233).

8. Gerardus[2] Wessels (Warnaer,[2] Metje[1]), was baptised April 8, 1657. Through the influence, doubtless, of his uncle Peter Alricks, Gerardus Wessels went to Kent County, Delaware, where he was Justice of the Peace as early as Oct. 22, 1684 (Pa. Arch., 2nd Series, ix, p. 655). He later removed to Cecil County, Maryland. His will is dated Jan. 11, 1706/7, and was proved July 17, 1708. He calls himself "Chirurgion," and we may well believe that he had studied medicine with his uncle Dr. Harmanus Wessels of New York. His wife is not mentioned in the will, and probably she was deceased. He gives his son James the homestead plantation and makes him residuary legatee; to his daughters Elizabeth and Ann he gives personal estate and a warrant for 500 acres of land; to Arano Goodwin, he leaves a plantation of 100 acres called "Cockold's Hope" during his life, providing that it should go to Jacob Goodwin after his decease. The executors are William and Jackes Harris; and Sigfredus Alricks is named among the witnesses (Maryland Wills, vol. 3, p. 117). Nothing further learned. Children:

i. James.[4]
ii. Elizabeth.
iii. Ann.
iv. Possibly one who married Arano Goodwin.

9. GERTRUYD[3] WESSELS (Warnaer,[2] Metje[1]), was baptized March 31, 1695. We learn from the will of her sister Christina (No. 11), that she married a man named Munster and was a widow (1698).

10. MARIA[3] WESSELS (Warnaer,[2] Metje[1]), was baptised Oct. 24, 1660. She married Richard Ashfield, Aug. 5, 1687. He was a merchant of New York. He came to America soon after the Duke of York had confirmed the sale of East Jersey to the proprietors. He was a nephew of Thomas Hart of Enfield, Middlesex (England), merchant, one of the twenty-four East Jersey proprietors. Thomas Hart dying after 1700, his right in East Jersey descended to his sister and heir, Patience Ashfield, from whom it descended to her grandson and heir, Richard[3] Ashfield. He had, therefore, one whole propriety in East Jersey (N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. 6, p. 21; N. J. Archives, x, p. 131). Probably he moved to East Jersey and died there, for April 5, 1714, Richard Ashfield, about 18 years old, petitioned for the appointment of Capt. Isaac de Riemer of New York as his guardian (N. J. Archives, xxiii, 17). Children:

i. Anna Elizabeth,[4] bap. May 23, 1688.
ii. Anna Elizabeth, bap. Dec. 25, 1691.
iii. Maria, bap. May 27, 1694.
17 iv. Richard, bap. Dec. 15, 1695.
v. Patience, bap. Sept. 4, 1698.
vi. Maria, bap. Dec. 10, 1701.

11. CHRISTINA[3] WESSELS (Warnaer,[2] Metje[1]), was baptised March 5, 1662. She married Oct. 24, 1683, Jacob Teller of Albany, who was born in 1658. He was the son of William Teller, the first of the family, who was born about 1620, and who came over in 1639. He tells us in a deposition, dated July 6, 1698, that he was sent to Fort Orange by Kieft, served there as corporal, and was made "Wachtmeester" of the Fort; that he continued his residence at Albany from 1639 to 1692. He was a merchant, and with his sons removed in 1692 to New York, where he died in 1701. His first wife, who was the mother of Jacob, was Margaret Donchesen, and his second, married in 1664, was Maria Varleth, widow of Paulus Schrich.

Jacob Teller lived in Whitehall Street, New York, in 1686. He was master of the sloop Hopewell, plying between New York and Esopus. His will is dated Aug. 17, 1696, and was proved April 27, 1697. In it he mentions his wife Christina and a daughter Anna Margaret. He mentions his brothers-in-law—by error in the abstract in the N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll., vol. i, p. 276, Ashfield is called father-in-law—Richard Ashfield, and Isaac de Riemer. Christina Teller, widow of Jacob, mariner, made her will, Dec. 17, 1698. She leaves her estate to her daughter Anna Margaret; provides that in the event of the death of the daughter, it is to go to her brother Gerardus Wessels, her sisters Gertruyd Wessels, widow of —— Munster, Maria Wessels, wife of Richard Ashfield, and Aeltie Wessels, wife of Isaac de Riemer; and directs that her daughter should be instructed in such arts, sciences, or tongues convenient for her, as can be learned in the province. Children:

i. William,[4] bap. Dec. 22, 1689, probably d. young.
18 ii. Margaret, bap. Aug. 1, 1694; m. Dirk Egbertze, Sept. 25, 1709.

12. Aeltie[3] Wessels (Warnaer,[2] Metje[1]), is the only child of Warnaer Wessels whose baptism is not found in the Dutch Reformed Church Records. She married Isaac de Riemer, Jan. 10, 1689. He was the son of Pieter de Riemer, and was baptised Jan. 10, 1666. Peter de Riemer was the son of Isaac de Riemer, the founder of the family, and his wife Lysbet Grevenraet, married doubtless in Holland, and was born in 1643. The third husband of Lysbet Grevenraet was Dominie Samuel Drisius, assistant pastor of the Dutch Church. She died Sept. 13, 1686. Pieter De Riemer, born 1643, was a glazier. He married Jan. 3, 1665, Susanna de Foreest, daughter of Isaac and his wife Sarah du Trieux, who were married June 9, 1641. Pieter de Riemer's will was proved Oct. 5, 1702. He mentions his wife Susanna and his son Isaac. Isaac de Riemer was a prominent merchant and citizen of New York. Besides holding other minor offices, he served as lieutenant and captain in the militia; as treasurer of the city; as mayor in 1700; and as a member of the Colonial Assembly from 1700 to 1702. Children:

i. Petrus,[4] bap. Jan. 22, 1690.
ii. Isaac, bap. Sept. 6, 1691.
iii. Anna Elizabeth, bap. Sept. 10, 1693.
iv. Susanna, bap. July 21, 1695.

For further information in regard to the descendants of Isaac de Riemer and Aeltie Wessels, the reader is referred to the De Riemer Genealogy, and to the article on the family in the N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. 36, p. 5, ff.

13. Anna[3] Wessels (Harmanus,[2] Metje[1]), married William Jackson, Jan. 24, 1694. He was a zealous Presbyterian and came from Edinburgh, with George Scot, the Laird of Pitlochie, to East Jersey in 1685. He lived on Pearl Street in New York, and at his house the first Presbyterian service in New York was held in Jan., 1707. Child:

i. Patrick,[4] bap. March 10, 1701; m. Anna Van der Spiegal, June 10, 1727. Their son was the Rev. William Jackson, b. 1732, who m. Anna, the dau. of the Rev. Theodorus Jacobus Frelinghuysen, a prominent Reformed Dutch minister. (For an account of this family see the excellent article by Mr. Hopper Striker Mott in vol. 37, p. 81, of the N. Gen. & Biog. Record.)

14. NICHOLAS[3] ANTHONY (Henrica[2] Wessels, Metje[1]), was baptized Jan. 28, 1657. He married Engeltje Schoonmaker, daughter of Hendrick Jochemse and Elsie Janse. He lived in Ulster County, and served as Clerk (1689) and Sheriff of the County. He died intestate, and letters of administration were granted to his wife Engeltje Anthony, April 15, 1696. Children:

15. NICHOLAS[3] COURTEN (Christina[2] Wessels, Metje[1]), was baptised Dec. 22, 1675. He married May 23, 1701, Elizabeth de Riemer from Meuse. She was the daughter of Hubert de Riemer and Catharine (Smith?) and granddaughter of Isaac de Riemer and Lysbet Grevenraet. Hubert de Riemer was a naval surgeon. Elizabeth is mentioned in the will of her grandmother Lysbet (N. Y. Wills, vol. 1, p. 150). A sister of Hubert de Riemer, named Marghareeta, married as her second husband, Oct. 20, 1686, Dominie Henricus Selyns, Pastor of the Reformed Dutch Church. The will of Henry Coerten of New York is dated Nov. 4, 1741, and was proved July 7, 1747. He speaks of a house in Hunters Dock; of his wife Elizabeth, of his son Barent, his daughter Margaret, wife of William Kingsland, and of his daughters Christina and Anne. He speaks of his friends Richard Ashfield and Nicholas Bayard, who are to be consulted in the execution of the will by the wife (N. Y. Wills, vol. iv, p. 146). Children:

He became one of the chief Proprietors of East Jersey through his grandmother, who was Patience, sister and heir of Thomas Hart, one of the original twenty-four proprietors. In Sept., 1725, Richard Ashfield was appointed Receiver General of the Board of Proprietors of East Jersey; was in business as a merchant in New York in Aug., 1732, was appointed Sheriff of the city by Rip Van Dam, Sept. 29, 1736, and in 1740 was recommended by Governor Morris for appointment to the New Jersey Council. He married Isabella, daughter of Governor Lewis Morris of New Jersey, whose wife was Isabella Graham. Isabella Graham was a daughter of Colonel James Graham, Attorney General of East Jersey; they were married Nov. 3, 1691. The will of Richard Ashfield of New York, merchant, is dated Aug. 19, 1732, and was proved July 27, 1742. He mentions his children, Lewis Morris, Richard Morris, Mary, and Isabella Ashfield. A son Vincent Pearce Ashfield was born after the making of the will and is not mentioned. He speaks of land in Essex County, in Perth Amboy, N. J., and in New York. The residuary estate is left to his brother-in-law, Robert Hunter Morris, and Henry Coerten, mariner, in trust for the wife and children. Isabella was named executrix, but she predeceased him, and Robert Hunter Morris was made executor. Children:

22. MARGARETA[4] COURTEN (Hendrick,[3] Christina[2] Wessels, Metje[1]), was baptized Dec. 13, 1704. She married Dec. 13, 1732, William Kingsland. It would seem that he was a son of Colonel Edmond Kingsland of New Barbadoes in Bergen County, N. J. Francis Willoughby of New York leaves William Kingsland, son of Col. Edmond Kingsland, £50 by his will, dated Nov. 10, 1732, on condition that he name his first son Francis. Some account of the Kingsland family is to be found in the History of Hudson County, N. J., p. 545–9.

23. ANN[4] ALRICKS (Wessels,[3] Maria[2] Wessels, Metje[1]), married William Glen, June 16, 1731, in Christ Church, Philadelphia. William Glen settled in Charleston, S. C., and from the records of that Parish, we learn the names of the children. Children:

iv. Charlotte, m. John McCall, Jr., and had Charlotte Pegg McCall, who d. s. p.

24. LEWIS MORRIS[5] ASHFIELD (Richard,[4] Maria[3] Wessels, Warnaer[2] Metje[1]), married Elizabeth Redford, Feb. 4, 1748. The Redford family was of Amboy and Freehold in New Jersey. He was admitted to the New Jersey bar, May, 1746, and eighteen years later was licensed as Sergeant. Through the influence of his uncle, Robert Hunter Morris, Lewis Morris Ashfield was recommended, March 26, 1751, by the Lords of Trade for appointment to the Council of New Jersey, which gave rise to a long and acrimonious dispute with Governor Belcher. Mr. Ashfield became involved in a street encounter, for which he was indicted in Aug., 1751, but was acquitted the following March. Governor Belcher managed to keep him from taking his seat in the Council until 1753; but he served for many years in the office. The will of Lewis Morris Ashfield is dated Aug. 5, 1769, and was proved Aug. 22, 1770; his brother Vincent Pearce Ashfield was made executor. For data in regard to his family, the reader is referred to a document published in the N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. 29, p. 92. Here only the children and the marriages will be noted. Children:

i. Redford,[6] resided in Barbadoes; d. in Demarara about 1786 or 1787 without issue, leaving his property to his sister Euphemia Brinkerhoff.
ii. Mary, m. Col. Elisha Lawrence (son of John, near Allentown, N. J.); lived in Nova Scotia and d. about the end of the Revolution without issue. (See Sabine's Loyalists in the American Revolution, vol. 2, p. 3.)

iii. Euphemia, b. about 1753; m. George D. Brinkerhoff and lived at Parcipany in Morris Co., N. J. She had daughters Elizabeth and Euphemia.

iv. Elizabeth, m. William Wilcocks, Esq., of New York. She left children: Elizabeth, b. Sept. 21, 1784, who m. Henry Watkins; Lewis; Maria, who m. John French Ellis of New York; and William, Jr., b. May 25, 1786.

v. Lydia, d. young and s. p.

vi. Catharine, m. April 20, 1777, Thomas Shrieve (Trinity Church, N. Y.), a Church of England clergyman, who went to Nova Scotia. He d. at Lunenburg, N. S., Aug. 21, 1816. They left issue: Elizabeth, m. —— Gorrold or Gerrol of Natches in Mississippi, and had issue. The statement on p. 92, vol. 29, of the Record, that Catharine, dau. of Thomas Shrieve, m. the Rev. Isaac Wilkins, D. D., is evidently in error. He m. Isabella, sister of Gouverneur Morris, as appears from her mother's will (N. Y. Wills, vol. 13, p. 270). The Rev. Isaac Wilkins, D. D., was the father and grandfather respectively of the two Lewis Morris Wilkinses, Judges of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia and otherwise prominent (N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. 29, p. 176, and Sabine's American Loyalists).

25. Vincent Pearce[5] Ashfield (Richard,[4] Maria[3] Wessels, Warnaer,[2] Metje[1]), is not mentioned in the will of his father; he must therefore have been born sometime between 1732, the date of the will, and the death of the father in 1742. He is made the executor of his brother Lewis Morris Ashfield, who speaks of him as his brother. He married Sept, 15, 1772, Sarah, the daughter of Colonel Lewis Morris, of Morrisania, Judge of Admiralty, and a sister of Lewis Morris, the signer of the Declaration of Independence, and of Gouverneur Morris, Minister to France, at the time of the French Revolution. Judge Lewis Morris was the son of Lewis Morris (1672–1746), Governor of New Jersey, and a grandson of Richard Morris, the founder of the family of Morrisania. Judge Lewis Morris was born in New Jersey, Sept. 23, 1698, and died at Morrisania, July 3, 1762. His second wife, the mother of Sarah Ashfield, was Sarah, daughter of Isaac Gouverneur, whom he married Nov. 3, 1746. She died Jan. 14, 1786. The daughter Sarah was born Nov. 23, 1749; she was christened by Thomas Standard, Dec. 13, 1749. The godmothers were Mrs. Low and the wife of Lewis Morris, the signer, and he was the godfather (N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, vol. 7, p. 17). Sarah (Gouverneur) Morris, widow of Judge Lewis Morris, made a will dated June 9, 1783, which was proved Jan. 26, 1786. She mentions her son Gouverneur, her daughters Euphemia Ogden and Isabella Wilkins. Apparently her daughter Sarah, wife of Vincent Pearce Ashfield, was deceased; for though she is not mentioned as living, he and her children are. She mentions her grandchildren Lewis and Catharine Ashfield, Sarah and Joanna Wilkins. She mentions also her nieces Mary Ashfield and Joanna Moore, wife of Mr. Nathaniel Moore. The executors are her son Gouverneur and her sons-in-law Isaac Wilkins and Samuel Ogden. Children:

John Glen was Chief Justice of Georgia (1776–1778), Judge of the United States District Court, Mayor of Savannah, and held other important offices. Children:

MORE NOTES ON THE ANCESTRY OF EARLY VERMONT-NEW YORK SETTLERS.

BY THERESA HALL BRISTOL,
Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

Two of the sons of Benjamin[2] and Dinah (Swift) Perry of Sandwich and Stoughton, Mass., settled on the disputed territory, viz.: Josiah,[3] b. Oct. 18, 1709, and Eliakim,[3] b. 1716.

Eliakim[3] Perry, married (1) Dec. 18, 1740, Mary Joy of Rehoboth, Mass., and settled in Norwich. Ct. They had children at Norwich: David,[4] b. Aug. 8, 1741; Sylvanus, b. Aug. 31, 1743; Abigail, b. June 3, 1745; Elizabeth, b. May 3, 1747. He married (2) Hephzibah Ladd of Norwich, Dec. 27, 1749, and had: Seth, June 8, 1750; Eliakim, Feb. 22, 1752; Ezekiel, Oct. 26, 1753; Azor, Dec. 12, 1755; Ozias, June 20, 1757; Philippy, April 24, 1759; Sarah, Sept. 12, 1762. The sons all served in the Revolution: Lieut. David and Lieut. Sylvanus from Connecticut (these "settled in southern Vermont after the Rev."), and the others enlisted at Bennington. Ezekiel and Azor settled at Middletown, Vt., and when the U. S. Census was taken in 1790, Eliakim, Sr., and Eliakim, Jr., were living at Tinmouth, Vt.

Josiah[3] Perry, married Mary Kingsley, dau. of Samuel, Jr., of Easton, Mass., June 16, 1740. Their children were:

1 Anna,[4] b. at Stoughton, Mass., July 1, 1741.
2 Lieut. Philip, b. 1745; m. Lydia House.
3 Hannah, b. 1747; m. Samuel House at Coventry, Ct.
4 Ensign Josiah, b. 1751.
5 Lieut. Rufus, b. 1753; d. June 24, 1777, at Shaftsbury.
6 Winslow, who served in the Rev. as drummer, 1777–83.

These names (the first five) and dates have been gathered from Canton-Stoughton Records, Coventry, Ct., Records, and Shaftsbury Cemetery Inscriptions, and are verified by the will of Josiah Perry, Sr., a certified copy of which is in the possession of Mrs. Thomas J. Vivian.

"In the name of God, Amen.

I, Josiah Perry of Shaftsbury in the County of Bennington and State of Vermont, being weak in body but of a sound memory blessed be God, do this 27th day of April in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty-four, make and publish this my last will and testament. In manner following, (that is to say,) first I give to my wife Mary Perry one third part of the farm or land whereon I now live and one half of the house and one third part of my Live Stock, during her natural life, and also the one third part of my household goods. I give and bequeath to my son Josiah Perry, the farm whereon I now live which I bought of James Brakinridged, being part of Gov. Wintworth's lot and also two thirds of my household goods and all I gave to my wife Mary Perry for her to improve during her natural life, I also give to my son Josiah Perry, after her decease, together with two thirds of my live stock and one half of my house. I also give and bequeath to my son Winslow Perry all that farm or land where he now lives which I formerly gave to my son, Philip Perry, deceased, together with sixteen acres adjoining which I bought of Benony Potmeture. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and date above written.

JOSIAH PERRY. [L. S.]

Filed for Probate, Dec. 28, 1784. Value of estate, £820-7-4.

Josiah[3] Perry and wife Mary signed the first church covenant at Easton, Mass., 1747; lived at Norwich, Ct., in 1755 when he purchased land in Lebanon, Ct. From that time until 1775 are recorded in Lebanon numerous land transactions in which his name appears. In 1775, however, it is as "Josiah Perry of Shaftsbury, County of Albany, State of New York," that he disposes of his last piece of land in Lebanon.

Lieut. Philip[4] Perry, b. 1745, married Lydia, daughter of Samuel and Mary House of Coventry, Ct. She was born at Coventry, May 6, 1750, and was a sister to Capt. Samuel House, Jr., who married Hannah Perry, her husband's sister. Lieut. Philip Perry was active in the land controversy between the Vermont settlers and those who had come from New York; witness the following from Vermont Historical Magazine, vol. i, p. 126:

"Arlington, Nov. 26, A. D. 1773.

These may certify that Jacob Marsh hath been examined, had a fair trial. So that our mob shall not meddle further with him as long as behaves. Sartified by us, his Judges to wit.

Teste Samuel Tubs
Ct. Seth Warner, Nathaniel Spencer
Philip Perry."

For Jacob Marsh's own version of the affair see New York Documentary History, vol. 4, p. 859.

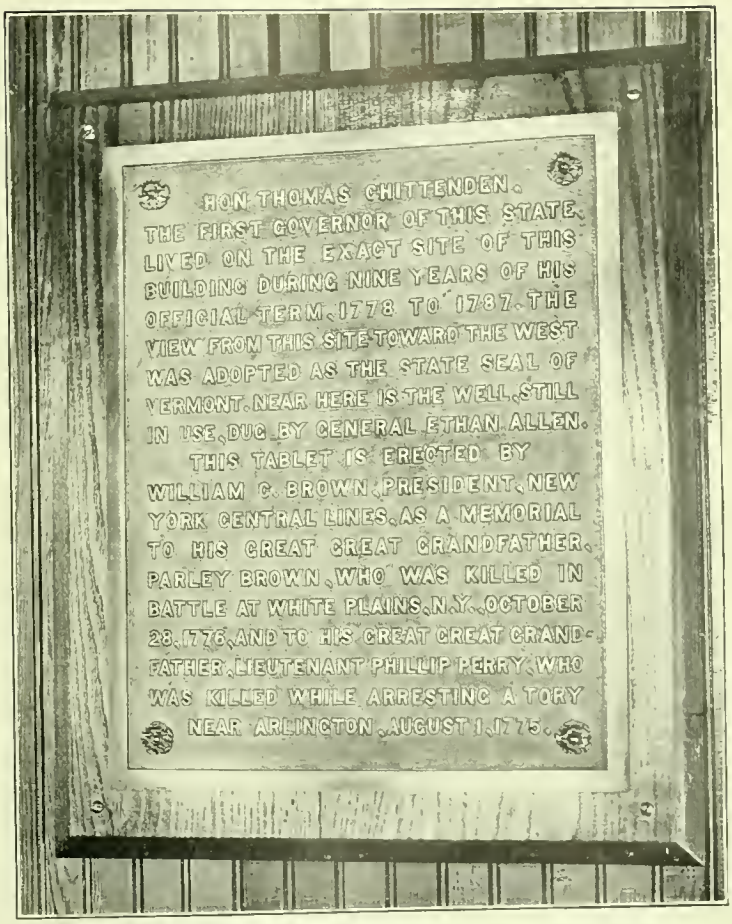
According to family tradition in which the facts are corroborated by various descendants, Lieut. Philip Perry was shot down in Shaftsbury, probably near the Arlington line, while trying to arrest Hazard Wilcox, a Tory spy, in the early days of the Revolution, Aug. 1, 1775. This is reasonably proved by a statement in New York in the Revolution, Supplement, to the effect that the property of one Hazard Wilcox was confiscated before 1779. Shaftsbury was then in Albany Co., N. Y. Hazard Wilcox was afterward killed when again resisting arrest. The affair was rendered doubly sad because Lieut. Perry and Hazard Wilcox were friends and neighbors. Mr. W. C. Brown, a descendant, has placed a tablet in memory of Lieut. Philip Perry and Parley Brown, another Revolutionary ancestor, killed at the Battle of White Plains, in the station at Arlington, Vt. The children of Lieut. Philip and Lydia (House) Perry were:

1 Anna, b. at Lebanon, Ct., April 16, 1770; m. Nathaniel Brown, who was b. in Leicester, Mass., Nov. 5, 1767, and d. near White's Corners, in the town of Hamburg, Erie Co., N. Y., Oct. 1, 1854. Their son, Rev. Philip Perry Brown, one of eight children, b. at Bennington, Sept. 17, 1790, wrote his autobiography, of which a limited edition was published. Anna Perry Brown d. at Augusta, Oneida Co., N. Y., March 20, 1826.

2 Mary, m. Joseph Wadsworth, Sr., at Bennington, Vt., 1787.

3 Lydia, b. three months after her father's death, married Roger Reed, and lived in Watertown, N. Y.

Lydia (House) Perry, married second, Lieut. Robert Blair of Bennington (son of John Blair and Mercy (Hayward) of



TABLET ERECTED TO THE MEMORY OF PARLEY BROWN AND LIEUT. PHILIP PERRY

Weston, Mass.), b. at Weston, Aug. 18, 1744, died at Bennington, Oct. 18, 1794. His first wife, Mary, died at Bennington, 1783, aged 28. Robert and Mary Blair had children (as shown by sales to Joseph Wadsworth, of lands inherited from their father), Elias (with wife Hannah) Blair of Fletchertown, Vt.; Hannah Blair; Molly (Blair), wife of David Thomas of Cambridge, N. Y. Robert and Lydia (House) (Perry) Blair had one son only:

Philip Blair, who lived at Cambridge, Washington Co., N. Y. In 1823 he gave the land upon which the Methodist Church was built. Had a son Robert.

Lydia (House) Perry Blair married third, a Mr. Duell of Cambridge, N. Y., and died at Shaftsbury, Vt.

Hannah Perry, dau. of Josiah, Sr., married at Coventry, Ct., Dec. 28, 1769, Capt. Samuel House, son of Samuel and Mary House, born at Coventry, Sept. 13, 1745, served in the Revolution, and died at Shaftsbury, Vt., March 29, 1842. She died Aug. 15, 1834. Samuel and Hannah (Perry) House had children born at Coventry: "Samuel ye third," May 15, 1771, and James, Dec. 7, 1773.

Ensign Josiah, son of Josiah Perry, Sr., served in the Revolution as Sergeant in Capt. Bigelow Lawrence's Co.; Col. Herrick's regiment of militia while in the service of alarm, Oct., 1780; as Ensign, commanded a company which assisted the Sheriff of Windham Co. First U. S. Census, 1790, Josiah Perry had in family: 2 males over 16 (including self); 2 males under 16, and 10 females. He died at Shaftsbury, Aug., 1799, aged 48; his wife Hannah, June 29, 1794, in her 41st year.

Mary, dau. of Lieut. Philip Perry, married Joseph, Sr., son of Elisha and Elizabeth (Wells) Wadsworth. Elisha Wadsworth was born in Tolland Co., Ct., 1746, and was son of Samuel Wadsworth and Mary Granger, who were married at Coventry, Ct., Feb. 7, 1732–3. (See Wadsworth Gen., Coventry, Ct., Vital Records, and History, Keene, N. H.) He married Elizabeth, dau. of Joseph and Thankful (Shailer) Wells. Edmund, Thomas and Joseph Wells were among the original proprietors of land in what is now Cambridge, Washington Co., N. Y. They were sons of Capt. Thomas Wells from England, who first settled at Saybrook, Ct., but soon moved to Hebron, Ct. A list of Edmund's children can be obtained from Lewis's Conn. Genealogies; of Thomas's children from Tolland Co. Hist. Joseph and Elizabeth (Shaler) Wells had children, all born at Hebron: Elizabeth, 1751; Hannah, 1752; Margery, 1754; Timothy, 1756; Samaromis, 1759; Shaler, 1761; Henerals, 1763; Anne, 1765; Joseph, 1767; Azzan, 1771. Joseph Wells served in the Albany Co. Militia during the Revolution as Captain. Elisha Wadsworth was voted Pathmaster at the yearly district meeting at Cambridge, 1776, and served in the 16th Regt., Albany Co. Militia, during the Revolution. He died before 1790, and his wife married, second, Roderick King. Had sons:

1 Joseph, b. 1767.
2 Abel.
3 Samuel, b. Aug. 12, 1778; bap. in Schaghticoke Dutch Reformed Church; m. Patty, dau. of Joseph and Sarah (Story) Rudd, from Norwich, Ct. Joseph Rudd was in the Battle of Bennington, and his descendants have a letter he wrote six days after. Samuel and Patty (Rudd) Wadsworth had sons: Charles, Elisha, Joseph, and Melvin, who died recently aged 99, by whom much of this information was furnished. The Rudd family and Samuel Wadsworth lived at Bennington.

Hon. Joseph Wadsworth, born 1767; married 1787, Mary, dau. of Lieut. Philip and Lydia (House) Perry. In 1785 he traded his place at Pleasant Valley, with a Mr. Potter, for the inn at Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., N. Y. This inn is now one of the old landmarks of the county, and is still in the possession of one of his descendants. He was a man of large property interests and bought and sold land continually. In 1797 to 1803, he bought up from the heirs all the land in Bennington left by his wife's stepfather, Lieut. Robert Blair. He also bought his brother Samuel's interest in their father's home on Mt. Anthony. Joseph Wadsworth, Sr., was a member of the New York Assembly in 1828, representing Rensselaer Co. Children:

1 Joseph, b. 1789; m. Polly, dau. of Capt. Azariah and Eliza (Potter) Haskin. He served in the War of 1812.
2 Horace E., m. Lydia Crosby of Pittstown, N. Y.
3 Sophia, m. —— Bradish of Pittstown, N. Y.
4 Julia, unm.
5 Finnette, m. Judge Pliny Wright of Pownal, Vt.
6 Mary, m. Joseph Haskin of Pittstown, N. Y.
7 Betsy, m. Heman, son of Gen. David Robinson of Bennington, Vt.
8 Jane, m. —— Brannock.
9 Warren, m. Nancy Slade of Pittstown.
10 Lydia Ann, m. Enos Adams of Bennington, Vt.

Note: That Daniel, not Elkanah Haskin was ancestor to all of this family, born in Norwich, Ct., and that the Haskin Genealogy is plainly in error. (See Norwich Vital Records, vol. i.)

THACHER-THATCHER GENEALOGY.

By John R. Totten,
Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and New England Historic-Genealogical Society.

865 vi. Francis,[7] born January 14th, 1766; died ——.

866 vii. Joshua,[7] born August 7th, 1768; died May 28th, 1836, aged 67 years, 9 months, at Yarmouth, and was buried there in Woodside Cemetery; gravestone. He married ——, at ——, to Betsey B——, born March —, 1772; died June 17th, 1850, aged 78 years, 3 months, and was buried in Woodside Cemetery; gravestone.

Children: 3 (Bassett), sons and perhaps other children, all born at Yarmouth.

1. Ebenezer,[8] born December 9th, 1793; died September 4th, 1795, aged 20 months, 26 days, and was buried in Old Burying-ground, Yarmouth; gravestone.
2. Charles,[8] born August —, 1796; died July 6th, 1813, aged 16 years, 11 months; drowned, and was buried in Old Burying-ground, Yarmouth; gravestone.
3. Nathan,[8] born ——, 1813; died November 13th, 1829, in 16th year at Yarmouth, and was buried there in Old Burying-ground; gravestone.

Lieutenant Nathan Bassett married, second, to Desire (——) Crowell, widow of Prince Crowell, by whom he had no children.

Amos Otis, in his Barnstable Families, Vol. I, p. 517, says that Hannah[6] Hallett married, first, on October 9th, 1775, to Josiah Gorham, and second, to Thomas Allyn; but gives no further record beyond this bare statement of fact. Hon. George Thacher, in his MSS. Thacher Genealogy, states positively that Hannah[6] Hallett (daughter of Joseph and Abigail[5] (Thacher) Hallett, married Nathan Bassett; and Freeman, in his Cape Cod, p. 217, Vol. II, states that Nathan Bassett married Hannah Hallett; and again Otis' Barnstable Families, Vol. I, p. 50, states that Nathan Bassett married Hannah Hallett. So we see that there is some difference of statements as to whom Hannah[6] Hallett (Joseph[5]) married. The gravestone inscription of Hannah Bassett (wife of Lieutenant Nathan) reads as follows: "Hannah, wife of Lieutenant Nathan Bassett, died February 26th, 1790, in her 60th year," hence she was, according to her gravestone, born subsequent to February 26th, 1730. Hannah Hallett, as we have above recorded, was born October 23rd, 1729; so on February 26th, 1790, she would be 60 years, 4 months, and 3 days old and therefore the gravestone of the wife of Lieut. Nathan Bassett does not agree with the date of birth as given of Hannah[6] Hallett. Seth Hallett had a daughter, Hannah, born December 4th, 1731, who if she died on February 26th, 1790, would be in her 60th year provided the year 1790 meant 1790-1, it being February 26th. Hence the Hannah Hallett who married Nathan Bassett may have been the daughter of Seth Hallett and not the daughter of Joseph and Abigail[5] (Thacher) Hallett; and Hannah[6] Hallett (No. 314) may, as Amos Otis says, in Vol. I, p. 517, have married, first, on October 9th, 1755, to Josiah Gorham, and second, to Thomas Allyn.

With this explanation, I have made the record as above given in view of the positive statement of Hon. George Thacher in his MSS. Thacher Genealogy, which authority may, however, be in error.

(born at Barnstable, October 1st, 1706; died April 9th, 1738). Thomas Davis, her 1st husband, was a son of John Davis (born Barnstable, Sept. 2nd, 1681; died —— 29th, 1736, aged 58; married August 13th, 1705), and his wife Mehitable Dimmock (born ——; died May —, 1775, aged 89), of Barnstable, Mass. 324. DESIRE[6] THACHER (John,[5] Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, July 18th, 1745; died ——, at ——; she married at Barnstable, October 15th, 1775, to Benjamin Gorham, born Barnstable, February 23rd, 1747; died at Barnstable, ——, shortly after January —, 1811. He was a son of Col. David Gorham (born April 6th, 1712; died ——, 1789, aged 77; married August 2nd, 1733), and his first wife, Abigail Sturgis (born ——, 1712; died February 11th, 1775, aged 63), of Barnstable, Mass.

Children: 6 (Gorham), 5 sons and 1 daughter, some probably born at Barnstable, others in Gorham, Maine.

+878 ii. William,[7] born ——; baptized January 25th, 1778; died ——; married Charlotte Beals.

879 iii. Christopher,[7] born ——; died ——; young; not married. He stammered and was but one remove from an idiot; he died at sea.

880 iv. Mary (Polly),[7] born ——; died ——; she stammered and was but one remove from an idiot; Otis' Barnstable Families, Vol. I, p. 437, states that although not married she bore a son, David, in 1809.

881 v. David,[7] born ——; baptized April —, 1756; died ——, at ——; he resided in Maine.

882 vi. Shubael,[7] born ——; baptized July 11th, 1790; died ——, 1840; not married; he was but one remove from an idiot.

Benjamin Gorham (son of Col. David) was called "Turkey Foot" to distinguish him from four (4) other Benjamin Gorhams who were living in Barnstable at that time, each of whom had some nickname to distinguish him from the others. After his marriage his father built a house for him in Dimmock's Lane, which house in a few years was moved onto a lot on Gorham's farm. He removed to Gorham, Maine, and was there in 1789; but in January, 1791, he had returned to Barnstable and died there not long after. He is called upon the records a "spendthrift"; he had no business capacity and was a man of weak intellect, and his wife was an even weaker vessel, though a member of the church, an honest woman and a good neighbor. Their children are not recorded in the Barnstable records and some of them were probably born in Maine.

325. JETHRO[6] THACHER (John,[5] Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, January 16th, 1747; died at Lee, Mass., June 28th (or 29th), 1826, in his 80th year and was buried there; gravestone. He lived at Barnstable until previous to July 15th, 1804, on which date he was dismissed to the church at Lee, Mass., and took up his residence there. He married at Barnstable (or Wareham), Mass., July 9th, 1776, to Hannah[6] Thacher (his own first cousin (see No. 345), born Wareham, Mass., June 27th, 1755; died at Lee, Mass., of palsy and old age, July 14th (or 15th), 1833, aged 78, and was buried there; gravestone. She was a daughter of Rev. Roland[5] Thacher (No. 107) and his wife, Abigail Crocker, of Wareham, Mass.

884 ii. Jonathan,[7] born April 21st, 1780; died December 14th, 1807, at Lee, Mass., and was buried there; gravestone. I do not think that he was married. He was killed by the kick of a horse that he was attempting to drive home from Alford, Mass. A pillar by the roadside for a while marked the spot of his tragic end.

885 iii. Martha,[7] born June 23rd, 1783; died August 4th, 1806, at Barnstable, Mass., and was buried there in Goodspeed's Hill West Burying-ground; gravestone; not married. Gravestone inscription, as follows:—"In memory of Miss Martha Thacher, daughter of Mr. Jethro and Mrs. Hannah Thacher, of Lee, Mass., who died August 4th, 1806, in the 23rd year of her age."

"In youthful bloom death laid me down
Here to await the trumpet's sound.
Repent! Repent! now you have time,
For I was taken in my prime."

886 iv. Nancy,[7] born October 8th, 1785; died January 7th, 1872, aged 86, at King's Ferry, Cayuga Co., N. Y., at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Gibbs. Not married.

887 v. Roland,[7] born May 13th, 1788; died October 4th, 1813, at Lee, Mass., and was buried there; gravestone. He was a furrier; not married.

+888 vi. Hannah,[7] born September 24th, 1790; died November 10th, 1850; married James Wakefield.

+889 vii. Sophia,[7] born October 30th, 1792; died February 29th, 1860; married Leonard Olmstead.

Jethro[6] Thacher was a farmer and a cooper by trade; previous to July 15th, 1804 (when he and his wife were dismissed from church at Barnstable to church at Lee), he removed from Barnstable to Lee, Mass., on account of dissatisfaction with the Unitarian influence which pervaded the community about Barnstable and which influence had taken possession of the church where he and his wife worshipped. He made the removal in order that both he and his wife might enjoy the pastoral ministration of the Rev. Mr. Hyde. They established themselves at Lee on a farm and were active, earnest workers helping to build up a Christian community in that town. He was the first cooper in Lee; he purchased a farm on the Williams' grant, being the one subsequently owned by George Markham and afterwards forming a part of the plantation of Mr. Elizur Smith. In connection with his farm he worked at his trade of cooper and made all of the pails, churns and butter firkins and cider barrels for the town. He was very deaf and was remembered by some as taking his seat in the pulpit on the Sabbath with Dr. Hyde and standing by his side during the prayer and preaching with his ear trumpet directed towards the minister so that he might catch every word that fell from the lips of the divine he so much revered. He died in 1826 and was succeeded in the cooper business by Joseph Chadwick. Jethro[6] Thacher's cattle mark as recorded at Lee was "crop off left ear and a slit in end of each ear."

326. FEAR[6] THACHER (John,[5] Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, February 1st, 1748; died at Portland, Maine, March 26th (or 28th), 1829; the date March 20th, 1829, as given under record No. 104 is incorrect. his wife were buried at Portland. He was a son of Nathaniel Goodwin (married 1746) and his wife Lydia Le Baron (daughter of Lazarus Le Baron), of Plymouth, Mass.

John Goodwin, Sr., married, first, at Plymouth, Mass., May 12th, 1774, to Hannah Jackson, born ——, 1755, at Plymouth; died March 8th, A. D. 1777, at Plymouth, in the 22nd year of her age and was buried there on Burial Hill; gravestone. She was a daughter of Thomas Jackson (born ——, 1729; died September 19th, 1794; married ——, 1751), and Sarah Taylor (born ——, 1733; died October 27th, 1811, aged 78), of Plymouth, Mass.

2. Sally, born October 23rd, 1776; died ——; married Salisbury Jackson.

In reference to No. 896, Davis' Landmarks of Plymouth, p. 119, gives a John Goodwin as marrying Dorothy Gibbs, of Sandwich; but he does not locate him as a son of John Goodwin who married Fear[6] Thacher (either by his first or second wife) and leaves his parentage undetermined. The Le Baron Genealogy is the only authority for making him the son of John and Fear[6] (Thacher) Goodwin.

327. JOHN[6] THACHER (John,[5] Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, December 29th, 1751; he lived at Barnstable, where he was Deputy Marshal and High Sheriff, and where he died July 4th, 1833, aged 81 years, 7 months, and was probably buried there, although I have found no record of his gravestone. He married 1st at —— (recorded at Barnstable), September 26th, 1773, to Hannah Bourne, born ——, 1755, at Sandwich, Mass., probably; died January 1st, 1785, in 30th year of her age, at Barnstable, Mass. She was a daughter of Benjamin Freeman, Jr. (born September 9th, 1725; died January 5th, 1784-5, aged 58; married November 11th, 1756), and his wife, Sarah (Nye) Freeman (born ——, 1737; died January 22nd, 1790, aged 53), of Sandwich, Mass.

899 iii. Benjamin,[7] born May 20th, 1786; died June 10th, 1832, in Canada. He is believed to have been apprenticed to a shoemaker in Brewster, but left there and went to Canada. Whether he married or to whom I do not know, but he is said to have left a daughter Hannah[8] Thacher whose intention of marriage to Joseph Long was published December 14th, 1833, and whom she married April 1st, 1834. In 1869 this Joseph Long and his wife were living in Brewster Woods.

900 iv. James,[7] born January 28th, 1789; died September 1st, 1821, drowned while crossing Barnstable Harbor, and was buried in Goodspeed's Hill West Burying-ground; gravestone. Not married. A notice of his death was published September 8th, 1821, in the Independent Chronicle and Boston Patriot.

John[6] Thacher married, a third time, at Hanover, Mass., by Rev. John Mellen, September 23rd (or 29th), 1795, to Mary (Polly) Simmons, born September 26th, 1755, at Hanover, Mass.; died April 28th, 1814, at Barnstable, and was buried there in Goodspeed's Hill West Burying-ground; gravestone. She was a daughter of Joshua Simmons (born ——, 1715, or 1717, at Scituate, Mass.; died March 3rd, 1807, aged 88, at Hanover, Mass.; married November 11th, 1742), and Elizabeth Dillingham (born ——, 1721; died July 18th, 1797, aged 76), of Hanover, Mass.

Children: None.

John[6] Thacher married, a fourth time, at Barnstable. September 5th, 1814, to Sabra (Hatch) Hinckley (widow of Freeman Hinckley, whom she married May 17th, 1771, and by whom she had no issue; he born June 27th, 1757; died ——, early; he was a son of John and Bethiah (Freeman) Hinckley), born ——, 1761 (see age at and date of death), at Falmouth, Mass.; died Barnstable, February 15th, 1834, aged 73 years, and was buried in Goodspeed's Hill West Burying-ground; gravestone. Her parentage is not known to me.

Children: None.

John[6] Thacher appears to have been a popular character judging from the number of offices he held. He was Deputy Marshal and High Sheriff besides holding other minor positions. The following account of him was furnished by his son, the late Samuel Thacher, of Barnstable, a short time before the latter's death:— "The first United States Mail between Boston and Barnstable commenced running in 1792. John[6] Thacher, of Barnstable, contracted with the Government to perform the service, and made the first trip October 1st of that year. Timothy Pickering, of Pennsylvania (not the Massachusetts Pickering) was Postmaster-General and Jonathan Hastings our Postmaster in Boston. The arrangement was made through the influence of Shearjashub Bourne, the then member of Congress for the Barnstable District. The Post Rider used to start on horseback from Barnstable, and arriving at Plymouth in the evening, stopped at that town overnight. The next night he arrived at Boston, at the sign of the "Lion" on Washington street, and delivered his mail to the Postmaster. Starting from Boston Thursday morning he arrived at Barnstable Friday night. The mail was easily carried in one side of a pair of saddle bags; the other side was used for carrying packages. For this service the contractor was paid one dollar a day while in actual service. This sum looks pretty small beside the amounts now paid for government service; but, small as it was, it was severely censured then for its extravagance. Moses Hallett, who seems to have been a champion of reform and retrenchment in his day, thought the sum paid exhorbitant, and predicted that the government would go to ruin; but his opposition was unavailing, and it is safe to assert that a less sum was never paid for this same service."

In the recording of the marriage of John[6] Thacher with Polly Simmons both in Davis' Landmarks of Plymouth, p. 244, and the History of Hanover, Mass., p. 373, his name is given as John H. Thacher. I do not know whether he had a middle name beginning with H or not.

328. DR. JAMES[6] THACHER (John[5] Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, February 14th, 1754; he resided at Plymouth, Mass.; he died at Plymouth, May 26th, 1844, aged 90, and was buried there on Burial Hill; gravestone. His date of death is variously given by divers authority as May 23rd, 24th and 26th, 1844, but May 26th seems to have been the correct date. He married at Bridgewater, Mass., April 28th, 1785, to Susannah Haywood, born 20th ——, 1757 (see age at and date of death), at Bridgewater, Mass. (probably); died Plymouth, Mass., May 17th, 1842, aged 86, and was buried there on Burial Hill; gravestone. She was a daughter of Nathan Hayward (born ——, 1720; died ——, 1794, aged 74; married ——, 1748, about), and Susannah Latham (born ——, 1727; died ——; daughter of Charles Latham), of Bridgewater, Mass.

908 vi. Catherine,[7] born ——, 1797; died February 10th, 1800, at Plymouth, aged 3 years, and was buried on Burial Hill; gravestone.

Dr. James[6] Thacher was a public-spirited and distinguished citizen, and died May 26th, 1844, aged 90 years. We quote from his memoirs concerning himself (written July, 1834), a part of which quotation may be considered particularly applicable to the present times, viz:—"Having devoted a few years to the study of medicine, under the direction of my patron, Dr. Abner Hersey, of Barnstable; and having imbibed a good share of the pure principles of the whigs and patriots of the day, I resolved to test my courage in the great rebellion of 1775. In this service (i. e., Military Service) I continued seven years and a half and participated in the glorious consummation of Independence. Since that period about half a century has been devoted to the practice of medicine, no less laborious both to the body and mind, than my military career. It is through the favor of the power from on high that I am yet among the living, a monument of a hoary head crowned with innumerable undeserved blessings. While yet I live let me not live in vain. But God forbid that I should ever totter under the painful apprehension of witnessing my country's ruin. I have a recollection of days fraught with wondrous things and wondrous results: but the things of the present day are no less wondrous. I have seen our precious liberties and freedom wrested from the hands of the oppressors by the immense sacrifice of lives, of treasure, of perils and of sufferings. How many have I seen, at the hour of death exclaiming, 'I die for my country.' I see now the fair heritage of our fathers in imminent danger of being sacrificed at the shrine of the reckless, sordid spirit of party interest. I have seen public offices courting competent men to fill them, and I have seen them filled with men who with a religious conscientiousness acquitted themselves of duty. But this seems already to be an antiquated morality; for now I see unworthy, incompetent men seeking and laying claim to public offices as a reward for desecration and unfaithfulness. My fellow citizens, I have seen the days that tried men's souls. I claim the privilege of age to forewarn you that unless you view your elective franchise in a light more precious than heretofore, ere long you will have no office to bestow; all will be anarchy and confusion, ruin and despair. Oh! how great would be my consolation, could my benediction avail for the amelioration of my beloved country's welfare."

Dr. James[6] Thacher was a prolific writer and amongst other works he was the author of the following publications:—

Military Journal of the Revolutionary War, pp. 303, 1823 and 1827, Boston, and 1854, Hartford, Conn.; History of Town of Plymouth, Mass., from First Settlement in 1620, p. 382; Boston, 1832, and Boston, 1835, p. 401; American Medical Biography, 2 vols., 1828; Indian Biography; Account of Iron Manufacture; Pen Portrait of George Washington; Letter dated December 28th, 1825, Relative to the "Newburg Letters," see N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., Vol. XLII, p. 165; The New Dispensary; On Hydrophobia; Modern Practice of Physic; Americans Orchardist, 1822; On Management of Bees, 1831; On Demonology, Ghosts, Etc., 1831; and sundry other written communications to societies and periodicals, among which may be mentioned his article on the "origin of the Thacher family," which appeared in the New England Magazine for 1834.

Dr. James[6] Thacher was the First Librarian of the Plymouth, Mass., Historical Society; and among the antiquities of the Pilgrim Society of Massachusetts is to be found his portrait taken while Librarian and Cabinet Keeper of that Society. This portrait (a reproduction of which accompanies this sketch) was painted by Mr. Frothingham in 1841, by order of the Society, pursuant to a vote expressing the Society's sense of the valuable services that Dr. Thacher had rendered in promoting the objects of said society. Dr. Thacher was appointed Librarian and Cabinet Keeper of the Pilgrim Society at its organization and his indefatigable efforts contributed largely to the promotion of its objects. The following extract from a report of a committee of that Society indicates the sense entertained of his services:—"The undersigned to whom was referred the report of Dr. James Thacher respecting the iron railing around 'Fore-father Rock' report that the Society is indebted to Dr. Thacher for the beautiful and costly monument which, while it secures 'Pilgrim Rock' from further depredations records for the benefit of posterity the names of our fathers and affords a pleasing subject of contemplation to many strangers who visit us."

From Heitman's Register of Officers in the Continental Army, 1775-1783, we obtain the following synopsis of his military career:—

THACHER, JAMES, Massachusetts.

From the Census of United States Pensioners, 1840, we have the following:—

From the General Catalogue of Dartmouth College (1769-1900) we obtain the following record:—

M. D., Harvard College, 1810.
Born February 14th, 1754; died May 26th, 1844; Physician and Surgeon in Revolutionary War.

From various sources his date of death is given as May 23rd, 24th, or 26th, and March 26th, 1844, with the preponderance of evidence in favor of May 26th, 1844, aged 90.

From the published inscriptions of Burial Hill, Plymouth, we obtain the following taken from stones inclosed in a plot by an iron railing; stone white marble in fine condition, but somewhat moss-grown:—

"In memory of James Thacher, M. D., a surgeon in the Army during the War of Revolution; afterwards for many years a practicing physician in the County of Plymouth; the author of several historical and scientific works: esteemed of all men for piety and benevolence, public spirit and private kindness. 335. ABIGAIL[6] LEWIS (Fear[5] Thacher, Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, September 2nd, 1742; died ——, at ——; married Fairfield, Conn., December 1st, 1763, to Andrew Hill, born Fairfield, October 22nd, 1739; baptized Fairfield, Conn., October 28th, 1739; died October 25th, 1769, aged 30 years; graduated Yale College, 1759; his wife and child survived him. He married December 1st, 1763, Abigail, daughter of Nathaniel Lewis of Barnstable, Mass., and died October 25th, 1769, at age of 30. His wife survived him with one son. He was first marked as deceased in the Triennial Catalogue of 1775; but in the catalogue of 1805 (by accident) the star (indicating death) is wanting. In 1820 (probably also by accident) his name is italicised, which would indicate ordination to the ministry.

He lived for a while in Fairfield and removed and settled at Harpersfield, N. Y., where he died January 12th, 1812. He was a Captain in the Revolutionary War. He was a son of Peter Penfield who came from England and settled in Fairfield, Conn., by his wife Mary Allen, whom he married in Fairfield, May 28th, 1730.

931 ix. Benjamin,[7] born January 19th, 1787; died August 16th, 1805; not married.

The Penfield Mss. genealogy, which was loaned to me by Miss Frances J. Eggleston of Oswego, N. Y., and which was in all particulars a most carefully compiled volume, is erroneous in stating that Peter Penfield, Jr., who married Hannah[6] Lewis, was born September 25th, 1743; as he was baptized September 18th, 1743, I have placed his birth September 15th instead of 25th. The same authority states that his son Joseph[7] Penfield (No. 930) was born in 1785; but as he was baptized October 7th, 1781, I have changed the year of birth to 1781.

337. NATHANIEL[6] LEWIS (Fear[5] Thacher, Col. John,[4] Hon. Col. John,[3] Antony,[2] Rev. Peter[1]), born Barnstable, June 5th, 1747. Beyond this date of birth I know nothing positive about him. He was the only son of his father, Nathaniel Lewis, who lived and died in Barnstable, but whose daughters for some reason unexplained, married and settled in Fairfield, Conn. It is fair to presume that Nathaniel[6] Lewis inherited his father's property in Barnstable and settled and married there; and therefore the following record obtained from Hinckley's copy of Barnstable Records (in N. E. Hist. Gen. Soc.) may be the record of the above Nathaniel[6] Lewis (No. 337), viz:—"Nathaniel Lewis of Barnstable and Mary Taylor of Yarmouth published intention of marriage at Barnstable, April 25th, 1772." This date of marriage is consistent with his date of birth, June 5th, 1747; as he would in 1772 be about 25 years of age. Cattle mark of Nathaniel Lewis recorded at Barnstable, February 5th, 1774. I think this Barnstable Nathaniel Lewis and Nathaniel[6] Lewis (No. 337) are one and the same person and that by the above recorded marriage he had at least one son, for from the Hinckley copy of Barnstable records we obtain the following, viz:—"Children of Nathaniel Lewis, Jr., and Margaret his wife recorded at Barnstable.

1. Mary Fear, born April 23rd, 1806.
2. Margaret Lesvin, born November 9th, 1808.
3. Jane Taylor, born June 5th, 1812."

What makes this hypothesis probable is the names of the children; for if the Nathaniel Lewis of Barnstable was identical with Nathaniel Lewis (No. 337) above, then he married as above recorded Mary Taylor and had a son Nathaniel[7] Lewis, who married Margaret —— (?); and their first child was named Mary Fear Lewis, in whose baptismal name we note the baptismal names of her grandmother Mary Taylor and of her great-grandmother Fear[5] Thacher. The second child, Margaret Lesvin[8] Lewis, in her baptismal name repeats the baptismal name of her mother Margaret and in the second name Lesvin suggests the maiden surname of her mother, which is not positively known to me. The third child, Jane Taylor[8] Lewis in her baptismal name repeats the maiden surname of her grandmother Taylor and in the name Jane suggests that her Taylor great-grandmother may have been Jane Taylor. This is plausible, but, after all, from my positive knowledge is but a mere likely conjecture. There is no record of the death or burial of Nathaniel[6] Lewis in Barnstable and it is possible that he may have removed therefrom as well as his son, Nathaniel[7] Lewis.

JANEWAY FAMILY.

CONTRIBUTED BY ORRA E. MONNETTE.

Mr. Orra E. Monnette, of Los Angeles, Cal., a member of this Society, is collecting data relative to the Janeway family, with the intention of finally publishing same.

Two branches of the family came to America, one headed by William Janeway, who brought the Charter of the Trinity Church, New York City, and was a vestryman there in 1698. He married Anietje De Key, the widow of Henricus De Meyer, and is the ancestor of the New York and New Jersey families. The other was headed by James Janeway, who was born in London, Aug. 31, 1795, married there Caroline Russell, and came to America in 1832 and settled in Ohio. The two branches are related and search is being made in London for the connection. During this search the following items were copied by a correspondent from the Parish Register of All Hallows Church, London Wall:

MACHACKEMECK GRAVESTONE INSCRIPTIONS, PORT JERVIS, ORANGE COUNTY, N. Y.

Contributed by Royden Woodward Vosburgh.

A copy of the gravestones in the Machackemeck Burying Ground was made by the Daughters of the Revolution in the month of June, 1908. This copy has been revised and corrected by comparison with the gravestones with the assistance of W. H. Nearpass. It is not a verbatim copy. All verses, epitaphs and words like "Sacred to the memory" are omitted. The punctuation has been made uniform. In the older inscriptions some of the pecularities of spelling and wording have been preserved. A large number of the gravestones shown on the plan are footstones. They are designated by the letter F. and whenever possible the headstone to which each one belongs is indicated. A considerable number of the stones are without inscription; a few are so far gone as to be entirely illegible; these are omitted.

Sadler Cemetery.

The inscriptions were copied September 30, 1876, and include all in the Cemetery. At that time the grounds were in a neglected condition, and but few interments had been made recently. There had been many removals to other burying grounds and a few years later the remains of all that were interred there were removed to Greenridge Cemetery in the same Village. The Sadler Cemetery was the first and oldest burying ground within the Village Corporation, and was sometimes called the "First Cemetery." It was located on the high land on the east side of Nelson Street, a few rods south of Spring Avenue and overlooking the High Rock, Star and Red Springs. Inscriptions were copied by Edward D. Harris.

WARING CEMETERY.

The Waring Cemetery is a small private enclosure situated about two miles west of the Village of Saratoga Springs, on the north side of Church Street. The following are all of the inscriptions remaining there, other stones having been removed to Green Ridge Cemetery. The first and second epitaphs are upon one stone, a thick Connecticut sand stone, well chiselled, and in excellent preservation. All the other stones are of white marble.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN JONES AND JOHN MASON, compiled by Marie Caroline de Trobriand Post (Mrs. Charles Alfred Post) 1913. Quarto, cloth, pp. 41. Printed for private circulation. No price stated.

This work does not pretend to be a complete genealogy of the descendants of John Jones and John Mason, but simply a record of the marriages and births which make up the records of individual descendants, with tables to show the family relationship in each instance. It is a most excellent contribution to the genealogy of the descendants of the above mentioned progenitors. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

HISTORY OF THE PARISH OF THE INCARNATION, New York City, 1852-1912, by J. Newton Perkins. Published by the Senior Warden. Frank B. Howard Press, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1912. 8vo, cloth, pp. 293, including index. Illustrated.

This work as its title indicates is purely historical and as such it is beyond criticism. It contains chapters on the Beginning of the Parish; The Harwood Period 1852-1854; The Montgomery Period 1855-1874; The Brooks Period 1875-1895; The Grosvenor Period 1895-1911 and the Present Rectorate 1912 and includes biographical sketches of Rectors, Wardens and Vestrymen and Assistant Ministers. It cannot fail to be highly appreciated as an addition to the Ecclesiastical history of the Diocese of the P. E. Church. From a genealogical standpoint we feel compelled to state that its value would have been immensely enbanced if it had been enlarged to contain the Vital Records of the Church, i. e. births, baptisms, marriages and deaths, and it is to be hoped that the enterprise behind this volume will be induced to publish a supplement containing in full the vital records of the parish down to date.

When this work is considered in connection with "Men of Mark in Connecticut" a publication covering the same ground (5 vols. 8vo) reviewed in the July 1913 Record, we may say that the state of Connecticut is well written up in this particular field as compared with other states of the Union.

History of Wallingford, Vermont, by Walter Thorpe, Minister of the Congregational Church, Wallingford, Vt. 8vo, cloth, illustrated, pp. 222. No index. Press of Tuttle Co., Rutland, Vt., 1911. Price $2.50.

An excellent historical publication and as such is highly recommended to historical libraries and incidentally to genealogical libraries. We regret to state that from a genealogical standpoint the work falls short of our hopes and expectations. In the day of revived interest in genealogy, it is regretted that a work of this nature fails to include within its limits the Town and Church Vital records of the locality. Such addition to works of this character increases their genealogical value many fold and moreover enhances the sale of such works to an extent that more than repays for the additional expense of preparation and publication.

At the end of the book is a good index of names; the Will of Joseph[2] Alden and an inventory of his estate; names of Aldens from Mass. and Conn. in the Revolution; Post Offices in the U. S. named Alden; Alden graduates in some of the principal colleges; the Pilgrim Compact with list of signers, and a list of passengers on the Mayflower.

THE LIFE AND PUBLIC SERVICES OF ANDREW HASWELL GREEN. By John Foord. Illustrated. Octavo, cloth, pp. 322. Doubleday, Page & Co. 1913.

This excellent memoir has been compiled from diaries, letters and public papers of its subject, supplemented by the copious references to his public career contained in the newspapers, and will be found exceedingly interesting and instructive to young men just entering public life.

THE PERRYS OF RHODE ISLAND AND TALES OF SILVER CREEK; THE BOSWORTH-BOURN-PERRY HOMESTEAD. By Rev. Calbraith Bourn Perry, D. D., S. A. R. Illlustrated. Octavo, cloth and ½-leather, pp. 115, with 67 full page illustrations. Vol. I. Price, cloth $3.00, ½-leather $4.50. Tobias A. Wright, 150 Bleecker St., N. Y. 1913.

This book deals largely with the ancestors and descendants of Com. Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of Lake Erie, but there is much in it about the Bosworths, the Bourns, the Rodgers, the De Wolfs and other families collaterally related to the Perrys, and some account of the Wallaces and Craigie-Wallaces of Scotland and Ireland. The illustrations are largely family portraits and heirlooms. The book is beautifully printed and bound and very attractive. Volume II in preparation, and will soon be ready for the publisher.

HISTORY OF ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH IN THE HIGHLANDS, GARRISON, N. Y., including, up to 1840, St. Peter's Church of the Manor of Cortlandt, by E. Clowes Chorley, B. D., member of the Am. Hist. Assn. Printed by Edwin S. Gorham, N. Y. 1912. Cloth, pp. 434, with illustrations and index.

This interesting story of churches in an interesting section of this State has been thoroughty well handled by the author, who deserves credit for careful historical research and judicious arrangement of material which in itself alone merits the best treatment, for beyond its connection with the church, it elucidates numerous points which have not been given heretofore their true value. Beyond that the biographical and genealogical data with which the work abounds will appeal to all students in these three branches of study. The chapter devoted to vital statistics is a valuable feature. So that really the work is divided into historical, genealogical and necrological parts, which when collated form a totality of worthy endeavor.

Especial attention is drawn to the fact that the work was compiled from manuscript sources and contains hitherto unpublished and important documents of the Revolutionary period, notably a letter of John Jay. Many notable individuals were in one way or another connected with these two churches, portraits of some of whom embellish the work. H. S. M.

A GENEALOGY AND RECORD OF THE MARSHALL FAMILY with Haskell, Boutwell, Barrett, Carpenter, Holbrooke, Joslin, Kingsbury, Maurice, Stevens, Read, Wadsworth, White and Allied Families. By Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burnside Kingsbury. 8vo, cloth and paper, pp. 103.

This book contains full and reliable records and biographical sketches; gives the descendants of David Marshall (1772–1831) of Tewksbury and Lunenburg, Mass., and traces to some extent the descent from Sergeant John Marshall (1645–1702) of Boston and Billerica, Mass. There are forty-five cuts, including the David Marshall homestand in Lunenburg, and a good index. The edition is limited. Price per copy: post paid, paper, $1.75, cloth, $2.00. Address, Frank B. Kingsbury, Box 394, Proctor, Vt.

FOR PUBLICATION

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY

WILL CONSIDER FOR PUBLICATION IN THE

NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD

THE OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE SOCIETY

1st. Manuscript genealogical records of New York City or State families, embodying record of the original settler in New York and the first five (5) succeeding generations of said settler's descendants.

2nd. Manuscript genealogical records of families not of New York origin, embodying record of the original settler and the first five (5) succeeding generations of his descendants—provided that such material submitted for acceptance has not been previously published elsewhere, or where such articles make material and unquestioned corrections in matter previously published.

3rd. Articles on family Coats-of-Arms giving authentic demonstration of the right of American families to use such Arms. Colored or engraved plates of such demonstrated Arms will be taken under consideration for publication to accompany such articles.

4th. Verified and complete records of old churches in New York City and State, and in territory contiguous thereto, including vital records of births, baptisms, marriages, deaths and burials.

5th. Verified and complete transcriptions of old burial ground inscriptions from New York City and State burying grounds, and from territory taken contiguous thereto.

6th. Biographical and genealogical sketches of individual ancestors, to be accompanied by a reproduction of portrait and signature of such ancestors.

7th. Auto-biographical sketches, with genealogical addenda, of living Americans of national reputation. These articles are intended to permit living men of reputable prominence to secure the publication of sketches of themselves which bear the authority of their personal sanction.

Manuscripts submitted for approval must be in form to go to press, and must be written in easily deciphered writing—preferably type-written—on but one side of the paper with a margin of one inch at top and left hand side of page.

Purely genealogical manuscript must be arranged in the proper genealogical order and sequence and numbered as to generations, &c., after the manner adopted by the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record.

Those who have any such manuscripts, and who desire to have the same published, are invited to submit the same to this Society before making arrangements for publication elsewhere—as if the material submitted for consideration is original and of value an arrangement for the publication of the same satisfactory to the compiler can undoubtedly be made with this Society.

PEDIGREE CHARTS.

226 West 58th Street, New York.

This Society has for sale official forms of genealogical charts called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" charts. They are each paper covered books of 11 x 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of names of ancestors in successive generations. The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:
Printed on Bond paper, paper cover:

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Printed on Extra Heavy Linen Ledger paper, bound in stiff cloth covers:
To Members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.25 Double Charts, $2.00

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.50 Double Charts, $2.50

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.

Department of Registration of Pedigrees.

This Society has established a Department for the Official Registration of Pedigrees, which Pedigrees will subsequently be published in volumes, from time to time, as soon as the pedigrees filed are sufficient in number to justify publication in volume form.

Each applicant for Registration of Pedigree who has paid the fee in full will receive a copy of the volume containing his or her pedigree, without further cost.

The opportunity is here offered for any or all of those desiring to perpetuate the knowledge of their ancestry along any line of descent, to have the same Officially Registered, and subsequently published for the benefit of posterity.

Literature explaining in detail the method of conducting this department will be mailed, upon application, to all interested in the plan, by addressing

PEDIGREE CHARTS.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY
226 West 58th Street, New York.

This Society has for sale official forms of genealogical charts called "Register of Pedigrees." These registers are of two varieties, called "single" and "double" charts. They are each paper covered books of 11 x 16 inches in size, properly ruled and printed for the insertion of names of ancestors in successive generations. The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:

Printed on Bond paper, paper cover:

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Printed on Extra Heavy Linen Ledger paper, bound in stiff cloth covers:

To Members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.25 Double Charts, $2.00

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.50 Double Charts, $2.50

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.

The single charts consist of 17 pages, and when filled in will give all of the ancestors in all ramifications for 9 generations, arranged so that the family name of each of the 16 great-great-grandparents occupies a page. Family names appear on the marginal index which is formed by the indentation of each leaf. The back of each leaf is arranged for special memoranda concerning the persons named on the page facing it.

The double charts are practically two single charts combined. The object being to devote the first half of the chart to the registration of the complete pedigree of the male line, the second half for a like registration of the female line, and the double chart therefore provides for the registration of 10 generations in both male and female lines.

The price of these charts to members of this Society is as follows:
Printed on Bond paper, paper cover:

Single Charts, 75 cts. Double Charts, $1.50

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.00 Double Charts, $2.00

Printed on Extra Heavy Linen Ledger paper, bound in stiff cloth covers:
To Members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.25 Double Charts, $2.00

To those who are not members of the Society:

Single Charts, $1.50 Double Charts, $2.50

Members of the Society, or others who purchase these Charts and fill them in as fully as possible and present them to the Librarian of the Society for filing in the Society's Library, will receive a new one in exchange therefor without additional cost. These charts may be purchased by application to the Librarian.

It is the desire of the Trustees that the members will supply themselves with these registers, fill them out as far as possible and file them with the Society. When received these will be bound in volumes, fully indexed, and will thus form a record of inestimable value to the Society.

Those who have in their possession full information as to their individual ancestry are especially urged to obtain these Charts, fill them in and file them with the Society, as information of this nature is very frequently lost to posterity owing to negligence on the part of those possessing it to make record thereof, in special depositories provided for that purpose.
